Have Sent One Shipment
and Booked More.

Fredericton, April 11.—(Special)—Fredericton is now supplying footwear for the allied armies in Europe. A large consignment of oil-tanned footwear manufactured by the Palmer-McLellan Shoe Company at its factory in this city, was shipped last week from St. John by steamer Metagama. Other shipments are to follow. The Canadian militia department has repeatedly been urged to adopt footwear of this type but so far has not consented.—Daily Telegraph.

DOES INDIA HOARD HER YELLOW GOLD?

Many Millions of Precious Metal is Unaccounted For

From time immemorial India has absorbed gold as a sponge absorbs water. The flow of gold to India has always continued. In the last twelve years she has received $200,000,000 in gold, partly in savings and partly in bullion, in addition to enormous quantities of silver. It all goes into the country, but very little ever comes out. Lord Rothschild observed some years ago that he had noticed that none of the smooth gold bars sent to India from England ever came back. What happens to this great stream of precious metal, which continuously disappears like those rivers in desert lands which lose themselves underground?

The testimony of experts is most conflicting. Some say it is hoarded, while a few are ready to prove by a formidable array of statistics that it cannot be extensively hoarded. Those who believe that India possesses a vast store of hoarded treasure make the wildest guesses at its probable total. The most popular estimate of the hoarded wealth of India puts the total at $1,500,000,000, which would amount to five dollars per head of the population; but some credible estimates are far higher. The experts quarrel, again, about the probable effect of India's absorption of gold upon the world's money markets and the prices of commodities. Some say that all gold-using countries benefit thereby, while others, such as Sir Edward Holden, appear to hold that "the drain of gold to India" is a potential menace. The commission, while declining to endorse either of these mutually destructive contentions has declared in effect that an increased use of gold in India should not in future be encouraged by the Government, but India already seems disposed to resent this recommendation. India has been subjected to repeated invasions and innumerable internecine wars, and her people have never completely lost their hereditary sense of insecurity. Banking facilities are still sparse, and it would be surprising if Indians did not hoard.

Hoarding does not necessarily mean burying in the ground or concealment in the roofs of houses, though those practices are doubtless extensive. Mr. J. M. Keynes, a member of the commission tells a story of a Brahmin in Eastern Bengal who even hoards currency notes in his roof. Once a week he retires privately and spreads them out on the sun to remove the damp. A very large proportion of the hoarded wealth of India is however, in the form of gold and silver ornaments. It is into these ornaments that the bulk of the bullion and savings, as well as much of the silver disappears.

Plurisy Pain Vanishes
Chest Colds Cured!
NERVILINE HAS NEVER
FAILED TO CURE

Don't suffer!
Nerviline is your relief.
Nerviline just rubbed on, lots of
will ease that drawn tight feel-
over your ribs, will destroy the pain
will have you smiling and happy in no time.

"I caught cold last week while snowing," writes P. T. Mallory, from London. "My chest was full of col-
gestion, my throat was mighty sore,
and I had the fiercest stitch in my side you could imagine. As a boy I was accustomed to have my mother
use Nerviline for all our minor ailments, and remembering what confidence she had in Nerviline, I sent out for a bottle at once. Between noon and eight o'clock I had a whole bottle rubbed on, and then got into a perspiration under the blankets. This drove the Nerviline in good and deep,
and I woke up next morning fresh as a dollar and absolutely cured. Nerviline is now always part of my travelling kit, and I will never be without it."

UNGENTLEMANLY "GENTLEMAN"

A woman interested in charity work
was accustomed each day to pass by the door of a Chinese laundry wherein there were employed two Chinese.
Each time she passed the charity worker would stop for an instant and speak to the boss.

"Hello, John," she would call out,
to which salutation the Celestial
would reply, "Hello, lady."

One day she saw only one Chinaman
where there had been two and she asked:

"Where is the other John?"

"Him in hospital," said the laundryman. "Christian gentleman stuck
him in the head with a brick."

THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE.

N. C. Goodwin, the famous actor,
was lunching, on a balmy December
afternoon, in a garden under a trellis
of pink roses in Los Angeles.

"I am to be married next week,"
said a young moving-picture actor,
with an uneasy laugh. "She's a dear
girl but I've been told that December is an unlucky month to marry in."

"My boy," said Mr. Goodwin, "I have tried nearly all the months and December is no worse than any of the others."—Washington Star.

SUNDAY TALKS CROWD AT PRESS CLUB

(New York Sun.)

Billy Sunday, preaching to the members of the Press Club in the assembly room of the club building on Spruce street this afternoon, was rousing and received. Billy said right in the middle of the cramped quarters of the stage, to mangle the forces of evil. His hottest epigrams were cut off by the enthu-sastic din of the crowd. His exhortation on newspaper virtues was received with the same enthusiasm.
 His baseball story closing with the prayer as a result of which Billy was able to catch an outfield fly
 and which convinced Billy God was a baseball fan, evoked silence until the end, when the din grew wilder
 and wilder and Billy backed up against a piano stool to laugh.

Billy lambasted the laws and the failure of the law. He said that the great lack of this nation today is moral principle due to the washed out brand of Christianity now
 being practised.
 FORGET THERE'S RIGHT AND WRONG.

"We've got rid of that distinction of right and wrong, honest and dishonest," he exclaimed. "We now refer to legal and illegal laws. But I tell you you can't incalculable moral principle by statute. You can't sink a battleship with a shot ralter with green peas. You can't have morality without Christianity any more than you can expect an Egyptian mummy to speak and bear children."

"If all the newspapers in New York would combine for a clean-up you'd drive out the thieves and panderers, the little hunchback peasant, lickspittle, two-by-four pie counter, free lunch politicians till" where Billy stopped for the tumult and laughter.

I tell you if every newspaper in the United States were suppressed tomorrow the burglars, freebooters, yeggs, hop joint keepers would all join hell in a revel on earth inside of twenty-four hours would plead with God to restore the newspapers right off.

"Everybody knows there is such a thing as perverted press, and it's easy to tell from the other kind, just the same as you can tell a skunk from a lion. You don't need a college education for that. And you don't make war on a skunk with cologne water, do you? Load your gun according to your game."

LAUDS NEWSPAPERS

Billy declared newspapers to be one of the greatest moral forces of any community and said that as sure as "any of you start in to attack an intrenched evil," he said he'd always been attacked by the liquor interests.

PTE. ROBINSON WRITES FROM THE BATTLE FRONT

John Markey of Marysville in France
With the Princess
Pats

Private William J. Robinson of the Imperial Army Service Corps in a letter to a relative of this city written from the battle front on April 6th, says:

The other night I ran into some of the men of the Princess Pats. A fellow happened to mention that he came from Fredericton so of course I asked him if he knew you. He said he did. His name is John Markey and he hails from Marysville. He said he came over with the first Canadian contingent, but transferred to the Pats at Salisbury in order that he might get here quicker. He said that Eric McDonald cried to get a transfer too but something interfered. As far as I can find out Eric is still in England. I have written him care of Major P. Guthrie and I certainly hope it will reach him. I am going to write to Dr. MacDonald as soon as I get time. Please let me know where and how to address Frank McGibbon.

"Among the curios I have captured is a German bayonet. It is an awful looking thing with saw teeth. You can imagine what a horrible looking wound it would make."

"Things have been fairly quiet here for the past week or so. The Germans still shell a certain city near here, but the place is in ruins now and they don't do much damage. They do not shell it continuously but at fairly regular intervals. I was there for three days last week and all I saw down was an old woman of sixty killed and a little girl and a Frenchman wounded."

Four Teaspoonfuls of

Grape-Nuts

as the cereal part of the meal, helps keep one in fine fettle.

There's a Reason---in fact, a number of reasons.

Grape-Nuts is a concentrated food, hence a small portion goes a long way.

It is made of wheat and barley, and contains all the nutriment of these grains, including those invaluable mineral salts so often lacking in ordinary food, but which are indispensable for normal growth and maintenance of body and brain. One great aim in originating Grape-Nuts was to supply this lack of mineral elements, and it fulfills its purpose admirably.

Grape-Nuts is a delicious food, and digests quickly, generally in about one hour. Compare this with the 2 1/2 to 3 hours required by bread.

Ready to eat direct from the FRESH-SEALED package, crisp, nourishing, economical--
