GOLD COINAGE POORLY RECEIVED BY PUBLIC

(Toronto News)

So accustomed have the Canadian people become to paper money and so great is their confidence in the issues of the chartered banks that the new Canadian gold coins are not proving popular. When the Canadian gold was first obtainable, patriotism and the novelty of the coins themselves combined to give it a passing interest. But few expected that the metallic coinage would to any appreciable extent displace paper in its circulation. During the first few years there was a considerable demand on the office of the Assistant Receiver-General Toronto Street, for the national gold coinage.

People wanted the coins, not for the payment of their debts, not to put in the bank, but to keep as curiosities, as some of the first issue of Canadian gold coins. For general circulation the people prefer paper money, as more convenient. They feel no distrust of Canadian bank notes, which are maintained at par by the fact that the issuing banks stand ready to redeem them at par on demand in gold coin.

A MATTER OF CUSTOM

The public have been accustomed to pay the butcher and the grocer in bank bills and there is no good reason why they should change. Again there is the danger of handing out the gold coin in mistake for a silver one. A man with a $5 or $10 gold piece in his pocket is more anxious about its safety than if he carried a bank note of the same denomination. When the coinage of Canadian gold was first announced, more than one patriot resolved that he would never again carry dirty, unsanitary bank notes. The bright gold that he could jingle in his pocket for him. But these warm days a load of heavy gold is a severe test of patriotism when half a million dollars can easily be placed in one pocket and the weight not be noticed. Custom and convenience have both been powerful factors against the popularity of a gold circulation in place of paper.

NOVELTY WEARS OFF

The demand for Canadian gold coins on account of their novelty has gradually decreased until it has now assumed very small proportions. Much of the gold put into circulation during the first week or so after the appearance of the new coinage has already found its way back into the coffers of the Assistant Receiver-General. One week the T. Eaton Company paid its employees, whose weekly wage was $5 or more, in the Canadian gold, but the coins circulated in this way have shown a strong disposition to come back.

For a time Old Countrymen, naturally prejudiced in favor of the metallic currency in vogue in England, exchanged the bank bills which came into their possession for gold, but soon found that they must keep one purse for gold, another for silver and a third for paper money. Their enthusiasm, too, has lagged, and their gold has returned to Mr. Creighton. Most of the gold returned in this way has been collected by the banks and exchanged by them in amounts of $5,000 or more for Dominion notes.

In this connection the alleged superior cleanliness of gold over paper may quickly be disposed of. So far as dirty paper money is concerned, the charge is rightly laid against Dominion notes, rather than against bank notes.

AUTOMATIC REDEMPTION

Of course, a few old and dirty bank notes are met with, but the average life of such paper is little over thirty days. The notes are quickly collected by the competing banks and sent back to the issuing institution for redemption through the clearing-house. In the case of Dominion notes, however, there is not the same almost automatic machinery for redemption and replacement.

Canadians have always been able to obtain gold in any quantity desired had a preference for a metallic currency existed. The only difference now is that the gold bears the impress of the Ottawa branch of the Royal Mint, whereas formerly it was coined at the English Mint or at Washington. The intrinsic value is the same. Both are legal tender.

American gold has the same privileges in Canada as has the home product. The temporary increased demand for gold money was due entirely to the fact that it was of Canadian mintage and Canadian design.

Nor will the Canadian gold displace American in the reserves of the banks. The essential purpose of the gold reserves for international settlements, since Dominion notes are full legal tender and are used almost exclusively, due to the greater convenience in handling, in the settlement of balances between Canadian banks. The Banking Act prescribes that 10 per cent. of the reserve held by chartered banks should be in the form of Dominion notes. Much of the bullion held by the banks is in the form of bullion, bars of uniform length and weight and assayed to uniform fineness.

LOSS FROM ABRASION

Experience has shown that there is less loss from abrasion in transit when the gold is in this form than when minted. In addition, there are considerable quantities of American gold coin and some British Canadian gold coins are not legal tender in the United States, although they would doubtless be accepted, since there is no disparity between intrinsic and par value. Nevertheless, although bars are the most preferable form for the settlement of balances between Canadian and American banks, American coins are more desirable than Canadian for this purpose.

There is no reason, however, to be disappointed at the failure of the new Canadian gold pieces to come into popular favor. Paper is more economical currency and so long as proper provision is secured for its immediate redemption on demand, it is equally secure and more convenient than the metal. In addition it can be kept almost as clean.

LITTLE DANGER

Stories about the contraction of disease through the handling of paper money are greatly exaggerated. In reality there is little danger.

The decrease in the weight of gold coins due to the abrasion in circulation is all loss, and falls upon the Government. There is no profit to the Government in circulating gold and there is no reason why circulation of the precious metal should be forced. It is very nice to have Canadian gold coins when wanted, but their use seems likely to be restricted to presentations and the like.

It will be remembered that the Boote triplets were presented with new Canadian gold pieces. It is at least worth something that the first money sucked by Canadian triplets should bear the Dominion Arms and the Maple Leaf, rather than the American eagle. If the present rate of increase in Toronto's triplet population is maintained, there may be a demand of some proportions for the Canadian gold pieces for just such events.

INDIANS OF OKA LOST CASE BEFORE COUNCIL

Montreal, July 22—A century-old difference of opinion between the Indian chiefs of Oka and the ecclesiastical authorities of the Seminary of St. Sulpice, which has caused much bloodshed in the past, has now been definitely settled by a decision handed down by the Privy Council.

The Indian chiefs of Oka have always claimed the right to some of the lands of the seminary, holding that it was given to their forefathers by Louis XIV. The seminary authorities held that the ground was part of their endowment.

The latest of a long list of sanguinary combats over the land took place last spring when the Indians resist the attempts of the Canadian Northern engineers to survey the land.

The Dominion Government undertook to settle the dispute by submitting it to the Privy Council, which has decided that the land belongs to the seminary. The Indians who agreed to accept the finding of Privy Council, also promised to pay back the cost of the action if they lost, out of their allowance.

WAS ALL RUN DOWN.

Doctors and Medicine Failed To Cure Him.

Many people become run down, but don't know just exactly what their trouble is. As a rule it is improper circulation of the blood, owing to not just taking proper care of themselves. All they want is a good tonic to build up the system and put their blood in proper shape, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system. Mr. Murdock A. Morrison, Tarbot, N.S., writes—"I am now writing to tell you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Last Summer I was all run down, and doctors and medicine failed to cure me. At last I decided to try a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking one bottle I began feeling better, and after I had taken the remedy for two months I was completely cured. I can safely recommend your remedy to anyone."
