BANQUET TO SIR WILFRID WAS GREAT SUCCESS

they are all Conservatives—to get the patronage of the government.

"Men there were who took the Nationalists and the Quebec Conservatives at their word before the last election, and who thought that they were what they represented themselves to be. They denounced Laurier, as you know, but they denounced Borden as well as Laurier. Laurier was bad but Borden was no better. They had nothing at all to do with Borden and did not want to have anything to do with him until Borden had patronage to give—commissionships, collectorships, even memberships. Then they ceased to be Nationalists and they were all Conservatives. They were tamed; so tame as to go and eat out of his hand, and lick his fingers afterwards.

"Men there were who supposed they were actuated by motives, by principles, by high ideals, who supposed that after the election they would be as firm as they were before. "Men there were who believed that they would be like the German senate in the Reichstag, under the leadership of De Winthorst, and would not support the government unless the government would give them their ideals—in this case, the restoration of the separate schools in Manitoba, and the repeal of the naval law.

POOR DELUDED MEN.

"Poor, deluded men they were. They found their mistake when they saw their friends at work. They know now that the patriotism of the Nationalists and the patriotism of the Quebec Conservatives does not spring from the heart, but from the stomach. When their stomachs are full their hearts cease to beat, and tongues are mute.

"That is the example we have had since the last election, and I say that perhaps it was worth being defeated, under the circumstances, because the Quebec people now know that there are men who go before them and tell them that all questions which come before parliament can be settled from the point of view of one province, and one province alone, irrespective of the views of the other provinces. These men are either charlatans or demi-gods, if they are not both.

"Eight months have elapsed since the last election, and, therefore, perhaps we are sufficiently removed from the heat and agitation of the contest to be able to review with calmness and judgment and impartiality the issue which was before the country at the time. Of course, the main issue was the question of reciprocity.

LIKE A YOUNG RAKE.

"In my appreciation the present government is very much like a young rake who has been unexpectedly called to an estate long administered by careful hands, and who, dazzled and bewildered by his sudden good fortune, plunges his hand deep into the accumulated treasures, and scatters them broadcast east and west in a very excess of riotous extravagance, to make up for the long period of enforced abstinence. (Cheers.)

"That is the condition of the government. After a long term in opposition, finding a full treasury, thanks to the administration of a competent government, they have put their hands deep into the coffers and scattered the contents to the winds, and all the time they have been doing this they have been making dismissals and appointments.

"They were not one day in office when there stormed upon them a host of applicants for office, coming as thick as the locusts in Egypt. Their time was taken up making dismissals and making appointments. The job was so heavy on their hands that they appointed commissions to help them. They appointed no less than forty-one commissions to make dismissals, and the more dismissals they make the more applicants they have. The other day, in New Brunswick, Mr. Foster, surrounded, besieged, buttonholed, suffocated, uttered a cry of despair: 'This is a damnable system.' I agree with him. It is a damnable system, when damnable administered. But, the remedy is at hand, and Mr. Foster would have no difficulty if he adopted it.

APPOINTMENTS BY MERIT.

"I remember very well not long ago when Mr. Foster was in opposition, he stated that all appointments ought to be made on merit. If appointments are made by merit, as they were under the previous government, Mr. Foster's days and the days of his colleagues would be no longer damnable, but would be as serene as our days were.

"Mr. Foster, however, is a very good preacher, but I am afraid that he will not practice as well as he preaches, and that he will continue to say, 'This is a damnable system,' but he will not have the courage to put an end to it.

"Upon all these questions, in a country like Canada, no one can attempt a solution from the point of view of one province alone. Upon such questions the provinces are not broad enough. You have to take in the whole of Canada, and the whole of the Canadian people. You must appeal to the best instincts of every man irrespective of his creed, race or nationality.

"This is what we shall do again. We know by the teaching of history and by our own recent experience that questions and problems arise which have to be taken up by the men in office, whoever they may be. We know that the solution provided by a government (although it may be the best under the circumstances) sometimes fails to command the appreciation of the people for whose benefit it is intended. History, and our own experience have taught us that it is no uncommon fate for reformers to suffer dire penalty for their courage and their foresight. When Mr. Gladstone undertook, by meeting the sentiments of the Irish people for local government, to settle the Irish problem, and to make Ireland contented, happy and proud, he had to suffer, and did suffer the penalty of his courage and his foresight. He suffered the loss of friends, the loss of popularity, the loss of power, but he sowed deep in the ground, and he laid the foundation of eternal gratitude not only in the hearts of the Irish people, but in the hearts of British subjects all over the world. He did not live to see the full fruition of his labor, but we are now witnesses of his labors coming to fruit.

HAVE SOWN WELL.

"We, too, in our humble way, and with our modest force, say that we have sown good in the ground. We had to champion causes which were not immediately popular, such as the establishment of the Canadian navy. We have had to suffer the dire penalty of our courage and foresight. We have lost friends. We have lost power. We have lost opportunity. So far as I am concerned, however, I tell you again that I regret nothing which has happened.

"The seed will still germinate. Happier than Gladstone, it may be my lot to see it reach its full maturity; but that is not with me a supreme consideration. The supreme consideration I have given you at the beginning and I give it to you at the end, 'My orders are to fight.'

ONE MORE ADDED TO THE GREAT ARMY

Who are shouting the praises of
Dodd's Kidney Pills

Chiswick man's Kidney Trouble developed in to Rheumatism, and finally into Diabetes
—story of his complete cure

One More Added to the Great.....
Chiswick, Ont., May 31—(Special)— Rheumatism, which developed into Diabetes, had made life a burden to Octave Labracque of this place.
Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him and he is added to that great army of Canadians who glory in telling their neighbors that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure remedy for all kidney ills.

"My limbs would swell and I had a dragging sensation across the loins."
Mr. Labracque says, in giving his experience, "I could not attend to my work properly as I had to keep resting and I was troubled with rheumatism, and my troubles finally developed into Diabetes.

"I tried different medicines and doctors but got little relief till I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ten boxes made a new man of me."
All Mr. Labracque's troubles came from diseased kidneys. They speedily ceased when he commenced to use the one sure cure for diseased kidneys—
Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE CONSISTENT MR. FLEMMING

Mr. Fleming, May 26th, 1911, said:

"Were the railway extended from St. John to Grand Falls, I do not think that the Grand Trunk Pacific would switch their traffic from their own steel to the seaboard. I WOULD GREATLY FEAR THE LINE
IF SO CONSTRUCTED WOULD NEVER BE THE CONVEYOR OF
ANY LARGE AMOUNT OF OCEAN
BOUND TRAFFIC."

Mr. Fleming at Woodstock, May 22nd, 1912, said:

"THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT THE (VALLEY) ROAD WILL GET A SHARE OF THE WESTERN TRAFFIC. Someone may say there is no room for more railways, but instead there is no room for jealous-ies between rival companies. FOR THERE IS ENOUGH TRAFFIC AND TO SPARE FOR ALL THE RAIL-WAYS THAT CAN BE CONSTRUCTED.
IT IS A QUESTION OF GET-TING THE RAILWAYS FOR THE TRAFFIC."

BABY'S OWN TABLETS A MOTHER'S STANDBY

Mrs Wm. Kerbaghan, Cartwright, Man., says: "I always use Baby's Own Tablets and find them an excellent remedy for little ones. Thousands of other mothers say the same thing simply because they have found the Tablets the best medicine to give their little ones to make teething easy; to expel worms; relieve constipation and to make baby plump, healthy and strong. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FURRIERS MAY STRIKE

New York, May 31—Here's where the long suffering public has a chance to laugh. The price of coal has advanced and now it is learned that fur coats, muffs and neck pieces are likely to cost more, just as if anyone cared—at the beginning of summer. The recent miners' strike boosted the price of coal and the same cause is expected to send the price of fur skyward. The 10,000 men and women employed in the manufacture of fur garments are dissatisfied with conditions as they exist and a general
the Furriers' International Union strike is threatened. The officers of will meet in this city tomorrow
to take a ballot on the question of calling a general strike. The eight-hour workday, increase in wages averaging 25 per cent, and recognition of the union, are the points involved.

ANOTHER CONTRACT.

It now seems likely that Messrs.
John S. Scott and James Kelly will be awarded a sub-contract to build a section of the Valley Railway between The Barony and Woodstock.
They were promised a contract at Kingsclear, but were ended out of it at the last moment. Mr. Scott is said to have expressed his opinion of the transaction in pretty forcible language and the patronage dispensers were not long in running to cover.

OLD HOME WEEK BUTTONS.

Mr. G. M. McDade, publicity agent, has asked for quotations on several thousands of buttons to be used during Old Home Week in August. The buttons will probably bear the city coat-of-arms. Ten thousand Old Home Week stickers have also been ordered.
