CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF FREDERICK THE GREAT

Berlin, Jan. 23.—All Prussia, and in fact nearly all Germany, is en fête today for the beginning of the great celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Frederick the Great. From the capital down to the smallest hamlet and village business is at a standstill and the populace has given itself up to the joyousness of the occasion.

The celebration in Berlin today with a lecture at the War Academy on the power of Frederick the Great as a general and strategist. The lecture was attended by the Emperor who was surrounded by ministers of state, generals of the army, admirals of the navy and members of the diplomatic corps, all in glittering uniforms.

Tomorrow will be the big day of the bicentenary celebration. In the morning more Emperor, attending by the high officers of the Russian army will participate in a solemn memorial service in the old garrison church at Potsdam, behind the altar which, Frederick the Great lies buried in an iron casket.

Berlin will observe the day as a public holiday. In the afternoon there will be parades, regimental celebrations and historical exercises. The day will close with a military gala opera. One of the principal events will be the fête of the White Hall of the Schloss, which will be attended by delegations representing all of the regiments which can trace their origin back to Frederick's times. Each delegation will consist of the commander of the regiment, one lieutenant, the color of the regiment the color bearer and one non-commissioned officer.

The celebration of the day will not be confined to the capital. In all the principal cities and towns of Prussia the municipalities and voluntary citizens' committees have made preparations for the day. In every school the scholars will observe the day by applauding patriotic addresses delivered by the principals and teachers and by recitation and singing. Every scholar will be presented a short history of Frederick the Great.

Frederick, surnamed the Great, whose memory is being honored by the forty odd million inhabitants of Prussia, is one of the dominant figures in the history of Europe. He was born January 24, 1712, and when he was twenty-eight years old succeeded his father Frederick William King as king of Prussia. The character of the young king was still very imperfectly understood, when events occurred which exhibited it in a strong light.

A few months after his accession died Charles VI., emperor of Germany, and Maria Theresa succeeded to the Austrian throne. Frederick set up a claim to Silesia and in a short campaign succeeded in wresting that rich territory from Maria Theresa and annexing it to the Prussian dominions. His action, however, plunged all Europe into a bloody war. The conflict raged by sea and land in Italy, in Germany, and in Poland.

The war lasted till, in the year 1748, it was terminated by the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle. Of all the powers that had taken part in it the only gainer was Frederick. Not only had he added to his patrimony the fine province of Silesia, but by his consummate diplomacy he had succeeded as well in alternately depressing the scale of Austria and that of France. At the termination of the struggle he was generally regarded as holding the balance of Europe—a high dignity for one whose youth had held forth little promise of greatness.

In 1756 commenced the seven year's war, the result of which was to raise the little state of Prussia to the front rank of European powers. But it was not in his wonderful military achievements alone that Frederick displayed his greatness. Throughout his career he displayed an infinite genius in promoting the welfare of his country and his subjects. From the commencement of his reign he applied himself to public business after a fashion hitherto unknown among kings. Every department of his government received his personal attention and the highest functionaries were as mere clerks under his direction. In personal and public affairs alike he practiced rigid economy.

As an administrator Frederick was without an equal. He earnestly labored to secure his people the great blessing of cheap and speedy justice. Religious persecution was unknown under his government. He sought by every means to extend the commercial industries of his kingdom and from the beginning to the end of his career he was liberal patron of the fine arts.

When he died at the age of seventy-four, he left to his successor a well-regulated state, a powerful army and a treasury well provided. The greatest treasure, however, he left, in the words of the historian Macaulay, was the recollection of his heroic and glorious acts, which in subsequent times has continued to operate upon his nation with all its awakening power and heart-stirring influence.

Rev. Canon Smithers returned last evening from Chipman, via St. John. Mr. E. R. Emmerson, Jr., of Amherst, N.S., is registered at the Queen.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness to the scalp entirely disappear.

Don't neglect your hair. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and you will be surprised at the quick results.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

THE POPE RECEIVES A TRIBUTE OF LAMBS

Rome, Jan. 22.—The Pope, who appeared to be in excellent health Sunday received a large delegation which brought to him a number of lambs, following the custom of years. This being the feast of St. Agnes, the church bearing her name pays a tribute of lambs to St. John Lateran. They are first brought to the Pope for his benediction. The Pope caressed the lambs which were bedecked with ribbons. They will be kept alive until Easter, their wool being used for the pallia conferred upon archbishops.

DIED AT SACKVILLE

The town of Sackville was greatly shocked on Saturday by news of the death of Arthur W. Atkinson, a very highly respected resident at the age of fifty-two years. He had been around as usual until a few days ago when he complained of feeling poorly. Nothing serious was anticipated until last night when a doctor was summoned it was then found that the case was very serious. He became unconscious about two o'clock this morning and died a few hours later. Besides his wife who was formerly Miss Lee of St. John, he leaves two boys at home; one brother, Mariner C. of Fredericton, and three sisters—Mrs. Crowson, of Sackville, Mrs. James Doncaster, of Amherst and Mrs. Outhouse, of West Somerville, Mass.

Mr. John D. Graham of Toronto, is in the city.
