

Poetry.

THE FALLEN LEAVES.

We stand among the fallen leaves,
Young children at our play,
And laugh to see the yellow things
Go rustling on their way;
Right merrily we hunt them down—
The autumn winds and we—
Nor pause to gaze where snow-drifts lie,
Or sunbeams gild the tree;
With dancing feet we leap along
Where wither'd boughs are strewn,
Nor past nor future checks our song—
The present is our own.

We stand among the fallen leaves,
In youth's enchanting spring,
When (Hope, who wears at the last)
First spreads her eagle wing;
We tread with steps of conscious strength
Beneath the leafless trees,
And the colour kindles on our cheek
As blows the winter breeze.
While gazing towards the cold grey sky,
Clouded with snow and rain,
We wish the old year all pass'd by,
And the young spring come again.

We stand among the fallen leaves,
In manhood's haughty prime,
When first our parting hearts begin
To love the "olden time";
And as we gaze we sigh to think
How many years have pass'd
Since 'neath those cold and faded trees
Our footsteps wander'd last;
And old companions—now perchance
Estrang'd, forgot, or dead—
Come round us, as those autumn leaves
Are crush'd beneath our tread.

We stand among the fallen leaves,
In our own autumn day,
And tottering on in feeble steps
Pursue our cheerless way.
We look not back—too long ago
Hath all we loved been lost;
Nor forward—for we may not live
To see our new hope cross'd;
But on we go; the sun's faint beam
A feeble warmth imparts;
Childhood, without its joy, returns—
The present fills our hearts.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN AUSTRALIA.

This desideratum is amusingly taught by a practical correspondent, who writes from Melbourne. "There is," he says, "a vast amount of distress among the gentlemanly, no capital, no hard-work people—people who will not go on the roads and earn ten shillings a day, because they have never done it, and its below them; but if a man comes here without a capital he must work or starve; and the work that is wanted is hard not head work. I do anything to pick up a shilling—carry a box, help to dig the foundation of a house—and what I have lately made some money at has been duck shooting. The way I set about it is this:—I start off in the afternoon for one of the numerous lagoons, situate from five to ten miles off, and take with me on my back, besides my gun, a blanket, hookpot, pannikin, tea and sugar, bread, &c. On my road I often get stuck in a bog or lost in the bush, but nil desperandum, on I go, and at length reach my destination. At sunset I take my station in some thick reeds—perhaps up to my hips in mud and water, and there await the evening flight of the ducks, teal, black swans, &c. At last, bang! bang! goes old Joe Manton; and splash splash, tumble the ducks into the lake. Then for an hour's load and fire, and then gather together the dying and the dead. I now try and find out a soft place under some friendly gum-tree, light a fire and make a cup of tea (when on board ship I thought I should become a solid lump of plum-duff); now I really believe I shall be converted into a huge tea-pot, for I drink tea by the quart, not by the cup, roll myself in my blanket, and off to sleep. Up again in the morning before the sun, take my place in the rushes, see the ducks turn out to wash their faces, and give them a hearty salute; after which pack up and away to Melbourne, call at the clubs and hotels, and sell my ducks; and if I fail there, it's 'Duck, O, wild duck! Widgeon or wildfowl!' in the streets; and the best of all is, this kind of sport pays at 18s. a pair for ducks, 20s. a goose, 5s. a pair for teal—a good night's work tells up. Now, your poor proud man won't do this, because, faith, never did such a thing in England, and it's so low to sell ducks, and therefore he starves, and nobody pities him, and he either turns shepherd in the bush, or works his way home as a ship steward. For the working man this country is the finest in the world, and he sure of a fortune if he does not take to 'nobbles'. Drunkenness is the very curse of the country. I must now turn in, and finish this another time. I have to be up at sunrise to fish, and fishing pays 20s. a dozen, large and small; so good night."—English paper.

RESPECT DUE TO WIVES.—Do not jest with your wife upon a subject on which there is danger of wounding her feelings. Remember she treasures every word you utter. Do not speak of virtue in another man's wife, to remind your own of a fault. Do not reproach her with personal defects; for, if she has sensibility, you inflict a wound difficult to heal. Do not treat her with inattention in company; it touches her pride, and she will not respect you more or love you better for it. Do not upbraid your wife in the presence of a third party; the sense of your disregard for her feelings will prevent her from acknowledging her faults. Do not entertain your wife by praising the beauty and accomplishments of other women. If you would have a pleasant home and a cheerful wife, pass your evenings under your own roof. Do not be stern and silent in your house, and remarkable for sociality elsewhere.—Dollar Newspaper.

St. John, August 26, 1853.

LESLIE'S STOVE VARNISH.

A Valuable discovery by which all Stoves,

Pipes, Grates, Franklins, Iron Railings, and

every description of Iron work, (where an intense heat is not required,) whether exposed to the weather or not, may be kept a splendid Jet Black with as beautiful a polish as a Coach Body and with one third the labour bestowed on other preparations.

This is a valuable preparation on account of its anti-corrosive properties; all Stoves and Pipes which are put away during the summer should have an application of the Stove Varnish which would effectually prevent the rusting or corroding of the Iron.

The Varnish is strongly recommended to Families and the Public in general, from three facts:

First, its cheapness brings it within the reach of all; Second, from its high polish and durability,

two applications during the year being at all necessary for a Franklin; and lastly, from no labour being required in its application, this last fact justly entitles it to the name of "SERVANT'S FRIEND."
