DISILLUSIONED.

A short time ago a servant living in Yorkshore gave notice to leave her situation, informing her mistress she was about to be married.

As the time drew near for leaving, she addressed her mistress thus:

"Please, mum, have you got a girl yet?"

"No, Bridget. Why do you ask?"

"Because, if you haven't, I should like to stay."

"Why, I thought you were going to marry the sweep!"

"Oh yes, mum," replied Bridget, hesitatingly. "But when I saw him after 'is face was washed I felt that I could not love 'im."

CRUEL THRUST AT MAUDE.

For a long time James and Maude had courted. Eventually the engagement was announced and to the loving pair the future looked as beautiful as if it had received a new coat of paint.

But alas! One evening there was a misunderstanding and then came the bitter quarrel. With flashing eyes the proud beauty yanked off the hundred dollar solitaire.

"Take your ring," she dramatically cried. "I have decided that I can never be your wife! I shall expect you to return everything you have in your possession that belongs to me!"

"All I have is a lock of your hair and a photograph," sadly replied James. "You will hardly care for the photograph but the lock of hair you will no doubt wish to preserve as a souvenir."

"As a souvenir of what, pray?" imperiously demanded the angry Maude. "Of the time when you were a brunette," was the gentle rejoinder of James.

THE LAST CHORD.

"It is marvelous," began Green before a goodly audience "how coming events cast their shadows before them. Why, only the other day there was a fire at our church and I bet none of you can tell me what was the last thing played on the organ!"

"Lost Chord?" ventured one.

Green shook his head.

"Was it Faust?" suggested the man of opera.

"All wrong," answered Green.

"Well, what on earth was it?" asked one impatiently.

Green made good his line of retreat, and then came his answer:

"The hose!" he managed to shout, amid a hail of missiles.

WHY NOT SPORTS?

It seems to us that one of the best means to encourage general interest in the country as a place to live in is for communities to aid in organizing amateur sport and give the young people a reasonable amount of time in which to make themselves proficient in the particular sport in which they desire to engage. If the farm work has to be stopped one or two nights a week a half an hour or an hour earlier in order that the chore may be done in time to get to the ball field, it will in the end mean a very small loss; in fact, it generally proves a gain, as interested boys are much better workers than those who look upon their daily operations as drudgery with no play thrown in. The old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," will never wear threadbare. It is just as true today as it ever was, and we believe that parents and the older folks generally should take an interest in the sports of the young people. There is a great means of developing not only good physique but first class mental training in meeting opponents on a common ground fairly and squarely, and doing the utmost that lies within one's power to win on a fair basis a game of football, baseball or lacrosse. Many a man owes the measure of self control which he has in his older life to experiences on the diamond or gridiron. There is plenty of land in the country to provide athletic fields, and there should be sufficient interest taken to insure a number well supplied with the best possible pastimes which amateur sport offers, and where the people know the players, take an interest in the teams, and everything is done on a square and fair basis for the pure "fun of the thing." Farmer's Advocate.

THE LAND OF PROMISE

Canada has good land, free land, and cheap land.

Canada offers a man and his children each a chance to make a living. Canada's laws and institutions are based upon those which have proved beneficial to the British Empire, and they are enlarged.

Canada's wages are higher than the higher cost of living.

Canada is near enough to allow any one to go to the Mother Country for a brief holiday.

Canada already grows sufficient foodstuffs to feed the British Isles, and she intends to eliminate the foreign supply in the British market. Canada's resources have only been scratched in a few places, and her natural wealth is largely undiscovered and unmeasured in value and extent. Canada's railway mileage exceeds that of Great Britain.

Canada gives the poor man a chance of being his own master, denied him elsewhere.

Canada offers safe and profitable returns on the investment of capital. Canada is the land of sunshine.

Canada's flag is the Union Jack. Canada's cereal crop of 1912, loaded in 20-ton goods trucks, is one continuous train, travelling at 30 miles an hour, would oblige a person to stand on the station platform six days and nights to see this train pass by.

Canada is the land for the fit, and needs no workhouse, nor does she tolerate the wastrel.

Canada will always find work at good wages for the capable worker. The demand for workers always exceeds the supply.

Canada has invigorating winters, full of healthy recreation.

Canada produces men that have a mighty respect for women.

Canada is a land still in the making, profiting by the mistakes and wisdom of older peoples.

Canada can supply all the bread and cheese the Old Land wants any year.

POSTHUMOUS STORY OF ROMANTIC EMDEN

To the long list of authentic narrative legends, and traditions which the Emden and her Bayard-like Captain left behind in the Indian Ocean is now added one brought to the Evening News of Sydney, Australia, by Capt. G. Becket of the British steamer Clan Graham, which reached Australia on Jan. 20, direct from Mauritius, where the captain heard the story.

The episode happened at the outlying little island of Diego Garcia some weeks before Nov. 9, when the Emden was destroyed by the armored cruiser Sydney at Cocos Islands. In certain respects it is similar to the story of how a United States cruiser captured the island of Guam in the Spanish-American war, but Capt. von Muller sailed away without undecaying his hosts. The story as told in the Evening News runs as follows:

The Emden visited the Island of Diego Garcia, which is a dependency of Mauritius. It is not very big and has no wireless or other telegraphic communication with the outside world and there is only a casual steamer service. As a result of this, war was declared without the knowledge of the inhabitants, and months passed by without the news being heard at Diego Garcia. Capt. von Muller of the Emden, seems to have reckoned on this, and to have turned his knowledge to account.

One morning the Garcians, who, though British subjects are of French descent, awoke to find a warship in their bay. At once a great commotion commenced on shore, as the visit of a vessel of any description was always a red-letter day. The German flag was flying at the vessel's masthead and presently the name Emden could be distinguished. Soon a boat put out from the cruiser, and Capt. von Muller himself went ashore to pay his respects. Then there commenced a series of entertainments and junketings, and the officers and men of the Emden were royally feted. The islanders meant to show the world what they could do in the way of hospitality, hoping, perhaps, that other vessels might then be induced to call.

But the Garcians wanted news. The wily Germans had reckoned on this, and strung off a lot of things that were happening abroad. They never mentioned the war, however. On the second day Capt. von Muller had an important announcement to make. He stated that he was so flattered by his reception that he intended to give the islanders a chance to earn some money. His ship wanted cleaning badly, and at the present moment, he said, he was on his way home to Kiel to have her docked.

"Now," he said, "what is to prevent us from cleaning the Emden here and cleaning her bottom. I am sure I can rely on your assistance and you will be amply recompensed for the trouble."

Thus it came about that while the exploits of the Emden were being echoed around the world, and Englishmen everywhere were grasping at the daring of the Captain, a little British colony of its own free will was engaged in rejuvenating the offending vessel. All the time were warships scouring the seas round about for the same vessel and thinking that owing to her dirty bottom, she could not run fast.

The Emden was run ashore on a
