THE BLIND BOY.

BY REV. DR. HAWES.

It was a blessed summer day,
The flowers bloomed—the air was mild,
The little birds poured forth their lay,
And every thing in nature smiled.

In pleasant thought I wandered on,
Beneath the deep wood's ample shade,
Till suddenly I came upon
Two children who had thither strayed.

Just at an aged birch-tree's foot
A little boy and girl reclined;
His hand in hers she kindly put,
And then I saw the boy was blind.

The children knew not I was near;
A tree concealed me from their view,
But all they said I well could hear,
And I could see all they might do.

"Dear Mary," said the poor blind boy,
"That little bird sings very long;
Say, do you see him in his joy,
And is he pretty as his song?"

"Yes, Edward, yes," replied the ma
"I see the bird, on yonder tree."
The poor boy sighed, and gently said—
"Sister, I wish that I could see!"

"The flowers, you say, are very fair,
And bright green leaves are on the trees,
And pretty birds are singing there—
How beautiful for one who sees!"

"Yet I the fragrant flowers can smell,
And I can feel the green leaf's shade,
And I can hear the notes that swell
From those dear birds that God has made.

"So, sister, God to me is kind,
Though sight, alas! He has not given;
But tell me, are there any blind
Among the children up in Heaven?"

"No, dearest Edward, there all see—
But why ask me a thing so odd?"
Oh, Mary! He's so good to me,
I thought I'd like to look at God!"

Ere long, disease his hand had laid
On that dear boy so meek and mild;
His widowed mother wept and prayed,
That God would spare her sightless child.

He felt her warm tears on his face,
And said—"Oh, never weep for me,
I'm going to a brighter, better place,
Where Mary says I God shall see.

"And you'll be there, dear Mary, too,
But, mother, when you get up there,
Tell Edward, mother, that 'tis you—
You know I never saw you here!"

He spoke no more, but sweetly smiled
Until the final blow was given—
When God took up the poor blind child,
And opened first his eyes in Heaven!

The Family.

EVERY BOY AND GIRL A PRINTER AND PUBLISHER.

Certainly it is so; at least so far as my acquaintance extends. There is not a lad in our school who does not work in a printing office, and every one of the girls in our neighborhood does the same thing.

They go into the office about seven in the morning at this season, and do not come out till that hour, and often later in the evening. And the busy little creatures scarcely take time to eat, they work so hard. Often have I seen those boys and girls take their dinner, while they lost not a moment of time from their labor. It is only the other day that three of them, two boys and a girl, who work in an office next door to me, had a job to get off, that kept their little fingers and eyes and tongues a going till ten o'clock at night.

True, while at the tea-table they could not use their fingers in setting up type, but then they were all the time very busy in preparing and looking over "copy," and in giving it out to each other.

"What does he mean?" says little Ned, and Mary, and Fred, and Lizzie, and Hattie, and a score more of frolicking boys and girls. What, I mean just what I say, that every boy and girl is a printer and publisher. "But I never was a printer's boy," says George, with a bit of foolish pride, as if he were above it, forgetting that the great Franklin's fingers were once black with printer's ink. "And does he mean to say," inquires Arthur, with a show of resentment, "that my sister does such work?" Yes boys, that is just what I mean. George is a printer's boy, and Arthur's sister works in the same office. "Perhaps," adds John, shrewdly, as if he had hit on the key to the strange saying, "he means that all the children in his place are newsboys and sell the newspapers." No such thing, John, I mean that every boy and girl whom I know, is a printer and publisher. "I guess he doesn't know many, then," whispers the wild-eyed Kate. Yes I do, indeed, Miss Katie, and the fingers of the little printer girls are as white and delicate as yours. "Why Father," exclaimed James, "I thought you called The Puritan Recorder a religious paper, but if this is not a hard story to believe, then I don't know." Carefully, Master James, for I preach sometimes, and ministers ought to write as well as tell the truth. Now I will try and be a little plainer in my statement. All the boys and girls whom I know, have, each of them, a set of type, and a printing press, and each one sets up type for himself and issues a daily paper. "Worse and worse," cries Henry, dropping a skate that he had been mending, and thereby scaring poor puss sadly: "I can't imagine how the man can prove this, and he says he is a minister too!"

Well, I think I must let you all guess on my meaning till next week, and then I will tell you whether you have guessed right.

UNCLE TALKER.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER.

Treat with kindness and patience the listlessness of youth. Do not expect the same amount of attention always, nor at any time the same gravity as in mature life; all lightheartedness is not evil; feelings of different kinds quickly succeed each other in youth. They should not make a school a place of gayety, and you should not make it a place of gloom. You should so temper the manner and matter of teaching that they will feel pleasure, not pain, in going to be taught. Distinguish between buoyancy of spirits and levity; interfere not with the one, it is the regular spring of the mind; repress the other, it leads to danger and deviation. Weigh well the capacities and attainments of the class, that you may give a suitable proportion to each. They have trials at home and dangers at school; do not undervalue them. Small to you they may be, but to them in their weakness they are great. The plants are tender, and require care; they are of different dispositions and habits, and need different treatment; some are backward and require the sun; some are forward and do better in the shade. If you would have them prosper, pray for a blessing; without it the most healthy will fade, and with it the most weakly will flourish; even a dry rod, with God's blessing, will bring forth buds and bloom blossoms, and yield almonds. Give them time to grow; do not force their growth; you may cause weakness instead of strength; rather check hasty growth. Some persons obtain excellent roses by nipping the early buds; November roses are said to be the sweetest, being less exhale by the sun. Some trees, most useful, most fragrant, and that last longest, are of slow growth.—Rev. John Clegg.

PAUSE! READ! CONSIDER!
FELLOWS?
Compound Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla.

A NEW and the most valuable Extract introduced, which is put up in Quart Bottles, is cheaper, more pleasant, and warranted superior to any sold. It is prepared from the best

HONDURAS SARSAPARILLA ROOT, combined with Yellow Dock and other valuable productions, which from their purifying effects on the Blood render it the best

Spring and Summer Medicine in the World, purifying and cleansing, giving tone and strength to the whole system.

This Extract is the result of numerous experiments, and the Proprietors feel confident that they have arrived at that perfection in preparing it, to which no other manufacturer has yet attained. Every person has heard of Sarsaparilla. All have heard of its uses. And many Physicians in this City are conscious of the fact that our Extract is far superior to those sold under the names of Townsend's, Sands' Bristol's, Brown's, or Bull's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as it contains other prime remedies besides those used by the above named parties, is stronger, contains nothing but Vegetable productions, and is prepared without Jostling, which causes it to attain all the volatile and active properties.

Encourage home manufacture. We pledge our reputation on the truth of what we here state, that we believe it better in every sense than any other Extract of Sarsaparilla ever introduced.

Scorfulous diseases, Cutaneous Eruptions, Rheumatic Affections, Syphilitic disorders, Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Lung and Bronchial Affections, all diseases arising from the injudicious use of mercury, impure state of the Blood or habit of the system, are some of the many diseases which are cured by the use of this SARSAPARILLA.

CHILSON'S
Patent Air Warming and Ventilating Furnace.

(FOUR SIZES.)

THE fame of this well known FURNACE has now become so extended, that it would become mere supererogation to enter into any elaborate detail of its construction. Since the period of its first appearance, it has attracted the attention, and gained the encomiums of many individuals, who hold high rank in the scientific world—and completed an entire revolution in the construction of "House Warmers."

The antiquated and now exploded notion, of obtaining a sufficiency of pure warm Air from a small surface of Red Hot Metal, in contact with which, an inadequate supply of Cold Air disseminates into the apartments above a vlogish current of burnt deoxygenated Hot Air, unfit for respiration, is rapidly being supplanted by the introduction of our new House Warmers, which, from its peculiar construction, can never become overheated, and by its extensive and well proportioned surface, is capable of warming a large volume of atmospheric air.

Another prominent peculiarity of our Furnace, is its complete adaptation for Wood or Bituminous Coal; the flues being so arranged that they cannot become clogged by soot or ashes: this point has never before received the attention of Furnace Manufacturers, and is indeed the only article in which this description of fuel can be used to any advantage.

And when we take into consideration the fact, that this has become the standard on which all new Furnaces are founded, and the only Heater on which attempts at infringement are constantly being made; and add therein, that it has received numerous Medals and first Premiums from various Scientific Institutions—not to make mention of the "World's Fair," (where, in competition with articles for similar purpose, from all parts of the world, it received the GREAT PRIZE MEDAL,)—it must convince every unprejudiced mind that this Furnace already holds the highest rank for the purposes to which it is applied.

Any information respecting our Furnace, or the general subject of "Heating and Ventilation," together with our pamphlets containing Cut of Furnace &c., and an Appendix of over 1000 References, will be promptly forwarded to all who address the Subscribers by Post.

We are also the Agents for, and have constantly on hand, an assortment of the Patent Mirror Marble Chimney Pieces—a new, cheap and elegant substitute for Marble—at prices varying from $18 to $150 each, a sample of which is in possession of the Editor of this paper.

Besides the above, we have always in our Warehouse a large stock of Cooking, Office, Hall, and Parlor Stoves, Ranges, Registers, Ventilators, &c., &c., which we are happy to present for inspection at 51 and 53 Blackstone Street, Boston.
