THE CABINET'S CRISIS IN GREAT BRITAIN

London, May 19—Great Britain today faces a serious ministerial crisis, the outgrowth of friction among government heads. Before many hours a new cabinet, designed to restore harmony in the government and to be representative of all parties, almost certainly will be nominated. The new ministry, it is reported, will include at least five new members.

The resignation of Lord Fisher, the first sea lord, because of a clash with Winston Churchill, the first lord of the admiralty, precipitated the crisis. Early today it was considered certain that Mr. Churchill will resign and it was reported on good authority that the ex-premier, the Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, was slated to become first lord of the admiralty in the new cabinet.

The general charges of the critics of the government have been the failure of the government to appreciate the magnitude of the war and provide munitions on the mammoth scale events have proven was necessary. Failure to show a strong hand in dealing with the German contingent in the country and, generally that more practical men of affairs are needed in the directorate of the government's destinies.

POLITICAL SITUATION IN MANITOBA

Winnipeg, May 19—The Manitoba Free Press editorially today says in part:

"There has been no understanding between the outgoing and incoming Governments. The Roblin Government went out of office for reasons which doubtless appeared sufficient to it. What those reasons were Sir Rodmond can best set forth, if he desires to be frank with the public. But, in any event, the Roblin Government in stepping out was merely forestalling the inevitable. The end had come for the Roblin regime."

"The Norris Government had taken office unhampered in the slightest degree by any stipulation or understanding. It is free to proceed with its first duty—the clearing up of the Parliament Buildings mess. Every dollar stolen from the people of Manitoba must be recovered if its recovery is legally possible, and if any parties no matter who they are ought to go to jail, they will go so far as the action of the Attorney-General's Department can put them there."

DIED IN ST. JOHN

The funeral of the late Mrs. Robert Atherton who passed away yesterday at the home of Ex-Ald. A. M. Rowan, St. John will take place here tomorrow morning, on the arrival of the C. P. R. train from St. John. Interment will be made at the Rural Cemetery. The deceased was the widow of the late Robert Atherton formerly collector of inland revenue.

HOW THE TROUBLE AROSE.

The trouble between Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, and Lord Fisher resulted from the British cabinet sanctioning the first naval attack on the Dardanelles, in ignorance of the fact that the sea lords were opposed to naval operations unsupported by a land force.

Lord Fisher felt acutely the discredit of the sea lords this involved and decided to resign. Faced with an acute ministerial crisis, the government resolved to seek a coalition with the Unionists.

Lord Fisher's resignation opened the way for the most startling political revolution England has seen in many decades. Though reports of friction among administrative heads have grown more frequent and the government has been the object of criticism for several weeks, it was understood a truce was to be established until the end of the war, at least.

The Liberal ministry has been attacked at several angles. The opposition seized upon Lloyd George's drastic measures against the liquor interests and used it as an effective weapon. The failure of the army to obtain continuously adequate supplies of ammunition, the government's alleged policy of withholding news of reverses to the British armies and certain phases of the Dardanelles campaign were also made objects of attack.

In reply, the Liberals charged the opposition with lack of patriotism. They pointed out that a united Germany was laughing at England, divided into warring political camps, while attempting to carry on successfully a great war.

RECONSTRUCTION.

Premier Asquith, it is generally agreed, will remain at the head of the cabinet. The suggestion is made in some quarters that Earl Kitchener will leave the war office and go to Northern France to take active command of the British forces. In this event, it is said, he will be succeeded as secretary for war by Lloyd George Bonar Law, it is suggested, may then enter the cabinet as chancellor of the exchequer.

Amajority of the newspapers support Lord Fisher in the controversy with Mr. Churchill, and sustain his argument that the naval campaign should be free from civilian control, the same as the army has been.

CASE AGAINST CHURCHILL.

The Morning Post has led in the criticism of Mr. Churchill. Its chief charges against him have been that he insisted upon the unsuccessful attempt to force the passage of the Dardanelles with the fleet against the opinion of the sea lords; that the enterprise he personally directed of taking the naval brigade to Antwerp was a costly failure and that the responsibility was his for Rear Admiral Craddock meeting the German Admiral Von Spee off Chile with an inferior squadron.

On the other side of the account, Mr. Churchill is given credit for the mobilization of the fleet at the beginning of the war and for the efficient condition in which it entered the war.

A Nurse says:

"I have been a trained nurse for some fifteen years and like many nurses, drank strong coffee. About two years ago I called a halt. I missed my coffee until some one recommended Postum, which I have used ever since, recommending it to many of my patients."

A Teacher says:

"I have been a coffee drinker ever since I can remember. I have been teaching school for sixteen years and became more and more nervous. I could not sleep. After reading some of your literature I decided to try Postum. I have been using it about thirty days; my nerves have improved; I have no headache; sleep peacefully and am able to do my school work better."

A Doctor says:

"I often find it necessary to prohibit the use of coffee for my patients, and have advised the use of Postum with good results to the nervous system and digestive apparatus."

When the time comes that you want to get rid of tea and coffee troubles, change to
