

Poetry.

LOVE TO PARENTS.

To honor those who gave us birth,
To cheer their age, to feel their worth;
As God's command to human kind,
And owned by every grateful mind.

Trace then the tender scenes of old,
And all our infant days unfold;
Yield back to sight the mother's breast,
Watchful to lull her child to rest.

Survey her toil, her anxious care,
To form the lipping lips to prayer;
To win for God the yielding soul,
And all its ardent thoughts control.

Nor hold from memory's glad review,
The fears which all the father knew;
The joy which marked his thankful gaze,
As virtue crowned maturer days.

When pressed by sickness, pain, or grief,
How anxious they to give relief?
Our dearest wish they held their own,
Till ours returned, their peace was flown.

God of our life, each parent guard,
And death's sad hour, oh! long retard;
Be their's each joy that gilds the past,
And heaven our mutual home at last.

The Family.

RULES FOR HOME EDUCATION.

The following we commend to our patrons and friends, for their excellence, brevity, and practical utility. They are worthy of being printed in letters of gold, and being placed in a conspicuous position in every household. It is lamentable to contemplate the mischief, misery, and ruin, which are the legitimate fruit of those deficiencies which are pointed out in these rules. Let every parent and guardian read, ponder, and inwardly digest.

- 1. From your children's earliest infancy, inculcate the necessity of instant obedience.
2. Unite firmness with gentleness. Let your children understand that you mean exactly what you say.
3. Never promise them anything, unless you are sure that you can give them what you promise.
4. If you tell a child to do something, show him how to do it, and see that it is done.
5. Always punish your children for willfully disobeying you, but never punish them in anger.
6. Never let them perceive [that they can] vex or make you lose your self-command.
7. If they give way to petulance and temper, wait till they are calm, and then gently reason with them on the impropriety of their conduct.
8. Remember that a little present punishment when the occasion arises, is much more effectual than the threatening of a greater punishment should the fault be renewed.
9. Never give your children anything because they cry for it.
10. On no account allow them to do at one time what you have forbidden, under the like circumstances, at another.
11. Teach them that the only sure and easy way to appear good, is to be good.
12. Accustom them to make the little recitals with perfect truth.
13. Never allow of tale bearing.
14. Teach them that self-denial, not self-indulgence, is the appointed and secure method of securing happiness.

A FINE PICTURE.

"I have just seen a most beautiful picture," said Mr. E— to his friend, Mr. T—, as they met to spend a social hour after the labors of the day were over. "What was it?" said Mr. T—. "It was a landscape. The conception is beautiful, and the execution well nigh perfect. You must go with me and see it to-morrow, before it is removed." "I have seen a fine picture to-day, myself." "Have you? What was it?" "I received notice this morning that there was great suffering in a certain family, and, as soon as I could leave my business, I went to see what could be done. I climbed up to the garret, where the family was sheltered, and, as I was about to knock at the door, I heard a voice in prayer. When the prayer was ended, I entered the wretched apartment, and found a young merchant, whose shop I had just been in, and whose business I knew was very pros-

ing. Yet he had left it, and had spent some time in personal labors for the comfort of the sick, and suffering inmates of that garret; and when I came to the door, was praying with them preparatory to taking his leave. I asked him how he could find time to leave his business at such a busy season; and he replied, 'That it was known that the condition of the family had been communicated to several professing Christians, and that he was afraid the cause of religion would suffer, if relief were not promptly given. It is not absolutely necessary,' said he, 'that I should take money; but it is absolutely necessary that Christ's honor should be maintained.'

Surely Mr. T— did not speak inaccurately, when he said he had seen a fine picture. Compared with such pictures the efforts of the greatest masters lose their power to charm. Such scenes relieve the deformities of the moral landscape, and inspire emotions which it is beyond the power of art to reach. Such pictures we may all have a hand in painting—

THE STORK AN EMBLEM OF FILIAL AFFECTION.—The storks are very much venerated in the East on account of their love for their parents. They hover over them when exposed to cooling damps, drive off their enemies, bring food for them, and when, on the wing, their aged mother tires, they bear her on their own back.

"The stork's an emblem of true piety; Because when age has seized and made his dam Unfit for flight, the grateful young one takes His mother on his back, provides her food, Repaying thus her care of him, Ere he was fit to fly."

WORKS OF PIETY AND CHARITY.

Works of piety and charity should, like water from a fountain, flow spontaneously from the gratitude and benevolence of a believing heart, and not require to be extorted with importunity, like the toil and trouble of drawing water from a deep well. "God loveth a cheerful giver."

Constancy is a virtue, but obstinacy is not.

CHILSON'S Patent Air Warming and Ventilating Furnace.

(FOUR SIZES.)

THE fame of this well known FURNACE has now become so extended, that it would become mere supererogation to enter into any elaborate detail of its construction. Since the period of its first appearance, it has attracted the attention, and gained the encomiums of many individuals, who hold high rank in the scientific world—and completed an entire revolution in the construction of "HOUSE WARMERS."

The antiquated and now exploded notion, of obtaining a sufficiency of pure warm Air from a small surface of Red Hot Metal, in contact with which, an inadequate supply of Cold Air disseminates into the apartments above a sluggish current of burnt deoxygenated HOT AIR, unfit for respiration, is rapidly being supplanted by the introduction of our new House Warmers, which, from its peculiar construction, can never become overheated, and by its extensive and well proportionate surface, is capable of warming a large volume of atmospheric air.

Another prominent peculiarity of our Furnace, is a complete adaptation for Wood or Bituminous Coal; the flues being so arranged that they cannot become closed by soot or ashes: this point has never before received the attention of Furnace Manufacturers, and is indeed the only article in which this description of fuel can be used to any advantage.

And when we take into consideration the fact, that this has become the standard on which all new Furnaces are founded, and the only Heater on which attempts at infringement are constantly being made; and add thereto, that it has received numerous Medals and first Premiums from various Scientific Institutions—not to make mention of the "World's Fair," (where, in competition with articles for similar purpose, from all parts of the world, it received the GREAT PRIZE MEDAL.)—it must convince every unprejudiced mind that this Furnace already holds the highest rank for the purposes to which it is applied.

Any information respecting our Furnace, or the general subject of "Heating and Ventilation" together with our pamphlets containing Cut of Furnace &c., and an Appendix of over 1000 References, will be promptly forwarded to all who address the Subscribers by Post.

We are also the Agents for, and have constantly on hand, an assortment of the Patent Mirror Marble Chimney Pieces—a new, cheap and elegant substitute for Marble—at prices varying from $18 to $150 each, a sample of which is in possession of the Editor of this paper.

Besides the above, we have always in our Warehouse a large stock of Cooking, Office, Hall, and Parlor Stoves; Ranges, Registers, Ventilators, &c., &c., which we are happy to present for inspection at 51 and 53 Blackstone Street, Boston.
