

Eczema for Two Years Cured by Zam-Buk

Mrs. A. Warwick, Cooksville, Ont., writes:—"For two years I was badly troubled with eczema on my leg. I used various salves and lotions, but could get no relief. The sores kept getting worse until finally I was obliged to give up my work. I was in despair when one day a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. I did so, and I cannot tell you how pleased I was with the result. Zam-Buk quickly allayed the itching and smarting sensation, and finally healed the sores. My leg is now as well as ever."

Hundreds of others suffering from eczema have ended this disease by applying Zam-Buk, some even after suffering twenty-five years and spending hundreds of dollars on medical treatment. Zam-Buk is purely herbal. Unlike ordinary ointments it does not contain coloring matter, or coarse animal fats which in a short time go rancid. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or sore its herbal essences penetrate to the very root of the trouble, kill the disease, and relieve the pain.

Use Zam-Buk for cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, piles, pimples, chronic sores, chapped hands, frost bites, and all skin diseases and injuries. At all druggists and stores, or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price, 50c. box, 3 boxes $1.25. Send this article, name of paper, and 1c. stamp (for return postage) for FREE TRIAL BOX.

INDUCTION

A well known detective said, concerning a failure:

"I am afraid I didn't use sufficient induction in this case. wasn't as inductive as Jim Lanigan's daughter."

"Jim Lanigan is a drummer. He hardly home once in three months. He heard his little daughter on the front porch talking to the cat during his last home call."

"Kitty," she said, "I know all your little boys and girls, and I know your mamma and sister too who lives over at auntie's, but I ain't never seen your husband or your papa—I guess they must be drummers."

SHOULD ISSUE A THREE CENT STAMP

(From the Montreal Journal of Commerce.)

Even at this late day the Government at Ottawa would do well to meet the public desire by issuing a three-cent postage stamp. The need of this, which might have been seen from the beginning, has lately been pressed upon the Government by the St. John Board of Trade. If it is deemed right to impose a tax of three cents upon a letter, what earthly good reason can there be for requiring a man to use two or three stamps for the payment of the tax? The only reason that can be imagined was a desire on the part of some of the Ministers to mark a distinction, by separate accounts, between the ordinary postage and the "war tax," a reason much too weak to justify the annoyance connected with the system that was adopted. Even that poor reason cannot now be offered. The system proved so universally objectionable that the government felt obliged to give notice that ordinary stamps might be used instead of the special "war tax" stamps. The attempt to draw the line between the "war tax" and the ordinary postage has consequently proved a failure and been abandoned. Much of the new tax is being paid through the use of the common postage stamp, the sale of which swells the Post Office revenue. If it is of any importance to set forth how much the postal war tax yields the amount will have to be fixed by some process of estimate. Thus the only possible excuse for separate stamps has disappeared. Why then should there not be a three-cent stamp so that one stamp instead of two may be used. To some persons—especially those who have little or no correspondence—the matter may seem a small one. But it is one of the little things which are fruitful of unnecessary trouble and irritation to the general public.

CANADIAN WOMEN AND PARTY POLITICS

(Toronto Globe.)

The request of the members of the Women's Liberal Club of Toronto, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier should, as a Liberal leader, address them on political issues of the day, is a sign of the times at which all should rejoice. Women in Great Britain have long allowed themselves the privilege of taking part in election contests, and of contributing at all times to political controversies. British women keep themselves well informed on questions of the day in both home and foreign politics, and many of them are effective and popular public speakers.

One way in which women, who have not the same opportunities as men have of learning from one another by conversation, can improve their political education is to hear addresses on public questions by men of ability, experience, and culture. Speeches addressed to them should be quite different from those delivered by stump speakers in an election campaign. The latter are clever, well-informed, and interesting, but the ordinary election speech is apt to be flippant, shallow, and lacking in useful political information; the political addresses likely to prove helpful to women must be informing and convincing; reasonable comment on current events historically treated.

Sir Wilfrid, quite naturally, in his speech to the women yesterday, gave prominence to the present war. He called their attention to the British ideal of freedom as contrasted with the German deal of force; the former may have its disadvantages in the way of inefficiency, but free people will always manage to find means of overcoming this defect, without surrendering the advantages that only freedom can confer. He drew an interesting contrast also between the instinctive conservatism that makes British free men cling to institutions which have become useless instead of abolishing them, whereas the French people incline to make political progress by "revolutions" rather than by "reforms." These differentiations of political ideals and political methods are quite familiar to all readers of history, which women must be who wish to feel really safe in dealing with passing political conditions. A great historian once remarked that politics is the history of the present and history is the politics of the past.

Fable of a Land-tiller

Once there lived a farmer who worked so hard he was too tired to go to church on Sunday. His hired men refused to stand for the first and last call to breakfast at 3.45 a.m. and left before the end of the week. His wife milked the cows and loosed the garden because help was so hard to keep. The farmer voted against hard roads, and when he was elected to the School Board hired for teacher a young girl out of high school because she would take the job for thirty dollars a month. He squeezed the dollars so hard the girl screamed. He would not answer for a blind man.

When he was 65 he had a half section of good black land in the corn belt and money in the bank. He moved to town to enjoy a hard-earned rest. But his stomach was so tired of corn bread and bacon that it went on strike, and the farmer ate milk toast. He could predict a storm before the first cloud appeared, by the creaking of his joints, and he had to call for help to turn over in bed. One day his doctor said he had made enough money to buy a new touring car, and the farmer died of heart disease.

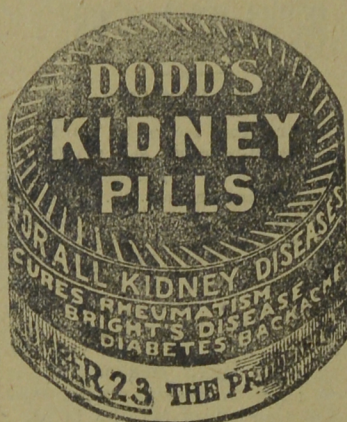

UNSTRUNG UNSTEADY SHAKY NERVES

MAY BE TONED UP BY USING MILBURN'S HEART and NERVE PILLS.

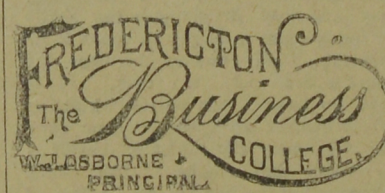

Mrs. John Harper, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for the heart and nervous system. I was confined to a grocery store for twelve years, and had to give up business, as I became terribly run down and nervous, and had heart trouble, and I am sure I am gaining very fast now. I feel that nothing did me any good until I tried your Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am positive they will cure me. The nerves of one hand would tremble and then seem to go numb so that I could not write or sew. Now my hand is quite steady, as you can see by my handwriting. This is a big change which delights me so much for I thought all was done that could be done. I was about to give up in despair when I tried this last remedy, and even after I had only taken half a box the change started to come."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will restore the enfeebled, enervated, exhausted, overworked system to full constitutional power.

Price, 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
