HARRIET BEECHER STOWE
CHAMPION OF THE SLAVE

A hundred years have passed since the birth of the noble woman who, with the strength of the pen had proved mightier than the sword, dragged into light a nation's crime and made articulate the wrongs of the poor slave. The agitation has long since died a natural death, and the slave question has been solved for ever, but in the calm that comes after strife the work of Mrs. Stowe may be viewed in its right perspective, and an even richer meed of praise be awarded to her whom her own generation were not slow to love and honor.

Born in a little New England town on July 14th, 1812, Harriet Beecher, daughter of a Calvinistic divine, early showed signs of literary genius.
 She lived before the days of educational theories and systems, before Board Schools and Continuation Classes, yet at twelve years old this little Puritan maid is set down by her preceptor (probably she called him a preceptor) to write an essay on this weighty theme: "Can the immortality of the soul be proved by the light of nature?" And very creditably she handled the question!
 As a schoolmistress she distinguished herself by writing a geography-book but her literary labours assumed more tangible shape after her marriage with Professor C. E. Stowe. To begin with, her husband, in her own words, was "rich in Greek, Hebrew, Latin and Arabic, but, alas! rich in nothing else," and her literary labours made quite a valuable contribution to their income. "When a new carpet or mattress was going to be needed," wrote Mrs. Stowe in a letter to a friend, "or when at the close of the year it became evident that my family accounts, like poor Dorcas, 'wouldn't add up,' then I used to say to my faithful friend factotum, Anna: 'Now, if you will see to the baby and attend to the things in the house for one day I'll write a piece, and then we shall be out of our scrape.'" In addition to the stimulus of poverty the encourage-ment of her husband aided Mrs.
 Stowe considerably in the fulfilment of her literary tasks. "My dear," he wrote to her, "you must be a literary woman. It is so written in the book of Fate. Take my word for it; your husband will lift up his head in the gate, and your children will rise up and call you blessed."

The work which made her famous, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was not written, however, from any calculating love of glory, but from a burning sympathy with the cause of the poor and distressed African—"God's image cut in shew," as an old English divine called him. "It may be truly said," she confessed to a friend, "that I wrote with my heart's blood." Literary merit the book does not lack, but it made its true appeal "from the heart to the heart." The story of the birth of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is interesting.
 Mrs. Stowe, and indeed all her family, had been moved to water indignation by cruelties perpetuated under the Fugitive Slave Law. One afternoon a letter arrived from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Beecher, in which the question of the hour was the principal theme. "Now, Hattie," the letter ran, "if I could use a pen as you can I would write something that would make the nation feel what slavery is."

Mrs. Stowe read the letter aloud to her family, and when she came to that sentence she rose from her chair, crushing the letter in one hand. With an expression on her face which stamped itself on the minds of her children she exclaimed passionately: "I will write something; I will if I live."

The book took so strong a hold on her that, practically speaking, it wrote itself. One Sabbath morning she was seated at a Communion service in the College Church at Brunswick. Suddenly, like the unveiling of a picture, the scene of the death of Uncle Tom passed before her mind.
 So strongly was she affected that it was with difficulty she could keep from weeping aloud. Immediately on returning home she took pen and paper and wrote out the vision which had come to her. Gathering her family about her she read what she had written. Her two little ones of ten and twelve years of age respectively, broke into convulsions of weeping, one of them saying through his sobs: "Oh mamma, slavery is the most cruel thing in the world."

The novel ran as a serial in the National Era, but before it had completed its course in the magazine it was brought out in book form by a Boston publisher. It seems strange in the light of after-events that Mrs.
 Stowe should have had so many fears as to whether or not her book would be read. Three thousand copies were sold the first day, and a second edition was issued the following week. Such was the reputation of the book that it was translated into most of the languages of Europe.
 Letters of congratulation from Whittier, Longfellow, Garrison and the Earl of Shaftesbury must have identified the gentle-hearted authoress.
 By invitation of the Glasgow Anti-Slavery Society Mrs. Stowe visited that country, receiving deputations from Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Paisley, Dundee, Greenock and Belfast. Some of her comments are particularly fresh and interesting. She tells "in a letter how, when crossing the Border between Scotland and England, her husband endeavoured to repress her excitement. 'Ah!' she replied 'this is a thing that comes once in a life-time; do let us have the comfort of it. We shall never come into Scotland for the first time again.'"

Mrs. Stowe's splendid work for humanity was well summed up in some graceful lines written by Oliver Wendell Holmes, and read at the public celebration of her twentieth birthday—
 "When Truth, herself, was Slavery's slave,
 The hand the prisoned sunlit gave The rainbow wings of Fiction.
 And Truth, who soared, descends today Bearing the angel's wreath away, Its lilies at the fest to lay With heaven's own benediction."

MEMORIAL AT MCKINLEY'S BIRTHPLACE

Niles, O., July 12—Twenty-five thousand dollars has been subscribed towards a fund of $100,000 which it is proposed to raise for the building of a magnificent memorial here in honor of the late President William McKinley, who was born in Niles.
 The memorial will take the place of a public auditorium. Associated in the movement for its erection are Myran T. Herrick, former governor of Ohio, and now ambassador to France; James Boyle, who was for some years Mr. McKinley's secretary; J. G. Schmidlapp, the Cincinnati banker, and John G. Milburn of Buffalo, an intimate friend of President McKinley and in whose house he died.

Miss Elderly—"Do you really think that women propose?" Oldbach—"If they don't there are a great many marriages I cannot account for."
 "How would you like to have death staring you in the face?"
 "Humph! Did you ever come home late and have your wife stare at you?"

 It is hard to describe in cold type the interest, charm and enjoyment that this booklet holds for the traveler. It pictures in a chatty, informal way the famous historic scenes and celebrated points of interest on the River St. Lawrence. So vividly, entertainingly and delightfully indeed that it is almost as good as taking the trip oneself. Incidentally the advantages of travelling by the Royal Mail Steamships ROYAL EDWARD ROYAL GEORGE
 are touched upon. The superb appointments and architectural treatment of these boats virtually form a liberal education in period arts and crafts decoration. The utmost comfort, safety and pleasure are achieved through equipment thoroughly modern. Actual photographic reprodu-

Got A Pain
In Your Back?

IF YOU HAVE
 HEED THE WARNING.

You get a pain in your back, and you wonder what is the matter. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Heed the warning; cure the weak, lame, aching back and dispose of any chances of further trouble.

If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise, and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease; the three most deadly forms of kidney trouble.

On the first sign of a pain in the back, Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken.
 They go right to the seat of the trouble, cure the backache and prevent any further complications arising.

Mr. Stewart Johnston, Richardson Mines, N.S., writes:—"For years I was troubled with my back, and I had to give up work. I tried Dr. after Dr., and was getting no better. I had almost given up hope when I began to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I took three boxes of them, and found I was completely cured.
 I feel I owe my life to Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

BIG INCREASE IN SPIRITS CONSUMPTION

Ottawa, July 9—Some statistics of "the growing times" in Canada, to which the new Government will possibly "view with alarm, rather than point with pride," are contained in the annual report of the Inland Revenue Department showing a rapid increase in the consumption of liquor and tobacco in the Dominion during the last fiscal year.

The consumption of spirits last year jumped to 1,030 gallons per head as compared with 859 gallons per head for the preceding year.
 Canadians drank 859 gallons of beer per head last year as compared with 5,434 gallons per head in 1910-11, and 114 of a gallon of wine as compared with 108 of a gallon for the preceding year.

The tobacco consumption last year was 3,011 lbs. per head. Cigarette smokers are evidently increasing rapidly in numbers, and smoking more per capita of the "coffin nails." The total number of cigarettes entered for consumption last year was 782,663,841, an increase of a little over 196 millions, as compared with the preceding fiscal year. Cigar smokers also kept their index finger pointing towards national prosperity. The number of cigars entered for consumption was 252,718,242, an increase of 25,000,000 over the preceding twelve months. The cigarette smokers of Canada, it is estimated, now consume on the average over 1,000 cigarettes per head per annum. The per capita figures of consumption given above are, however, somewhat misleading, as accurately indicating the actual increase in per capita consumption.

The department last year estimated the population at 7,901,530 but the census figures have reduced this estimate of population by half a million. The per capita consumption is this year based on an estimated population of 7,423,000. The percentage increases in total amounts of both liquor and tobacco entered for consumption, however, are considerably larger than the percentage increase in population. It is worth noting also that the excise revenue for the first three months of the current fiscal year shows a large increase, indicating that both the drinking and smoking habits are still growing in this country.

Deering Mowers

See the Improvements for 1912

The I. H. Co. do not put improved machines on the market until they have been thoroughly tested. The New Ideal has high speed, is lightest draft, handles easiest and is stronger than ever.
 See the improved foot lift.

Mr. Stennicks of Maugeville told us yesterday that he would not take $100.00 for his Deering 10 foot Rake unless he was sure that he could get another of the same kind. His son, 11 years old did all the raking last year.

Remember, Deering machines require very few repairs, but when you need any part you can get it quickly. We make a speci-
