Plurisy Pain Vanishes

Chest Colds Cured!

NERVILINE HAS NEVER

FAILED TO CURE

Don't suffer!

Nerviline is your relief.

Nerviline just rubbed on, lots of will ease that drawn tight feet, over your ribs, will destroy the pain will have you smiling and happy in no time.

"I caught cold last week while moving," writes P. T. Mallory, from London. "My chest was full of congestion, my throat was tight, sore, and I had the heaviest stitch in my side you could imagine. As a boy I was accustomed to have my mother use Nerviline for all our minor ailments, and remembering what confidence she had in Nerviline, I sent out for a bottle at once. Between noon and eight o'clock I had a whole bottle rubbed on, and then got into a perspiration under the blankets. This drove the Nerviline in good and deep, and I woke up next morning fresh as a dollar and absolutely cured. Nerviline is now always part of my traveling kit, and I will never be without it."

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, or you can easily get the 25c. trial size from any dealer.

WHAT WILL BORDEN

DO WITH FLEMMING?

(St. John Telegraph.)

The fact that Hon. J. K. Flemming cannot be the official standard-bearer of the Conservative party in Carleton Place without the consent and the approval of Sir Robert Borden is a self-evident proposition recently advanced by an independent Conservative newspaper published at Sir Robert's front door.

The Standard now asks: "Why should Sir Robert Borden take any action? Mr. Flemming is not a member of the dominion parliament, he is merely the candidate of the Conservatives of Carleton-Victoria," etc.

The situation is awkward enough, to be sure, and by asking its question The Standard only intensifies its party's trouble. The answer to its question has already been published many times. Sir Robert Borden read Mr. DeWitt Foster and Mr. W. F. Garland, two Conservative members of parliament, out of the party because of their unsatisfactory association with the purchase of war supplies. It has been pointed out to Sir Robert Borden that if he was sincere in branding Messrs. Foster and Garland as unworthy of public confidence and unfit to occupy seats in the House of Commons, he must be equally prompt in dealing with the case of Mr. Flemming, who was found guilty by a royal commission of having held up a railway contractor for two thousand dollars. It is unnecessary to go more fully into the verdict of the royal commission at this time. It is sufficient to say that the judgment of the commission branded Mr. Flemming as unfit to occupy a seat in any representative assembly. If the Standard contends that this is not a matter for Sir Robert Borden to deal with, the fair inference is that Sir Robert Borden was not sincere in placing Messrs. Foster and Garland outside the party breastworks.

The nomination of Mr. Flemming by the Conservative machine is an open and deliberate affront to the whole country. It strikes hard on every profession of honesty and high purpose made by Conservatives anywhere on behalf of themselves and their party.

Probably Sir Robert Borden was not consulted when the deal was arranged by which Mr. Flemming was nominated. That does not help the premier of Canada or the ex-premier of New Brunswick. It confronts Sir Robert Borden with a most awkward duty but a most obvious one, and it places a very plain responsibility on the whole Conservative party in this province. The Conservative machine is proposing to use all the influence it can command to place Mr. Flemming in the House of Commons. We are confident that the people of Carleton-Victoria will repudiate the deal engineered by the Conservative machine and reject Mr. Flemming as unfit. But if he does contest the county he will do so with the consent and approval of Sir Robert Borden. There is no way in which the premier of Canada can evade the responsibility. By failure to act he will be accepting as an official standard-bearer of his party a man-whom the royal commission which investigated the Dugal charges found guilty of personally holding up a contractor for $2,000, not to mention other transactions.

What is Sir Robert Borden going to do about it?

A GRAFTER MUST

NOT BE A FARMER

We are indebted to Sir Robert Borden for one good lesson at least, says The Halifax Chronicle. In the light thrown by his recent speech upon the scandal mark at Ottawa, one strong fact stands clear above the rest—that a grafter must not be a poor man; most of all, he must not be a farmer.

"If the laws of the country permit the courts of justice to enforce restitution against them, then restitution will be enforced." To whom did the premier refer in this splendid assertion of the government's horror at the booting exposures? To the manufacturers who unloaded double-priced motor trucks on a not unwilling department? To the retainers and parasites of the minister of militia who sold their influence over him to the highest bidder? No, gentle and credulous reader? These fiery words were aimed to scorch only a few country folk who were so indiscreet as to tell aloud of the folly or worse of a parliamentary horse-purchaser.

"If the laws of the country permit the walls of the penitentiary to encircle them, they will go there." For whom is it that the doors of the penitentiary are held sternly open? For the manufacturers of boots that fell to pieces on brave soldiers' feet; for the men thus responsible for sickness and death sown broadcast among our boys for the men whom General Sam Hughes himself, before they got the gag on him, threatened to shoot? Not on your life! Just the same couple of farmers who gave away the Kings county horse deal and incidentally convicted a member of parliament (a Moral Reform member, too) of the unpardonable sin of being found out.

There are many possible ways of stamping out graft. Sir Robert's may not appeal to all of us as the most effective way, but, if followed persistently, it will, undoubtedly tend to reduce the volume of booting—or, at least, to restrict the number of booters. It must be admitted that there are more poor men than rich; more farmers than manufacturers. So, if Sir Robert can succeed in aiding all the poor and rural grafters, he will unquestionably have accomplished a reform in more ways than one. For instance, an undesirable element of competition for a share in the handouts will have been eliminated, which is strictly in line with the national policy of "Adequate Protection." And the campaign fund will not have been interfered with, for farmers and poor folk seldom contributed to it to any extent.

BUYS LAURA MERRILL.

Horsemen throughout the Maritime Provinces will be interested to know that Laura Merrill, 2144, has been purchased by Thomas Hayes. The deal was consummated on Saturday between Mr. Hayes and Albert H. Merrill of Danvers, Mass. The horse until recently was the property of Fred Duncanson of the Manawagonish Road. She will be used as a brood mare. The horse was brought here from Kentucky, is thirteen years of age and was sired by Nintell.

OBSERVE THE LAW.
Under the provisions of an act passed by the dominion parliament, all butter exposed for sale in bricks must be covered with a printed wrapper. Bring your butter paper to The Mail Office and have it neatly printed. Or if you prefer, we will supply the paper. One thousand wrappers, neatly printed, will cost you $3.00, or for $1.75 we will print five hundred. Send in your order and save a fine.

HAD INDIGESTION

FOR OVER 10 YEARS.

ALMOST DESPAIRED OF EVER GETTING WELL.

Indigestion is one of the worst forms of stomach trouble. The stomach becomes upset and you have a raw, debilitating feeling in it. After a meal you feel that you must get rid of that nasty, bilious, burning sensation. It is not necessary for you to be troubled with indigestion if you will only try that old and well-known remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, which is a combination of nature's best known roots, herbs and barks for the cure of all stomach and blood troubles. Mrs. Mary MacKay, Hunter's Mountain, N.S., writes: "I was troubled with indigestion for more than ten years. I tried several doctors' medicines claiming the power to cure, but all without success. Having heard of the many cures effected by Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to give it a trial. After taking two bottles I was completely cured. My appetite which was very poor is now good, and I can eat most everything without any disagreeable feelings."

I can strongly recommend B.B.B. to anyone suffering from indigestion."

B.B.B. is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
