

Commercial Travellers' Banquet

An Appreciation of

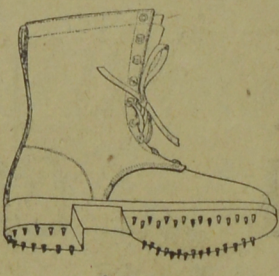

PALMER-McLELLAN

The Knights of the Grip at a recent banquet honoured a patriotic member who was leaving to join his Regiment. During the evening a prominent Boot and Shoe Traveller, Who Understands Footwear, proposed the Toast "TO OUR MANUFACTURERS."

He said:- "I have been interested to read that 'Mr. John Palmer of the Palmer-McLellan Co. is now in England, and going to Paris for the purposes of meeting with representatives of the purchasing Departments of the Allied Armies. I believe the excellence of This Company's Product which Mr. Palmer has to offer for the use of the Armies in the field, will be recognized by the experts with whom he comes in contact, and I would not be surprised if he would return with orders which would bring about the expansion of the output of the footwear industries in this City.'" C. J. RAYMOND DIES SUDDENLY

Merchant Stricken in Hot Springs-- Began Business Career At the Age of 15

Boston Globe, Feb. 15—News was received in Boston yesterday of the sudden death of George J. Raymond, the Washington-st. merchant at Hot Springs, Ark. where he went for his health soon after Christmas. Mrs. Raymond was with her husband when he died.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond had planned leaving Hot Springs last Saturday and their trunks were packed. At the last moment they decided to remain one day more and they engaged their apartments at Hotel Eastman. Saturday night Mr. Raymond had a bad spell and at four a.m. Sunday Mrs. Raymond called a physician.

Though the doctor was in the hotel Mr. Raymond expired before he reached the room. Mrs. Raymond started with the remains for Boston late yesterday afternoon. The Raymonds lived at 28 Roseland St., North Cambridge.

George J. Raymond was born in 1842 in Woodstock, N.B., and lived there until he was fifteen years old. He used to say that he was brought up on hasty pudding and milk and that he plowed a ten-acre farm at the age of ten years. From the time he achieved his growth he was very tall, six feet, four inches. "There were seven brothers of us," he once said, "and our combined height was forty-two feet."

BEGAN WORK AT $4 A WEEK

He came to Boston, where he had already an older brother, arriving here when fifteen years old with only the clothes he wore and a small patent leather bag. He worked five years in a wholesale shoe store in Water St., beginning at wages of four dollars a week. When twenty-one with four brothers he started a store at 5 Tremont row, listed in the Directory for many years as a "fancy goods store."

In 1874 he had trouble with a mercantile agency and the echoes of that incident were heard for twenty years, placards giving his opinion of that form of business enterprise having been a familiar sight in the Raymond store windows in years gone by.

Somebody once said of Mr. Raymond that he was fond of hunting, fishing and—scrapping—if any one wanted a scrap with him. His earliest store in Tremont row he retained for years after he acquired a more pretentious one in Washington St.

About 1885 he was conducting two fancy goods stores, as he called them, on Washington St., one near Boylston St., the other not far beyond Hollis street. Five years or so later he had given up those stores and had a large establishment on the ground floor on Washington St., opposite the head of Milk St., where his principal stock in trade was haberdashery.

(The deceased was a native of Woodstock and a cousin of Mrs. Joseph McLeod of this city.)

And Her Heart Does
Not Bother Her.

Thanks to MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. J. McLaren, Commanda, Ont., writes us under date of February 9th, 1914. "Sixteen years ago I took bad with my heart and nerves, and was not able to do anything. I tried a good many doctors, but they did me no good; in fact one doctor gave me up to die. I heard about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I thought I would give them a trial, and after using a couple of boxes I saw that I was improving. I kept on using them for quite a long time. I am eighty-three years old and my heart does not bother me at all.

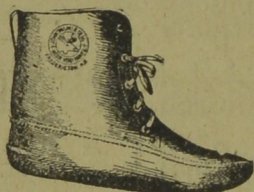

"I am raising a little girl who was never very strong, and the doctor said that she had palpitation of the heart, so I started to give them to her. She is now twelve years old, and they are doing her more good than I can possibly tell you. I would advise anyone who has a weak heart to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as they have done wonders for us."

Price, 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25; for sale at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Beats "Whispering Gallery"

It cost a railroad company $30,000 to remodel a new station in a California city when it was found that every whisper in a large waiting room could be heard in every other part of the room.

Automatic Employment Bureau

A Californian is the inventor of a machine into which a person in search of employment can drop a coin and get a card, visible from outside the machine, telling where work may be found and what kind.

Marvel in Tower Construction

Collapsible towers, adopted by the German army for searchlights and wireless telegraphy, are so light and compact that two men can carry a tower that extends to 160 feet.

Motor-bike Postmen

Motorcycle side cars are being tried for delivering mails in rural districts in England and it is predicted that the horse soon will disappear from the postal service of the United Kingdom.

B. C. Water Power Survey

A party of engineers of the Conservation Commission examined the water power situation in the district tributary to the watersheds of the following rivers in interior British Columbia: Skeena, Kispitox, Bulkley, Morice, Telkwa, Zymoetz and Kitsumgallum rivers. The season was an unusually wet one, and the country traversed very rough with consequent poor trails, that in many instances required clearing, so that progress was necessarily slow. In spite of this, twenty-six streams in all were examined and twenty-eight power sites reported upon.

A Vapor Cabinet

To convert an ordinary bath tub into a vapor cabinet there has been invented a cover to clamp tightly over it, with an opening for an occupant's head.
