PACIFIC SALMON IN MAINE WATERS

Washington, Oct. 16.—New England waters are contributing a new edible fish to the market of which the Bureau of Fisheries thinks so highly that it has published no less than a dozen recipes telling housewives how to cook it. Of the tragedies which occur in the sea and the great distress which befall the lowly dwellers therein we know but little and the brief but tragic history of the tilefish therefore has peculiar interest. The discovery, the almost complete extermination and the rapid re-establishment of this large, handsome and potentially valuable species, all within the space of less than fifteen years, is one of the remarkable stories of marine biology.

CAUGHT SOUTH OF NANTUCKET.

So far as is known, man had never seen this fish until May, 1879, when Capt. Kirby of the fishing schooner William V. Hutchins, while fishing near the hundred fathom curve, south of Nantucket, caught several thousand pounds of a "strange and handsomely colored fish." He sent a specimen to the United States Fish Commission, where it was found to be new and was named Lopholatilus chamaeleonticeps. This name, which means the crested tilus with a head like a chameleon, may be used, after a little practice, with more or less facility by men of science, but for every day use something shorter was needed, so the describer exercised the privilege of a discoverer and, perpetrating a pun on the fourth of the first name, called it "tile" fish. The fact that the fish was new was interesting but what had most attention was that it existed in enormous numbers within a short distance of the coast and that its edible qualities were of a high order.

FISH MYSTERIOUSLY KILLED.

Prof. Baird, the commissioner of fisheries, at once appreciated the economic opportunity afforded by the discovery and began investigations to determine the location of the fishing grounds and the feasibility of establishing a fishery, but before much could be done the tile fish was apparently practically exterminated by a mysterious disturbance along the edge of the coastal slope. The first news of this disaster came in March, 1882, when the master of a vessel reported them gone.

FISH RETURN WITH STREAM.

It is reasonable to suppose that being habituated to a warm and equable submarine climate they were killed by a cold wave which enveloped them. A few years afterwards, while the Gulf Stream was "off soundings," investigations showed that it was again gradually approaching the coast and it was predicted that in 1892 it would be flowing over a dash in which its deep stratum would again bathe the bottom of the New England coast, on which the tilefish formerly had abounded. The prediction came true and the fishing schooner Grampus, in the summer of that year, caught a few on the old grounds, although a persistent search in the preceding ten years had failed to reveal a single specimen. Evidently the return of congenial conditions caused the fish to immigrate from areas in which the mortality had not been so complete, probably farther south along the coast.

NOW ABUNDANT AS EVER.

Whether the straying of the Gulf Stream was or was not responsible for the mortality suffered ten years before, the return of the current to its old course was coincident with the recurrence of the tilefish, which has yearly increased in numbers in its old haunts until now it is apparently as numerous as ever. The Bureau of Fisheries believes it to be capable of supporting a great fishery and adding a desirable fish to the market. It is a large, beautifully colored fish of excellent food qualities, and as it is easily caught and is found in great abundance probably at all seasons of the year, within one hundred miles of the coast, it can be put on the market of the New England and North Atlantic states in excellent condition.

SERIOUS CLASH IN NASHUA STRIKE

Nashua, N.H., Oct. 18.—An augmented military guard tonight patrolled the plant of the Nashua Manufacturing Company as a result of the conflict today between strike sympathizers and militia and police in which a man was probably fatally shot, a woman was bayoneted and other persons were clubbed. Two companies of militia from Manchester arrived late today to help the two local companies, which have been on duty within the mill gates since the strike began two weeks ago.

Adam Rexavitch, the man who was shot today, was still in a critical condition tonight. His wound was from a revolver bullet, fired by a militia officer, according to Deputy Sheriff George A. Campbell. Adjutant Chas. W. Howard of the state militia, tonight said he had no statement to make regarding the day's troubles.

At the hospital where Alexandria Bolek was taken with a bayonet wound in the right arm, it was said that she was in no danger. Two other girls who had been clubbed by militiamen or officers were also under hospital treatment and physicians reported having treated four more.

The disturbance grew out of an attempt of the manufacturing company to run cars on a siding, which police officials assert women were trying to block by sitting on the track with children in their arms.

Other minor disorders occurred during the day and evening, in connection with the strike sympathizers' frustration of attempts to send supplies to the militiamen quartered at the mills. They dragged drivers of food-laden teams from their seats and turned the horses loose.

GERMAN "COUNT" HELD FOR BIGAMY

New York, Oct. 18.—Max Lyner, also known as Count Max Lyner London, was arrested today on a charge of bigamy and committed in the Tombs in default of $10,000.

Lyner's attorneys made an effort to have the bail reduced but Assistant District Attorney Bostwick, in opposing a reduction, intimated that the department of justice had filed certain important information concerning Lyner with the district attorney's office and stated it was imperative that Lyner be present when his trial is called.

Lyner's attorney told the court his client was suspected by the government of being a German spy. Lyner laughed openly at this and his attorney then declared there was no foundation for the charge.

MARYSVILLE NOTES

Marysville, Oct. 19.—Rev. Alfred Hall of Toronto representing the Canadian National Branch of the British and Foreign Sailors Society occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church last evening and gave his famous lecture entitled, "A Hundred Years of Christian Work Among the Sailors." There was a large congregation present who were very much interested in the able and instruction discourse. A very enjoyable and pleasing program was also carried out. Rev. Mr. Hall will always be a welcome visitor to Marysville, as his lecture was certainly a treat.

APPRECIATION
... FROM

A. SATISFIED USER

Parker's Ridge, York Co.

June 30-1915.

TO: PALMER-McLELLAN CO.

Fredericton, N. B.

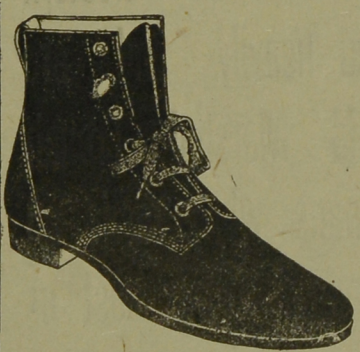

Gentlemen:-

I bought a pair of your Driving Boots from W. R. McCloskey Limited of Boiestown before the driving season of 1915, and about the middle of April last. I wore them all through river driving, and afterwards I removed the caulk and have worn them every day since with every satisfaction. I find the boots comfortable and waterproof, and they are still in good enough condition for me to wear them this Fall and do my next Spring driving in.

These Boots have had hard wear not only on the drive, but in connection with my farming and woods operation ever since, and I have no hesitation in recommending same to any person requiring a boot for long wear and hard service.

Yours very truly,

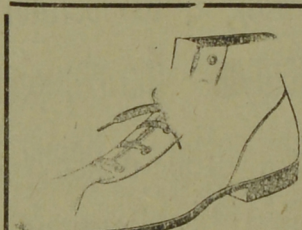

Clarence Boies.

are open today to men in every walk of life. But the men must possess vigorous bodies and keen active minds.

Success-making mental and physical activity relies largely upon right living wherein the right kind of food plays a most vital part.

In many cases the daily diet lacks certain of Nature's elements essential to energizing and upbuilding the mental and physical faculties. Most white flour products, such as white bread and many other commonly used foods, are in that class.

A food especially designed to offset this lack--

Grape-Nuts

--made of wheat and malted barley, supplies all the nutriment of the grains, including the mineral salts--sturdy builders of brain, nerve and muscle.

Grape-Nuts is thoroughly processed, ready to serve from the package, fresh, crisp and delicious. Then, too, there's a wonderful return of the power to "do" and to "be" for the small energy required in its digestion.

After repeated set-backs thousands have found a change to right eating means forging ahead.
