

Poetry.

For the Christ an Visitor.

A few months ago, Elder J. Magee, Pa. or the Baptist Church at Newbern, was called upon to part with a favorite child aged three years. She lay previous to her death the beloved daughter of her mother, and was a very dear child. The following lines were composed by a sympathetic friend, and were handed to Mrs. Magee shortly after the death of her child. I have thought the lines too good to be withheld from your readers.

"SING JESUS."

Yes, love, I'll sing Jesus,
As 'twas your voice that request,
For he alone can bless us,
And calm the troubled breast.

I'll sing his great salvation,
That work by Jesus was wrought,
From every tongue and nation,
His blood has sinners bought.

The time may not be long, love,
When we shall meet,
And sing a grateful song, love,
Together at His feet.

I'll hear your cherub voice, love,
Sing Jesus evermore,
And loud with you rejoice, love,
On Canaan's happy shore.

With shrouds a gone before you,
Who art this vale of tears,
To live in endless glory,
Though young as you in years.

M. thinks I hear you sing
With them a valiant song,
While heaven's courts are ringing,
And still the notes prolong.

I may not, oh, I dare not,
Dare you back to earth,
Although the seat is vacant,
Filled by you in a birth.

I've other precious treasures,
By Jesus I've met still,
O may I make my pleasures
Subservient to His will.

While I with heart of sadness,
Sit weeping at your grave,
You sing your notes of gladness,
To him who died to save.

I'll now dry up my tears, love,
And praise my gracious Lord,
I'll praise my faithful love,
And trust the unchanging Word.

Family Circle.

A Religious Revival in a Sunday School.

[The following extraordinary narrative is copied from the Catechumen Reporter, edited by the Rev. Robert Jackson, of Sheffield England.]

You will, I know, be delighted to hear of a gracious manifestation of the presence of God experienced last Sabbath by the teachers and children of the Red Hill [Wesleyan Methodist] school, [Sheffield]. The Sabbath day previous God was pleased to pour out His Spirit, and many children were brought to God. Last Sabbath morning the school was opened as usual by singing and prayer. The attendance of teachers and children was good.

The teachers and officers had during the week been "with God in secret places," pleading the promises, encouraged by former visitations of the Spirit; also for the abiding sense of the presence of God. The Holy Spirit operating for some time on the children's minds, deeply humbling the teachers, and many times so overpowering was the sense of God's presence, that we were obliged to exclaim, "Lo, God is here!" These times of refreshing connected with the special visitation on the Sabbath previous—with a full confidence in the power and willingness of God to pour out His Spirit—caused us, on October 15th, to expect greater things. The morning passed over without anything particular, with the exception of indications in some of the children of determined opposition. The afternoon opened as usual. After singing, three of the brethren prayed, but still the heavens seemed as before; there was no getting near to God—no laying hold of divine power. Instruction began; but a greater degree of lifting than had been seen for months. One officer spoke to another; but there was one universal gloom. The conflict increased as the afternoon advanced. The usual address was given, but seemed to be like "beating the air." After the address the word was given, "Go on with instruction." A friend who had come in, feeling the chilling influence, said it must not be given up. One of the conductors, in five minutes afterwards, stopped the progress of instruction. All seemed amazed. A short exhortation followed. At this time the conflict with the powers of darkness was awful. All felt it. A struggle was maintained. One brother at this moment audibly said, "Jesus the conqueror reigns."

This was a word in season—a response—and he must reign till all enemies are put under his feet. A verse of one of the hymns "Jesus, the name high over all," was sung; three brethren prayed, and, like men desperate, determined to hold hold of God. Yet still the struggle was great—by naked faith they hung—was mysteriously dark. It was thought best, at a few minutes to four, to conclude the school. Two verses of the first hymn were sung, and all in a moment it was announced that some had been hardening their hearts all day, and were determined no persuasion should induce them to yield. "And such, wherever you are (without any regard to order in going out by classes as usual) leave the room, while we, who will stay, sing another verse or two." Just now, for a moment, the most profound stillness—and then out they went, shutting down their heads, impelled by a power the most fearful. It is impossible to describe the paces; some nearly running, others half inclined to stay after three verses had been sung. The teachers—about forty being present—deserted this field of moral combat. The door was closed; about 200 teachers and children being left. Another of the brethren prayed—but whose throbbing heart spoke in broken accents "Lord Jesus, save!" And Oh! the goodness, mercy, love, and power of our heavenly Father! he came in all his plenitude of grace. The Spirit was—freely enjoyed, and victory gained. The prayer, the verse "There is a fountain with blood, &c.," was sung. There were in the centre of the school, all the anxious for salvation, feeling themselves—were desired to come. Here a struggle, but only like a mound of waves. In a moment one was crying for mercy. And now, as the Spirit came, and as a reward for your labor, most of these meet in our catechumen classes. They were no sooner pointed to the Saviour, but they saw "the way," through Christ—came to God, and found peace through believing. I have no more doubt of it than I have of my own salvation. While these in such numbers were seeking, others were convinced, and came broken-hearted, praying for pardon—girls from sixteen to twenty years of age, who had been in our school for years. It is impossible to tell the exact ages, but I should say those who came first would be from eight to fourteen, and the elder girls from sixteen to twenty. The whole number cannot be computed at less than from 120 to 150. And not only the children, but the teachers all received a blessing from God. Such an universal salvation in Red Hill school was never experienced. One of the superintendents spoke to a teacher—"Have you got your portion?"

The answer—"My hope is full. Oh, glorious hope of immortality!"

To another teacher the superintendent spoke—"Well, what do you think of this?" "I never saw or felt anything like it. I never wept so in all my life." All to whom I have subsequently spoken say they "never saw it in this fashion." Now, Sir, one thing is clear: these children have been brought under a divine influence, never to be forgotten—an influence which will tell in future life.

THE MOTHER MAKE THE MAN.—A youth, the son of highly respectable parents, was imprisoned six months for robbery. Being carefully educated, he was asked who induced him to take the first wrong step? He replied, "My mother. When very young, she would give me medicine in sweats, which in time I began to suspect, when my inquiry was put off by equivocation or denial. When old enough to take 'physic like a man,' I was told of the innocent deception practised upon me. Having my mother's example in remembrance, I did not hesitate to deceive, when I deemed it necessary to accomplish my wishes. Equivocation and lying are the necessary accompaniments of deceit; my conscience became seared, the downward path was easy—and to my beloved mother's false love I owe my present degraded position."

THE SIXTEEN.—The celebrated Pontelle describing the difference in the mental constitution of the sexes, says, Woman has a cell less in the brain, and a fibre more in the heart than the man.

WOMEN.—Though men may improve their heads in the company of their own sex, we may affirm, that the company and conversation of women alone is the proper school for the heart. Should any one doubt the truth of this, let him turn over a few volumes of the history of any of those nations, where the sexes live excluded from each other, and he will meet with the most ample conviction.—Dr. Alexander's His. of Women.

ERROR DIFFERS FROM IGNORANCE.—It is almost as difficult to make a man unlearn his errors as his knowledge. Mal-information is more hopeless than non-information; for error is always more busy than ignorance. Ignorance is a blank sheet on which we may write; but error is a scribbled one on which we must first erase. Ignorance is contented to stand still with her back to the truth; but error is more presumptuous, and proceeds in the same direction. Ignorance has no light, but error follows a false one. The consequence is, that error when she retraces her footsteps, has farther to go, before she can arrive at the truth, than ignorance.—Colon's Lacer.

THE SOUL.—The soul is a gem of inestimable value. But ignorance and moral pollution cleaves to it, and invests it with a covering too impervious for any created skill or power either to remove, or penetrate, yet in the hands of the Holy Spirit, it shall be freed from every trace of defilement, its original beauty shall be brought to view and burnished into brightness; thus it will be fitted to adorn the mediatorial daim of the Redeemer.

WORTH OF THE SOUL.—If we consider the dignity of an intelligent being, and put that in the scales against brute inanimate matter, we may affirm without overvaluing human nature, that the soul of one virtuous and religious man is of greater worth and excellency than the sun, and his planets, and all the stars in the world. Wise agents never lay great projects for the sake of little trifles, and unless God had a mighty value for the souls of men, his making such vast preparations as he has made to save them, would be like a foolish emperor's raising a numerous army, only to go and gather cockle shells. Can we think those souls of little worth, which the Son of God thought worth his dying for? And what greater disgrace and affront can we put upon God, than that those souls of ours, which Christ thought worthy every drop of his blood, we should not think worth any part of our care?

CHRISTIANITY DIFFUSIVE.—As the tongues of flame dart through the enshrouding smoke, wavering and curling hither and thither in search of some new object round which to gather, growing brighter and stronger in effort; and having found and kindled it, tower up into the shining night with a more triumphant glow; so must the energy of a heart enflamed with fire from heaven make inroads upon the realms of death and darkness, and gather strength from toil. If, to change the figure, our religion knows no outflowing current, it stagnates and corrupts. First seeking for ourselves the love of life that Christ can give, let us then allow the "well of water" which shall "spring up within us to eternal life" to be a sparkling, gushing fountain, rising out into the dry and thirsty land, marking its glistering track by "rejoicing and blessing as the rose." Have we a lamp of truth? let us exhibit it, for there is a quenching darkness around; have we muscle and power? let us exert it, for the paralysis of the tomb is at hand. Life wanes; death strides; the night comes.

PROVIDENCE.—All trust in God, and dependence upon his providence, does imply that we join prayer and endeavor together, faith in God, and a prudent and diligent use of means. If we lazily trust the providence of God, and so cast all our care upon him as to take no care at all of ourselves, God will take no care of us. To trust providence is not to trust in God that he will do that particular thing for us which we desire; but to trust ourselves and all our concerns with God, to do for us in every particular case which we recommend to his care, what he sees best and fittest for us in such cases.

ELLISON'S DACTYLOTYPE, AMBROTYPE, AND CHRYSTALOTYPE ROOMS.
BARLOW'S CORNER, KING STREET.
THE Proprietor would most respectfully solicit a call from those who desire to examine the beautiful and excellent specimens of these new styles of PICTURES, called the AMBROTYPES. This new method of taking Pictures resembles a Mezzotint, and has a life-like roundness and softness, which is not attainable by Daguerreotypes; and being taken on Glass instead of a metallic surface, is not subject to change or corrode. A further advantage it has, is that the face of the subject is not reversed, nor is the view of the picture affected by the position in which the light is thrown. Whoever wants a bold life-like LIKENESS, with none of that inanimate chalky flatness so inseparable from a Daguerreotype, and in all respects far superior, would do well to visit Mr. Ellison, (as he is the only Artist who can take Ambrotypes in this City.)

NEWLY IMPROVED MODEL M. LODGE.—A full assortment of these instruments will be kept constantly on hand for the future, at the Cabinet-makers of the Messrs. Lawrence, (at the corner of King Street and the Drug Store of Chalmers and Hunt), who will be happy to wait upon parties wishing to examine or purchase. The price of these instruments varies from £10 to £45, according to size and style. They are certainly to be surpassed in all the essential points pertaining to good instruments, especially in regard to Equality, Power, Sweetness of tone, Promptness of Action, and Style of Finish. Each instrument has a fixed price, from which no deduction can be made. Hence persons incapable of judging of an instrument stand in no danger of deception. From a large number of recommendations voluntarily given by distinguished Musicians, the following have been selected.

[From Wm. H. Bradbury.]
Messrs. Mason & Hamlin, Gents.—I heard with pleasure of your commencing the manufacture of Melodions, feeling assured that you would be able from your practical skill, ample facilities, and peculiar advantages, to effect important improvements in the construction of these Instruments. Having now had an opportunity of examining a number of your instruments, I am by no means disappointed in the result. I am exceedingly struck with the quality of the instruments, and the beautiful characteristics are, so far as I can perceive, faultless. An Instrument possessing so many beauties, is admirably adapted to the parlor and the church, and I am confident that so soon as the public become acquainted with the superlativity of your instruments, your only trouble will be to supply the demand.
New York, June 2, 1854. Wm. H. BRADBURY.

[From Lowell Mason.]
"After having carefully examined the Melodions of Messrs. Mason and Hamlin, I am enabled to say, that, in my opinion, they are decidedly superior to any others with which I am acquainted."
New York, July 1, 1854. LOWELL MASON.

Henry Mason, Esq.—Dear Sir.—Having had an opportunity of examining Mason & Hamlin's "Model Melodions," I'm happy to bear testimony to their great excellence. In general characteristics, and especially in quality and uniformity of Tone and Tuning, they seem to me to be superior to any that I have yet examined.
Yours, very truly,
New York, May 25, 1854. GEORGE F. ROUSE.

[From Edwin Bruce.]
Mr. Henry Mason, Dear Sir.—It is with much pleasure that I offer my testimony as to the excellence of the improved "Model Melodions" manufactured by Mason & Hamlin. I have examined them with much satisfaction, am prepared to express my candid opinion, that they are the most perfect Instruments of the kind manufactured, so far as I know. I might mention several points, which I think they excel, as the following: The tone, both regards Quality and Quantity; the Action, which is exceedingly prompt, and the tuning, which is as perfect as any instrument well can be. I have no doubt that the "Model Melodions" are a great improvement on all the others, and they really deserve.

Yours, &c.
Conductor of Music at Bowdoin Street Church, Boston, May 31, 1854.

MEDICATED INHALATION.—A New Method.—A most wonderful discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Means of Medicated Inhalation. Dr. CURTIS'S HYGEAN VAPOR and CHERRY SYRUP, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma, and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. [See certificates in hands of Agents.]
