WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF GERMANY SHOULD WIN

Rudyard Kipling Says the Western Hemisphere Would Offer no Refuge From the German Oppression

Mr. Rudyard Kipling, in a speech at Lancashire a few days ago on the war, said in part:

"Turn your mind for a moment to the idea of a conquering Germany. You need not go far to see what it would mean to us. In Belgium at this hour several million Belgians are making war material or fortifications for their conquerors. They are given enough food to support life as the German thinks it should be supported. By the way, I believe the United States of America supplies a large part of that food. In return, they are compelled to work at the point of the bayonet. If they object, they are shot. Their factories, their houses and the public buildings have long ago been gutted and everything in them that was valuable or useful has been packed up and sent to Germany. They have no more property and no more rights than cattle, and they cannot lift a hand to protect the honor of their women. And less can give, will be accepted by Germany as binding. She has broken her own most solemn oaths, pledges and obligations and by the very fact of her existence she is bound to trust nothing and to recognize nothing except immediate superior force, backed by illimitable cruelty. (Hear, hear.) So, you see, there are no terms possible. Realize, too, if the Allies are beaten, there will be no spot on the globe where a soul can escape from the domination of this enemy of mankind. There has been childish talk that the western hemisphere would offer a refuge from oppression. Put that thought from your mind. If the Allies were defeated, Germany would not need to send a single battleship over the Atlantic. She would issue an order and it would be obeyed. Civilization would be bankrupt and the western world would be taken over with the rest of the wreckage by Germany the receiver. So, you see, there is no retreat possible. There are no terms and no retreat in this war. It must go forward and with those men of England who are eligible for service, but who have not yet offered themselves, the decision of the war rests. (Cheers)!"

RUDYARD KIPLING.

than a year ago they were one of the most civilized and prosperous of the nations of the earth. There has been nothing like the horror of their fate in all history and this system is in full working order within fifty miles of the English coast. Where I live I can hear the guns that are trying to extend it. The same system exists in such parts of France and Poland as are in German hands. But whatever has been dealt out to Belgium, France and Poland will be England's fate tenfold if we fail to subdue the Germans. (Hear, hear.) Then we shall be broken, plundered, robbed and enslaved like Belgium will be but the first part of the matter. There are special reasons in the German mind why we should be morally and mentally shamed and dishonored beyond any other people—why we should be degraded till those who survive may scarcely dare to look each other in the face. Be perfectly sure, therefore, that if Germany is victorious every refinement of outrage which is within the compass of the German imagination will be inflicted on us in every aspect of our lives. Over and above this no pledge we can offer, no guarantee we can give, will be accepted by Germany as binding. She has broken her own most solemn oaths, pledges and obligations and by the very fact of her existence she is bound to trust nothing and to recognize nothing except immediate superior force, backed by illimitable cruelty. (Hear, hear.) So, you see, there are no terms possible. Realize, too, if the Allies are beaten, there will be no spot on the globe where a soul can escape from the domination of this enemy of mankind. There has been childish talk that the western hemisphere would offer a refuge from oppression. Put that thought from your mind. If the Allies were defeated, Germany would not need to send a single battleship over the Atlantic. She would issue an order and it would be obeyed. Civilization would be bankrupt and the western world would be taken over with the rest of the wreckage by Germany the receiver. So, you see, there is no retreat possible. There are no terms and no retreat in this war. It must go forward and with those men of England who are eligible for service, but who have not yet offered themselves, the decision of the war rests. (Cheers)!"

Miss Ratte, General Supervisor of Girls' Work in the Presbyterian Church, spoke, her theme the mother care that all the sick desire. She was glad that "her girls" had now a place where they might be healed by a mother-doctor.

Mrs. Torrington, head of the Finance Committee, said they would be glad of even the smallest contribution towards reducing a debt on the new building, and hoped that someone would follow Miss M. White, Jarvis street, and Corinthian Chapter No. 12 Eastern Star, who have furnished and become responsible for wards which bear their name.

The hospital has twenty-one beds, in private, semi-private and public wards, is set in the midst of a lawn and shade trees, five doors north of College St. has a frontage of one hundred and nine feet and a depth of two hundred. The nurse's silent signal has been installed, the dining-room furnished, and Dr. Hastings has pronounced it all "very good."

Tea was dispensed on the lawn after the opening ceremonies, many prominent people being there to enjoy both the formal and social life.

GAVE HIM A PILL

The story is being told of a New Brunswick soldier who was suffering from an ingrowing toe nail and went to the regimental surgeon for treatment. The latter after examining the offending member prescribed a pill for the patient.

The only aim in life some people seem to have is to throw bouquets at themselves.

SCENE FROM THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER
AT THE OPERA HOUSE FRIDAY NIGHT, JULY 23RD

PRESIDENT READY FOR ANSWER TO GERMANY

New Haven, July 19.—Concluding the longest vacation which he has enjoyed since his inauguration, President Wilson is en route to-night for the national capital, where he will arrive to-morrow morning before ten o'clock.

Mr. Wilson returns with the course which this country is to adopt toward Germany, fully determined, and to-morrow he will submit to Mr. Lansing, Secretary of State and other Cabinet officials, outlines of the note which will be sent to Berlin within a week.

The vicious attempt by a German submarine to sink the Orduna, of the Cunard line, may affect the temper of the answer which this country will make. That answer, will be a vigorous reaffirmation of the rights of this country as set forth in the previous note and the final demand that Germany submit a definite answer to them.

Bronzed and hardy after his three weeks in the Cornish Hills, Mr. Wilson was in excellent humor during the afternoon hours of his journey toward Washington. He shook hands with throngs of persons en route, all of whom greeted him with enthusiasm.

At New Haven the President had to wait forty minutes while he changed trains, and he improved the time waiting up and down the platform, followed by an admiring group. Past Assistant Surgeon Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N., his physician, sought some scales unavailingly, to decide a wager he has with the President that he has gained more weight than Dr. Grayson has. The wager, it must be explained, is a wager for the wager's sake—nothing more.

WE SEE WHAT YOU MEAN.

"Is she the kind of a girl that you can give your name to?"
"Oh, certainly—but not your right name!"—Yale Record.

PATRIOTISM?

Rather unexpected was the reply of a Mrs. Tommy Atkins to a gentleman who inquired if her husband was at the front.
"Yes," she said, "an' I 'ope 'e'll serve the Germans as 'e served me!"—Boston Transcript.

EXPLAINED.

Willie (reading the boxing news)—Pa, what does this mean, "He was a glutton for punishment?"
Papa—it refers to one of these fellows who says his forty years of married life seems but as a day.—Puck.

A Full Measure of Health is the reward of those who live right and eat right

And as fresh air, exercise, and good food are the principal factors, it is important that food be selected which contains the essential nutritive elements in well-balanced, easily digestible form.

In making the famous wheat and barley food.

Grape-Nuts

the malting of the barley brings out the diastase (the digestive element) while the long 20-hour baking breaks down the starch cells of the grains. Thus Grape-Nuts does not tax the digestion, but actually assists in the assimilation of other foods.
