PRESS COMMENT ON SASKATCHEWAN ELECTION

(Toronto Globe.)

The complete results in Saskatchewan will not be available for a day or two, and till they are it will be impossible to indicate the full extent of the Liberal victory in the province. The government of the Hon. Walter Scott had to meet the full strength of the Dominion government. The election cry of the Conservatives was "Saskatchewan for Borden and Haultain." The result is a crushing blow to the Hon. Robert Rogers, who agreed to deliver Saskatchewan to his party chief as one would deliver a load of merchandise. He has discovered that there are men on the plains, thousands of them, who can neither be bought nor coerced.

For Mr. Haultain the bitterness of defeat will be all the greater because he chose to take his stand for party loyalty rather than principle. Mr. Haultain championed the cause of reciprocity in the Saskatchewan legislature a little over a year ago. He scorned, as he himself said, to sit at the feet of the eastern Gamaliels who were opposing the policy of larger markets. In an evil moment Mr. Haultain came under the influence of Mr. Rogers and agreed to disown the reciprocity "heresy" and deliver the province to the federal Conservatives. He has failed, and by his attempt has forfeited the good-will of thousands of the pro-reciprocity Conservatives of Saskatchewan, who still refuse to "sit at the feet of the eastern Gamaliels and study loyalty."

Mr. Frank Beer, president of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, must have had a vision of what was happening in Saskatchewan when he said to his fellow-members:

"It would be useless to attempt to disguise the fact that the west (Alberta and Saskatchewan) is keenly disappointed over its failure to obtain access to the larger markets of the United States, and so long as that feeling of disappointment prevails it cannot be said that reciprocity is dead."

Mr. Beer hopes that wider markets for the west will come through the development of diversified manufacturing industries west of the Great Lakes. That will be a very slow process and it is immediate markets the west needs. He is right when he says that reciprocity is not dead. The battle for larger markets is but begun.

(Montreal Herald)

Premier Scott and his government have won a notable victory in Saskatchewan, after a fight of exceptional and regrettable bitterness. They appealed to the electorate with a fine record of progressive legislation, and the electorate has endorsed their work. It has done so even more completely than many Liberals anticipated.

That the election was not fought on purely provincial lines was largely the fault of the Hon. Mr. Rogers who, with his Ottawa cohorts, made a strong attack on the constituency. They, no doubt, felt that it would be useless to attack Mr. Scott's Government on its record of clean and efficient government. They, accordingly, employed the methods made familiar last September and used the Federal result for all it was worth. Premier Scott's reply was to fight the battle for reciprocity over again. He judged accurately the strength of the western demand for larger markets.

The result puts on record indisputably that the West will not be content until it has larger markets. Sir Wilfrid Laurier offered one way of obtaining them last September. Conceivably, it was not the most desirable way, but it at least was a sane and sure way, and a way with which Saskatchewan has now, for the second time, declared itself satisfied. If there are other ways, let them be demonstrated. The West cannot be expected to see its interests neglected and yet remain passive. It cannot be expected to allow itself to be robbed year after year of opportunity and the just reward of its labor. It simply must have wider markets. As Mr. Beer, the retiring chairman of the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said yesterday, "no amount of specious argument or flag-waving will allay the feeling or satisfy the West that it has not been robbed." This coming from an Eastern manufacturer, one of those whom the West, not always with justice, regards as its natural enemies, is significant. Mr. Beer, however, did not propose reciprocity as a remedy. He hoped that the needed wider markets would come through the development of diversified manufacturing industries west of the Great Lakes. Of course as Mr. Beer knows such a development in a country where power and labor are costly and difficult to find; must be slow, and meanwhile the grievances of the West would accumulate.

Saskatchewan has, at any rate declared its opinion emphatically, and it is for Mr. Borden to answer its just demands. The country cannot be ruled in one interest against the welfare of its most increasingly important population. If the preponderance of votes in Ontario renders Reciprocity impossible, there must be found some other effective way of satisfying the just demand of the West. When Reciprocity was defeated no problem was solved, but a grave and difficult problem was accentuated. Mr. Borden and the majority of Canadians refused Sir Wilfrid Laurier's solution. What have they to offer in its place?

Right Food Works Wonders

It is often the case that people drift into wrong habits of food, although they should know better.

When one gets into trouble of this sort it's a fine thing to know how to get out of it. The "food route" is the common sense way back to health and comfort.

RUMORS THAT HAL CHASE WILL BE TRADED

There are persistent rumors in baseball circles in New York that Hal Chase, the one-time star first baseman of the New York American league club, and former manager of the team, will be traded to the Chicago Americans. It is said that President Comiskey is willing to give away infielder Zeider, a pitcher, an outfielder and a considerable sum in cash for Chase. Chase has not been going well this year, in fact he is having his poorest year since breaking into the big leagues. At present Sterrett, the former Princeton catcher, is playing such a good game at first that Chase could be let go without perceptibly weakening the team.

President Johnson is in New York with President Comiskey of the White Sox, and it is said that the league executive is here in an effort to find out what is ailing the Highlanders. President Johnson realizes that the American League is at a low ebb in New York, and may take drastic measures to strengthen the league local representatives.

CY MORGAN RELEASED

Philadelphia, July 15—The first break in the quartette of great pitchers that helped to bring two American League pennants to this city, came today when Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics announced that he had released Harry R. (Cy) Morgan to the Kansas City team of the American Association. Morgan came to the Philadelphia team in 1909 as a result of a trade with the Boston Americans.

MESSANGER BOY

MADE A HAUL

Mr. Becton declined to discuss the case with reporters. While it was said that the amount of cash given to the messenger was only $300, the attitude of the manager and others gave observers an idea that the amount might have been greater. After learning that the Albany police had found the checks Mr. Becton departed immediately for that city. He said that the checks totalled $538,113, and that a deposit slip accompanied them. The Albany police recovered the deposit slip also.

Joseph left the office of the cigar stores company at 10.30 o'clock. The officials of the National Bank of Commerce were expecting the deposit and when the messenger did not arrive they communicated with the West Eighteenth street office. There was consternation when it became known to the officials there that the boy had disappeared. At noon the case was reported to the police and Lieut. Reim and Detective Scanlon, were assigned to the case.

They did not learn from the cigar people the nature of the deposit, whether it was a regular week-end delivery to the bank or whether it was an extraordinary deposit. The fact that the boy was known only by a first name and that no other information was obtainable puzzled the detectives when they started on the case.

The message of Chief of Police Hyatt of Albany, to Lieut. Funston at police headquarters in this city, set their minds at ease respecting the checks. How much cash the boy had with him when he started for the bank could not be learned. It is the theory of the police that the boy took the money and bought a ticket for Albany and after arriving there lost his nerve and decided to get rid of the checks as soon as possible.

MOTORCYCLISTS AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, July 16—Numerous parties of motor cyclists, many of them from distant parts of the country have arrived in Columbus during the past twenty-four hours in readiness for the opening of the annual national meet of the Federation of American motor cyclists. The meet will open tomorrow and continue for the remainder of the week. From present indications it will be the greatest gathering of two-wheel devotees since the big national meets were held years ago during the palmy days of the League of American Wheelmen. The races will be conducted on the half-mile board track recently completed here. The big feature will be a five-mile national professional championship race, for which the Motor cycle Manufacturers' Association is offering a $200 cup.
