HALIFAX FIREMEN
OF THE OLDEN DAYS"Occasional," whose interesting historical letters are a weekly feature of The Halifax Recorder, recently devoted some space to old volunteer fire companies, which did duty in the Nova Scotia capital in 1829. Following is an extract from the article:"Considering the water supply, which was from wells, and the limited apparatus for fighting fire in those days, it is wonderful what efficient work was done by the old fire companies, assisted by the military and the navy when in port. Rule five, of the Sun Company, will give an idea how a Halifax fireman of old days was equipped:"Every member shall, under penalty of ten shillings, before the next quarterly meeting after his admission provide himself, at his own expense, with the undermentioned articles: Two buckets, to be made of leather, to contain three gallons each, to be painted red with black handles and rims, to have a figure of the Sun painted near the top and the owner's name, in white letters, under; two bags, to be made of raven's duck, one yard and a half long, with strings to tie at the mouth and the owner's name, in black letters, on the side; a hat to be made of leather, with a helmet top six inches high, the brim three inches in front, and a circular flap behind, to fall six inches below the top of the cape of the coat, to have a badge in front, with the figure of the Sun painted thereon. At the expense of the company there shall be furnished twelve horn lanterns, the rims painted black, with the words, "Sun Fire Company" and the name of the treasurer of the company for the time being, with his title mark on each; they shall be kept by twelve members for one year, in rotation and be carried to all fires which may happen at night; also fifty buckets and six axes, with cases and straps, shall be furnished at the expense of the company and delivered the members appointed by the company to take charge of them; the figure of the Sun, over the words, Sun Fire Company, the holders' names and the numbers from one to fifty, shall be painted on the buckets—which, the lantern and axe, as well as the buckets, bags and hat of the member in whose charge they are placed, shall be kept in the most handy and convenient place in the house in which he usually sleeps and never to be used but at a fire, under a penalty of ten shillings. Any member refusing to take charge of one of the said lanterns in turn, to be fined five shillings. The holders of the said lanterns for the time, shall furnish them with two candles, each candle not being less than six inches in length; which shall be constantly kept in them, under a penalty of five shillings, and at the annual meeting each of the said members shall produce their lanterns, under the same penalty, in order to be delivered to their successors, the names of whom shall be entered by the secretary in the proceedings of the evening. The secretary shall once, every quarter or oftener, if the president judge it necessary, accompany two of the members, who shall be appointed at each quarterly meeting in rotation, to inspect the state of the buckets, bags, hat, lantern, axe, etc., of each member and report every deficiency to the company at their next meeting, under a penalty of twenty shillings. Any person refusing to act as inspector without a sufficient cause shall pay a fine of five shillings and the next on the list shall be obliged to serve under the same penalty. But members of sixteen years' standing are exempted from the performance of their dutyBREAKS A BAD COLD

IT FITS THE CRAVATTURKISH FLEET NO LONGER EXISTSCopenhagen, Oct. 19—A Danish gentlemen who has just arrived from Constantinople, says the Turkish fleet no longer exists. The Goeben was disabled and the Breslau's engines destroyed. The cruiser Medi-dieh, wrecked during the expedition in the Black Sea, was torpedoed by the Turks themselves. Later the Russians set her afloat and took her to Odessa. The Hareddin Barbarossa, an armed cruiser of ten thousand tons, on the way to the Dardanelles with German officers and crew, was torpedoed with a small cruiser and a destroyer, and one thousand four hundred perished. The Torgud Reis was disabled by the exploding of its own guns, twenty-five men being killed. Many small cruisers and torpedo boats were destroyed by mines.The Hamidieh is the only cruiser remaining. Nearly the whole Turkish merchant fleet was destroyed by the allies' submarines.Call and see the ladies' beautiful DiggerGet one now and you will not need to worry about the possibility of a wet fall.The Hoover has been in use for nearly 30 years and, although hundreds of other styles of diggers have been introduced, it still holds first place in the estimation of the large potato growers all over the continent.The steel sides, steel sprockets and complete equipment of roller bearings and high quality of material puts the Hoover ahead of any of the imitations.Chain drive in a digger, is superior to gear drive in that a broken link can be replaced without delay and at trifling cost, the broken gear means considerable delay and expense.

We offer these machines on wonderfully easy terms.
