

PIMPLES APPEARED ON HIS FACE AND HANDS.

The primary cause of pimples arises from the blood not being in a good condition. When the blood becomes impure you will find that pimples will break out all over the body, but more particularly on the forehead, nose and chin, and although they are not a dangerous trouble, they make you appear unsightly both to your friends and yourself. What you need, when these pimples break out, is to get a real good blood purifying medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters. One that will build up the system by cleansing the blood of all the impurities and poisons which cause the skin to break out in these eruptions.

Mr. F. A. McKenzie, Portage La Prairie, Man., writes: "Last summer I was all run down and unfit for work of any kind. All kinds of food seemed distasteful to me. Pimples appeared on my face and hands, and I seemed to grow worse every day. One day a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. Half-heartedly I did so, and the results obtained were marvellous. I regained my health, I took on flesh, and in a short time the pimples and skin eruptions disappeared entirely; thanks to the healing powers of B.B.B. I freely recommend it to all sufferers."

B.B.B. is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WRITER OF STORIES FOR CHILDREN, DEAD

Reading, Pa., June 2—Marie Marguerite Bouvet, fifty years old, writer of widely published stories for children, strangled to death yesterday in the Rittersville sanitarium, where she was taking treatment for a nervous ailment. Before a doctor could be summoned Miss Bouvet was beyond help.

She was a native of France, but had lived in this country for many years, most of the time in this city. Among her books were "A Little House in Pimlico," "Little Marjory's Love Story," "Pierrette," "Prince Tip-Top," "Smiles of the Sphinx," "Sweet William," and the "Tales of an Old Chateau." She will be buried in this city.

Great guns! Has the name of Permyl got to be changed back to Przemyśl? Can't reformer spelling ever stand pat?

WHY MICHAEL CONNOLLY GAVE UP HIS CONTRACT

St. John Correspondent Hands Out Some Interesting Information in Regard to the Marine Wharf—The Vacant Probate Judgeship—Baxter a Submarine Politician

St. John, June 3—I was over to the West Side Sunday—after church—looking at Hazen's monument which some people call the marine wharf. It was built by a man named Boone, who came from up country some where. It is said he was discovered by George B. Jones but that is surely a legend. At any rate, those who say so point to the wharf Boone left unfinished at Public Landing in Kings county and then it seems, he came to St. John. Here he found the Faithful with a capital 'F' and they proceeded to make use of Mr. Boone. The result was the 'marine wharf structure and it is a sorry monument to any politician.' But just think of the Bank Rolls of the Faithful. How was it distributed and who got it? Ah, that's another story.

WEST SIDE WHARVES.

And it is almost as good as one I am informed Michael Connolly told soon after he surrendered his contract to build the West Side wharves. You may know that Michael was the first man to get the contract to build the West Side wharves, that Manning Doherty or the Maritime Dredging Company finished last year and invited Bob Rogers and Hazen to take them over with an elaborate political function. Connolly had a certain time to complete the work and found that he could make some money by having an extension of the period. He wanted it so much that he agreed to pay $15,000 for the extension and did actually pay $5,000 on account. Don't ask me to whom or where. Political reputations are not made in a day and they should not be blasted without due ceremony. But Connolly paid $5,000 and his contract time was extended. Then some one started an agitation in the Board of Trade to get a hustle on the wharves. The result was that a proposition was made to cancel Mr. Connolly's contract. Michael kept quiet and said nothing. He was not unwilling if the settlement suited him. Finally, it was made agreeable—all but one little item of $5,000, for which no value had been received. The Maritime Construction Company, of which Manning Doherty was managing director, was all ready to go to work. But ministers and officials did not say the word as promptly as expected. Finally it came after the five thousand had been transferred to Michael's bank account. This is a true story, which would have been aired long ago but for the war. As one of my Tory friends said to me jokingly the other day, "This war has spelled ruin for millions but it saved the political lives of our friends."

JUDGE ARMSTRONG.

Col. John R. Armstrong has been put on the back for a few days. He is now a judge of the County instead of the Probate Court. Judge Forbes is seventy-five and the new judge is nearly seventy years of age. He made a good judge of probate and there wasn't any opposition apparently to his promotion. But the job he left vacant has caused some trouble. Naturally it will be filled on the recommendation of the city and county members. Some were in favor of Harry O. McInerney, others were not. H. O. has been registrar of probates for some years and made a fairly good thing out of it—$1,500 a year—and no serious interference with his practice. He is a nice fellow but even his co-religionists think he has done pretty well and there are plenty of 'nice fellows' who are not rewarded with probate judgeships.

The Orangemen objected to the appointment because the retiring judge was a Protestant and his place should be filled by a Protestant. I give it to you for what it is worth. For some reason Baxter, the ex-Orange county master, is catering for the Catholic vote. He has lost a lot of it and about half the electors in St. John county are Roman Catholic. The attorney general lives in Fairville and has paid particular attention to the Catholic voters there. He gave them a Catholic police magistrate while at the same time he was working for the superannuation of Judge Ritchie in St. John. No one quite understands the wisdom of such moves. They are purely Baxterian—if one may coin a term—and very seldom do they commend themselves to seasoned politicians. "Babby," as the boys irreverently call the attorney general, likes to work underground but he comes to the surface sometimes unexpectedly. As an example, after months of concealment of the Foreshores authorship, he confessed to preparing the measure in the legislature this spring. That was neither wise nor politic but it was on a par with his statement anent his legal associate, Mr. Logan. These have been termed "Baxter breaks," but no matter what they are called, they are indicative of a city council training rather than any political sagacity. Walter Foster, who is an opposition candidate in St. John county, will oppose Baxter when the time comes. The average man meeting these men casually, would at once mark one great difference between them. Foster looks a man fairly in the eyes, Baxter doesn't. I never have any fear of the man—politician or merchant—who looks you fairly in the eye and talks as straight as he looks but look out for the party who hangs his head and looks cross eyed at you.

RECRUITING IS SLOW.

The military temperature is not rising. The people don't enthuse as they should. We have one reputed millionaire with five sons—142 stalwart chaps—who subscribed $100 to the funds and none of his sons are clad in khaki. There are many who are not millionaires who are not doing what they should. You can see the young men at the movies, in the bar rooms, on the streets, and they give no excuse for not enlisting except, "We don't have to." And the way they say it implies "What are you going to do about it?" We can't do anything, but it seems to me the women and the girls have this enlistment business in their own hands, if they would they could soon shame

THE DAY SAYS GERMAN DIPLOMACY HAS FAILED

The following editorial by Mr. Herman Bernstein appears in The Day, the national Jewish daily.

"The German government has finally replied to President Wilson's note about the sinking of the Lusitania.

"By her answer Germany has made it quite clear that she does not seek war with America. Her note is couched in friendly terms. It tries to explain; it tries to minimize the grave offence of the sinking of the Americans on board the Lusitania; it tries to justify Germany on the ground that the Lusitania was armed.

"But on the whole Germany's response is weak and unconvincing. She attempts to evade the direct issue, she has failed to do the only thing that she should have done to prove that there is sincerity behind the friendly phrases, that there is an open and direct desire to square herself before America in response to President Wilson's plea for justice and for humanity.

"Germany says that she entertains a keen wish to co-operate in a frank and friendly way in clearing up a possible misunderstanding which may have arisen in the relations between the two governments through the events mentioned by the American government.

"Under such circumstances it is more than strange that Germany should expect to do it to the satisfaction of the American people by merely stating: 'The German government, in all cases in which it has been shown by its investigation that a neutral ship, not itself at fault, was damaged by German submarines or aviators, has expressed regret over the unfortunate accident, and if justified by conditions, has offered indemnification.'

"Such an attitude could hardly appeal to the American people as an adequate answer to President Wilson's clear, firm and statesmanlike note.

"Germany could hardly expect America to take her seriously when the men into doing their share. Again the local government might follow Ontario's example and urge recruiting. Suppose the military adviser of the administration, Lieut. Col. Baxter, starts the ball rolling.

SO LONG.

she declares that she 'has expressed regret' and 'offered indemnification' in cases where it has been shown by Germany's own investigation that a neutral ship, not itself at fault was damaged by German submarines or aviators. Her own investigation may prove things to her own satisfaction only. To believe that the American people could be satisfied with 'expressions of regret' and the offer of 'indemnification,' determined by Germany's own investigation, is to betray lack of knowledge of the American people.

"German diplomacy has failed where German arms have triumphed. German statesmanship has proved itself inferior to German military organization.

"But the desire to maintain friendly relations with the United States is apparent in every line of the note. Germany has failed to do the only thing she should have done. She should have offered to suspend her submarine attacks pending the investigation of these cases."

With the revenue falling thousands of men out of work, and the cost of living steadily soaring it is quite evident that the Borden Government did not carry out its prelection promise and "let well enough alone"

Ald. Reid is the greatest tax collector that has been.

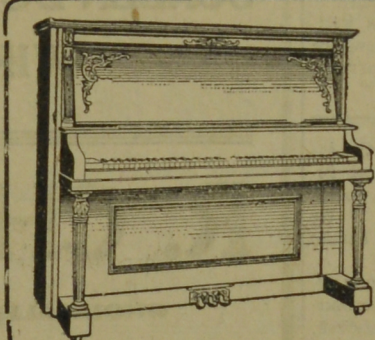

Germany complains that Italy is stabbing her in the back. Germany, of course, only kicked Belgium in the stomach and proceeded to club that prostrate country while it lay helpless.
