

WOMEN'S WEAKNESS AND HEALTH PERILS

Anaemia Comes, so Gratefully That the Victim Scarcely Realizes the Hold the Trouble Has Upon Her Until Almost in a Decline.

Woman's work is more wearing than man's because it last almost every waking hour. There is no eight or nine hour day for the breadwinner's wife, and often she toils under the greatest difficulty because her strength is below what it should be. The woman who is indoors all day is very often careless about what she eats and does not keep her blood up to the mark. It becomes thin and poor, which makes her weak, headachy, tired, breathless and liable to pains in the back and sides, the scourge of her sex. New blood will do wonders for the woman who is tired out, who aches all over when she rises in the morning and feels unaccountably depressed. She can gain new blood now, and drive away the pains and aches and tiredness if she will take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have worked marvels for other women and will do the same for you if you are weary, tired, depressed or suffering from backaches or sideaches. Mrs. Elmer Taylor, Calgary, Alta., says: "I was so run down with anaemia that I could scarcely walk without aid. I was not able to leave the house. I had no color, no appetite, and was constantly troubled with headaches, dizzy spells and a general disinclination to move about to do anything. My friends did not think I would get better and even the doctor was apprehensive. I was constantly taking medicine, but it did not do me a particle of good. One day a friend asked if I had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so, almost as a forlorn hope. After I had used a few boxes there was a decided change for the better, and people began to ask what I was taking, the change was so noticeable. As I continued the pills my color came back, I could eat my meals regularly, the headaches and dizzy spells ceased. I gained in weight and took a new interest in life, my cure being complete. I have told many sickly women and girls what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me and urged

THE REMEDY.

At one of the uptown picture theatres the other night an illustrated news service was shown, the war pictures being preceded by President Wilson's request that all partisan demonstrations be avoided.

The first war picture showed General von Montag of the German army in East Prussia coming down a highway at the head of his staff, all mounted.

Instantly a paten of the house near the front clapped his hands vigorously and noisily.

This was followed by a storm of hisses and cries of "Put him out."

The hand-clapping promptly stopped and then a voice in the middle of the house, a voice with an unmistakable Irish accent, said very distinctly:

"Send him to night school—he can't read th' proclamation."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

USED BY THE ARMY

The full band arrangement of the 26th New Brunswick Battalion March has been placed, by order of Lord Kitchener, with a hundred military bands in Great Britain, and fifty copies are being sent to Paris this week, under instructions from the War Minister of France, for the bands of the French army. This march, which is a local composition, contains as its title "My Own Canadian Home," and has the distinction of being the only regimental march composed for and bearing the distinctive name of an overseas battalion in the present war. The edition is entirely complimentary.

OUR DUTY IS TO PROSECUTE WAR

(From The Toronto Globe of May 10.)
Hon. Dr. William Pugsley, M.P. for St. John, New Brunswick, and former minister of public works, who was in Toronto yesterday, gave his views of the political situation to The Globe. In the course of a short interview he declared:

"At the beginning of last week I think it had been fully decided to have an election in June, but owing very likely to the strong protests which were voiced from all sections of the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, my belief, after what I heard at Ottawa yesterday, is that more prudent and patriotic counsels have prevailed and that an election has been indefinitely postponed.

ONE DUTY IS PARAMOUNT.

"With regard to the propriety of holding an election at the present time, I think there can be but one opinion, that it would be nothing short of a crime at a period when it is most desirable that the whole people should be united in making every possible effort for the defence of the empire, and also contributing the various funds which are being raised for the comfort of the soldiers, particularly the wounded, as well as for the families of those who have gone to the front. It would be utterly inexcusable to force a political contest upon the people of Canada, which would necessarily, to a very considerable extent, divide them into hostile camps.

NO PARTY CONSIDERATIONS.

"In expressing this opinion I am not at all influenced by the question of party success or failure, my own view being that if an election were to take place now there would be such a strong feeling of resentment against the course of the government that this fact alone would materially assist in carrying the Liberal standard to victory. But the question is not to be looked at from a party standpoint, but from the interests of the country as a whole, and by the interests of the country I mean not only the interests of Canada but those of the empire as well."

Dr. Pugsley is on a business trip and leaves Toronto for Detroit.

BABIES MURDERED BY GERMAN PIRATES

London, May 10.—The illustrated Sunday Herald, of Cork, says there was on the Lusitania fifty babies, who were less than twelve months old and more than 100 others whose ages did not reach two years. Nearly all have been drowned.

Two babies were the talk of the ship, and everybody tried to look after them when the time came. There are numerous cases recorded where both passengers and crew stripped themselves of their own life belts to put around the little ones but it was useless, and about 150 of the infants, it is calculated, died from the shock and exposure. They were afterwards seen floating in the water with lifebelts tied around their little bodies, but they were past saving.

BURIED HER BABIES.

Their mothers recovered consciousness in the rescuing boats only to find that the little ones they were hugging to their bosoms were dead. One mother lost all her three young children, one six, one four and the third, a baby in arms, six months old. She herself lives. She held up the three of them in the water all the time shrieking for help. When rescued by a boat party, the two eldest children were dead. Their room was required on the boat, and the mother was brave enough to realize this.

"Give them to me," she shrieked "Give them to me," my babies were things. I will bury them. They are mine to bury, as they were mine to keep."

With her hair streaming down her back and her form shaking with sorrow, she took hold of each little one from the rescuers and reverently placed it in the water again, and others in the boat wept with her as she murmured a little sobbing prayer to the great God above. But her cup of sorrow was not yet completed for just as they were landing, her third and only remaining child died in her arms.

BRUTAL MASSACRE OF CIVILIANS

London, May 12.—Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador at Washington, and now chairman of a special government committee appointed to investigate and report on "outrages alleged to have been committed by German troops during the present war," has submitted the report of the committee to Premier Asquith.

The document is considered as probably the most severe arraignment thus far made of the German military sweep across Belgium, mainly because of the position of Viscount Bryce as a historian, and also because of the care with which the investigation was made, the great number of witnesses whose testimony was examined and the mass of evidence now submitted with the report of the committee.

Associated with Lord Bryce on the committee were Sir Frederick Pollock, Sir Edward Clarke, Sir Alfred Hopkinson, H. A. L. Fisher, vice-chancellor of the University of Sheffield, Harold Cox and Kenelm E. Digby. The committee was appointed by Premier Asquith on January 22 last, and was given broad instructions to investigate "alleged outrages, the maltreatment of civilians and speeches of law and established usages of war."

The most important findings of the committee are summed up in the following conclusion at the close of the report:

"It will be seen that the committee have come to a definite conclusion on each of the heads under which the evidence has been classified

"It is proved:

"First, That there were in many parts of Belgium deliberate and systematically organized massacres of the civil population, accompanied by many isolated murders and other outrages.

"Second, That in the conduct of the war generally innocent civilians, both men and women, were murdered in large numbers, women violated and children murdered.

"Third, That looting, house burning and the wanton destruction of property were ordered and countenanced by the officers of the German army; that elaborate provision had been made for systematic incendiarism at the very outbreak of the war, and that the burning and destruction were frequently where no military necessity could be alleged, being indeed, part of a system of general terrorization.

"Fourth, That the rules and usages of war were frequently broken, particularly by the using of civilians, including women and children, as a shield for advancing forces exposed to fire, to a less degree by killing the wounded and prisoners and in the frequent abuse of the Red Cross and the White Flag."

UNJUSTIFIABLE ACT SAYS SIR G. FOSTER

Ottawa, May 8.—Sir George Foster, acting Prime Minister, commenting on the sinking of the Lusitania, said: "It was a fiendish and altogether unjustifiable act, contravening all established usages of war, repugnant to the moral and humanitarian sense of the world; in the worst days of piracy the pirates would have scorned such a deed."

"It appears to have been carefully planned by the German authorities in Berlin, aided by German representatives and adherents on this side of the Atlantic. This object was not to prevent contraband reaching Great Britain or to destroy enemy property. These objects would have been completely and easily attained without the sacrifice of a single life."

TO SCARE NEUTRALS

"The object clearly was to seize the best possible opportunity for the sudden and ruthless destruction of as large a number of non-combatants and neutral lives as possible, with the design of intimidating present and possible belligerents and dramatically impressing the world with the quality of 'frightfulness' which the German war code inculcates."

"The warning of a half hour would have sufficed to have saved every soul of the 2,100 on board. Then ship and cargo could have been sent to the depths and the menace and power of the German submarine fully as well demonstrated."

"This latest war villainy has undoubtedly shocked the world, as the German authorities intended should be done. But they will find that here again their methods have overreached the mark. The British people will not be intimidated. It will only add to the grim determination of Britain and her Allies to pursue this war to the end.

GERMAN CHARACTER

"But to the neutral nations of the world this last act will come as crowning evidence of German character, and policy, and serve to stamp Germany as the outlaw nation of the twentieth century, to be viewed with suspicion and horror and righteous indignation by every well constituted civilized people."

DAY OF RECKONING

"For all this Germany must face a day of final reckoning and many generations are likely to pass before the debt will be fully expiated and Germany reinstated into honorable fellowship with nations of the world. There is now only one field left for the German war lords to exploit. That is the field of private murder and assassination, which may not improbably be entered upon."
