The Family and the Farm.

MERRY MAY.

BY MRS. ELLEN F LATTIMORE.

I'm glad the Winter's gone at last,
With blinding snow and raging blast.
I'm glad, so glad, the bright-eyed Spring
Has made all nature laugh and sing,
I can't help dancing all the day:
'Tis merry, merry, merry May,

I waked this morning, don't you think,
And heard a darling Bob-o-link;
A Robin, too, sat on a tree,
And looked as gay as gay could be.
They've both been singing all the day,
'Tis merry, merry, merry May,

To the woods I flew with eager feet,
To seek for flowers, pure and sweet;
I found them, too. In sunny spots,
I spied the blue Forget-me-nots,—
Their smiling faces seemed to say,
'Tis merry, merry, merry May.

The fair Spring beauties on the hill,
Hepaticus more lovely still,
The Wind flower and Arbutus sweet,
Had all peeped up the light to greet;
They can't help blooming all the day,
'Tis merry, merry, merry May.
A little brook ran through the dell,
And tinkled soft its fairy bell,
To call the dewdrops in its glee,
To join it as it sought the sea.
It can't help rippling all the day,
'Tis merry, merry, merry May.

"IT'S WORTH YOUR WHILE."

A few evenings ago, at our weekly prayer meeting, as I entered the chapel, I noticed a stranger, an old man, sitting in the front slip. He had such a pleasant, peaceful peace, I wondered who he was, and wished I knew him. Our pastor spoke from some text illustrating the goodness of God, and the many proofs of it. After a few remarks, he said he noticed a friend present who had not been seen in those seats for many years; and then raising his voice, said, "Brother C——, won't you tell us your experience as far as it testifies to the loving kindness of God?" The old gentleman rose, and, leaning on his cane, said,—

"I was born and brought up in this town, and it was here I first hoped I had become a Christian. I was nearly thirty years old then, and had been feeling for a long time that I ought to give myself up to Christ; but I was surrounded by influences which made it very hard for me to declare myself on the Lord's side.

"My father was an open scoffer; and hardest of all, I had lived all my life with my own family not a Christian; and I dreaded what they might say if all of a sudden I changed my course. After a night of severe struggle, I told my wife that I hoped I had given my heart to the Lord, and meant to live for Him.

"The hardest of all was to begin family prayer, but at last I tried, with the Lord's help, and have never given it up. Four of my children have since told me that, under God, they owed their conversion to the influence of family worship. I have now the comfort of knowing two of my children are ministers of the gospel, and the rest I hope are His. This is one instance of God's great mercy.

"I have passed through great trials, but if I murmured at first, afterwards I always saw my Father's kind hand in it all.

"Now I'm very old; my hearing is almost gone; I can see a little to read from the holy Book, but not much. Almost all I can do is to think of the wonderful ways God has led me, and now I'm waiting for Him to call me home. I know no merit of my own will do the least to bring me to heaven, only His love, the same that drew me to Him first. My young friends, I wish what I have told you would lead you to think it was worth your while to give your hearts to Christ now; the younger you are, the younger you'll have to serve Him who has done so much for you."

If this man, who had lived seventy eight years, was able to say that every thing had been done right by his Maker and Redeemer, do you think you are too wise to profit by all this experience? I think not. It's worth your while.—Messenger.

ONE GIRL'S DOING.

A writer in the La Salle Union tells a pleasant little story of a young lady who in 1862 was a student in the Normal University of Illinois. She was a a good natured, quiet girl, and a tolerable scholar; but in those studies requiring composition she failed hopelessly, and could not pass an examination. She tried it for five years, and she might have kept on trying had not a change come. We will let the writer tell of this change and what came of it.

Her parents lived in Bloomington, where her father carried on a furniture store. He was stricken down by disease, and after a long and lingering illness died, leaving M., the oldest girl, her mother, a younger sister and two younger brothers, all of them dependent upon their sister for a livelihood. People sympathized with her—sympathy is so cheap—and came to the following charitable conclusions:

First,—That she would have a hard time of it.

Second,—That the best thing she could do would be to get married.

Third,—That if she couldn't do that she might be able to teach school.

And having thus settled her case, they left her to her fate.

Then the girl's nature asserted itself. Instead of selling off the stock which her father left for what she could get, and living on it until something turned up, she hired workmen, put the stock to rights, and sold it at retail. People pitied her, but they bought her goods. People sympathized with her, as if it were a dreadful thing for a girl to do what in a boy would have been highly commendable.

When the stock run low, she astonished her friends by going to New York city and buying a larger lot of furniture than any one ever before had the hardihood to bring to Bloomington—and what is more, sold it. For the first year the open sympathy and covert sneers of her friends were hard to bear.

She succeeded, of course. The other day we saw her, after seven years of hard work. The same old fashioned, quiet, good natured manner, the same M., unpretentious, obliging, demure.

And yet she owns a store worth $18,000, in the upper story of which she bagan her labors, but which is filled from cellar to garret with her goods. She purchased a house some time ago for $7,000, and can sell it now for $10,000. She has $30,000 in real estate, with a stock worth $20,000 more, and all paid up.

A NEGRO'S PRAYER.—In illustrating the elements of a successful prayer meeting at the Christian Convention, Columbus, Rev. James Eels, of Cleveland, gave an interesting account of a prayer meeting among the negroes upon the Rapidan. He repeated one of their prayers:

"Massa God, You has said You will give us what we ask for. Now, we's just a gwine to take You at Your word. We is now just sitting like birds on de edge ob the nest, with our mouths wide open, ready to take just what You has got to offer us! We want You to help us do our best, but we have this year, O God, a great work for You to do."

This, said Mr. Eels, contains the essential elements of prayer—receptiveness, earnestness, faith and love.

WHAT DO YOU READ?—There is nothing that makes so much difference in the out-come of boys and girls as the books they read. Of all the boys and girls that we have known, we never knew one to succeed in life who spent his time, when young, in reading exciting stories. We do not say you may not read stories. But we do say that if you want to be any use in the world you ought not to let all your reading be story reading. And, what is more, you ought to read nothing but good stories.

But how can we tell whether it is good or not? There are very many books that have a weak moral, or a religious side, that are yet good for nothing. They are too exciting, and breathe a bad air. How shall we know the good ones?

A book that makes us feel brave and strong for our work is good. If any writer makes us feel, not that we would like to do better, but that we will do better, we may trust such an author. But if a book gives us a feeling that our life is dull, that we would like to be somewhere else than where God has put us, that book does us harm.—S. S. Scholar.

A GREEN OLD AGE.—Dorcas Pearce, of Providence, R. I., is ninety-two years of age, and in excellent health. She has lived a widow thirty years. She is neat in her appearance, cuts and makes her own dresses, has always worked and now works every day. Her eyesight is good, so that she sees to knit, sew and read. Her hearing is good. She stands and sits very erect, has always and does now manifest a cheerful and amiable temper, eats her regular meals, weighs 139 pounds, and seems to retain her faculties wonderfully well. Above all she is an agreeable Christian. She says she is as happy as she desires, and is as well as she could wish. In the morning worship she knelt and offered a fervent, intelligent prayer. She lives with her daughter, Rebecca Williams, wife of Harrison, the seventh in a direct line from Roger Williams.

How is all this? This woman has never destroyed her health by any of the mischievous methods so much in fashion.

JOHN TILLINGHAST.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES!

NO WINTER!
AND
DRY GOODS
AT A DISCOUNT.

A FEW facts relative to the above may not be unwelcome to both Town and Country Buyers.
Owing to the unprecedented mild and open state of the weather at this season of the year—no snow—raising as it were an insurmountable barrier, which is preventing our Farmers who are scattered over the surrounding districts, from bringing to Market their Agricultural Produce, and thereby decreasing that impetus which business otherwise would have at this part of the season—business men universally feel—and it is imputable to this fact alone in our city that that Trade is dull and stocks are heavier than they generally are at this period of the year, when cheerful snows bedeck the ground and travelling is good.

JAMES MANSON,
Commercial Palace, King Street,
has, in consequence of this unexampled state of matters, concluded to make a

WATERS'
NEW SCALE PIANOS,
With Iron Frame, Overstrung Bass and Agraffe Bridge
Melodeons and Cabinet Organs,
THE BEST MANUFACTURED,—WARRANTED FOR SIX YEARS.

PIANOS, MELODEONS and ORGANS.—Prices greatly reduced for cash. New 7-octave Pianos for $275 and upward. New Cabinet Organs for $45 and upward. Second-hand Instruments from $40 to $175. Monthly installments received. Illustrated catalogues mailed. Warerooms, 481 Broadway, New York. HORACE WATERS.

TESTIMONIALS.
The Waters' Pianos are known as among the very best. We are enabled to speak of these instruments with confidence, from personal knowledge.—N. Y. Evangelist.
We can speak of the merits of the Waters' Pianos from personal knowledge as being of the very best quality.—Christian Intelligencer.
Our friends will find at Mr. Waters' Store the very best assortment of Pianos, Melodeons and Organs to be found in the United States.—Graham's Magazine.
MUSICAL DOINGS.—Since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted all his capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodeons. He has just issued a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been awarded the First Premium at several Fairs. Many people of the present day, who are attracted, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival piano houses, probably overlook a modest manufacturer like Mr. Waters; but we happen to know that his instruments earned him a good reputation long before Expositions and "honors" connected therewith were ever thought of; indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' Pianos now in our residence, where it has stood for years, of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud. We have always been delighted with it as a sweet toned and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this, some of the best amateur players in the city, as well as several celebrated pianists, have performed on the said piano, and all pronounce it a superior and first class instrument. Stronger endorsement we could not give.—Home Journal.
The Waters' Piano ranks with the best manufactured in America.—The Independent, N. Y.
