Evening.

See the shadows now are stealing Slowly down the mountain's breast-Hark ! the surret bells are pealing Chee ily the hour of rest. Now the mellow day-light closes All the world from toil reposes Every breeze has sunk and died-'Tis the peaceful eventide.

O'er the valc the mists are creeping ; Chaunting hive-ward went the bee; One by one the stars are peeping Through the welkin tranquilly, Murmuring like a child dreaming, Star-light on its ripples learning, Through the mean the brook doth glide, In the solemn eventide.

Oh ! how sweet. at day's declining, "Tis to rest from earth-born care Gazing on those far-world's shining, Dreaming that our home is there. Through the shadowy gates of even Shut out earth, they open heaven, Where the soul would fain abide In the holy eventide. -Dublin University Magazine.

THE YOUNG PEDLER.

One rainy afternoon in the earliest part of autumn, I heard a low knock at my back door, and upon opening it, found a peddler. Now peddlers are a great vexation to me; they leave the gates open, they never have anything I want, and I don't like the faces that belong to most of them, especially those of the strong men who go about with little packages of coarse goods, and I always close the door upon them, saying to myself-lazy.

This was a little boy, and he was pale and wet, and looked so cold I forget he was a peddler, and asked him to come in by the fire. ] thought he appeared as though he expected I was going to buy sounething, for he commenced opening his tin-box, but I had no such intention. He looked up in my face very earnestly and sadly, when I told him to warm himself by the fire, and that I did not wish to purchase anything. He rose slowly from his seat, and there was something in his air which reproached me, and I detained him to inquire why he was out in the rain. He replied :

"I am out every day, and can't stay in for a little rain; besides, most peodlers stay at home then, and I can sell more on rainy days."

"How much do you earn in a day?"

"Sometimes two shillings, sometimes one, and once in a while I get nothing all day, and then, ma'am, 'I am very tired."

Here he gave a quick, dry cough, which startled me.

"How long have you had that cough ?"

- "I don't know, ma'am."
- "Does it hurt you ?"
- "Yes ma'am."
- "Where does your mother live?"
- " In heaven, ma'am;" said he, unmoved.

"Have you a father?" "Yes, ma'am, he is with mother," he replied, in the same tone.

Again Luther stood before rulers; but God was with him; his countenance was serene, and he was calm, free, and confident. His prayer for strength was answered. After a long and energetic speech, the question was again put to the reformer, would he retract? His reply was decided : "Unless I am convinced that what I have written is contrary to God's word, I cannot and I will not retract; for it is unsafe for a Christian to speak againt his conscience. Here I stand; I can do no other. May God help me. Amen.

This address did not please the diet. Several said that the Rhine should have received Luther's ashes, as it had already done those of Huss; and many years after Charles was heard to confess that he made a great mistake in letting Luther live. For some time Luther and his captors pursued the forest path, and as soon as it grew dark, the guards took a new road. An hour before midnight they reached the foot of a mountain, which the horses slowly ascended. On the summit was an old castle, surrounded on all sides but one by the Black Forest that covers the mountains of Thuringia. This was the fortress of Wartburg. On reaching it, the bolts were drawn back, iron bars fell, the gate opened, and the reformer was a prisoner. He was compelled to lay aside his monk's dress, and assume that of a knight; his hair and his beard were to grow, and he was to be called Knight George. Meantime, the grief of Luther's friends was great. Spring, summer, and autumn passed away, and still Luther lay hid. No one knew what had become of the champion of truth ; but God took care of his own work, butter. and not all the plots of men could bring it to naught. But next to his trust in God, Luther's hopes were placed on his faithful friend Melancthon. "If I perish," he wrote, " you will succeed me, as Elisha did Elijah, with a double portion of my spirit." But soon he fell sick. He had suffered much at Worms, and his bodily strength was shaken. His friends at Wittemberg were alarmed. They had in-deed been the means of placing him in the Wartburg, to save him from the certain fate pear before an assembly of the enemies of the Beformation. I have examined them with much satisfaction, am prepared to express my congdent opin-ion, that they are the most perfect Instruments of the kind manufactured, so far as I know. I might mention several points, in which I think they excel, as the fol-lowing: the Tone, both as regards Quality and Quantity; the Action, which is exceedingly prompt, and the tune, which is as perfect as any instrument well, can be. DEAR SIR :--I am happy to be able to certify to the efficiency of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and to the truth what it is represented to accomplish.--Hav-ing a little boy suffering greatly from teething, who could not sleep and at night by his cries would not per-mit any of the family to do so, I purchased a bottle of the Soothing Syrup in order to test the remedy more ed beyond all my powers of description ; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together in the past six years 1 have had the aid and attendance of some of the most cele-bsated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr, Curtis's Hygeana or Inhaling Hygean Vapor, and Chrery Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most vio-lent attacks, and was in great distress, almost sufficatlent attacks, and was in great distress, almost sufficat-ing for want of breath. In less than ten minuites, from the time Iapplied the inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoon full of the Cherry Symp I was reliev-ed in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now com-paratively well. God only knows the amount of suffer-ing this medicine has relieved mc from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT. MARGARET EASTON. CONSUMPTION CURED.—NEW YORK, DEC. 27td 1853.—I came to New York in the ship Telegraph CONSUMPTION CURED.—NEW YORK, DEC. 27td 1853.—I came to New York in the ship Telegraph my native place is St. John, New Brunswick, when I reached the city, my health was very poor, had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood, bad pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I ascidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Va-por and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the dithe pressure on my lungs, and after a while the di-sease made its appearance upon the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it exactly and an antibelieving it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwillings t present to dispense with it. "Have you any brothers or sisters?" " I have a little sister, but she went to moth-

"She wanted to see mother, and so do I, and I guess that's why I cough so."

- "Where do you live?"
- "With Mrs. Brown, on N---- street."

" Does she give you any medicine for your cough ?"

"Not doctors' medicine-she is too poor, but she makes something for me to take."

"Will you take something if I give it to you ?"

"No, ma'am, I thank you; mother took medicine, and it didn't help her, though she wanted to stay, and you see I want to go; it would not stop my cough. Good-day ma'am." "Wait a minute," I said, "I want to see what you carry." "He opened his box, and for once I found what I wanted. Indeed, I didn't think it would have mattered what he had. I should have wanted it, for the little peddler had changed in my eyes-he had a father and" mother in heaven, and so had I. How strange that peddlers had never seemed like people -human, soul-filled beings, before. How thankful he was, and how his great, sunken" blue eyes looked into mine when I paid him.

"You don't ask me to take a cent less," said he, after hesitating a minute. "I think you must be very rich.'

"O no," I replied; "I am far from that; and these things are worth more to me now than I gave you for them. Will you come again ?*

"Yes, ma'am, if I don't go to mother soon." " Are you hungiy ?"

"No, ma'am, I never feel hungry now. I sometimes think mother feeds me when I sleep, though I don't remember it when I am awake. I only know I dont wish to eat now, since my sister died."

"Did you feel very sad ?"

"I felt very big in my throat, and I thought I was choked, but I didn't cry a bit, though i felt very lonely at night for awhile ; but I'm glad she's up there now."

"Who told you you were going to die ?" "Nobody, but I know I am. Perhaps I'll go before Christmas."

I could not endure that, and tried to make him stay, but he would run and tell Mrs. Brown what good luck he had met with. He bade me good-day again cheerfully, and went out into the cold rain, while I could only say, "God be with you, my child !"

He never came again, though I looked for him every day. At length, about New Year's, I went to the place he called home. Mrs. Brown was there, but the little pilgrim ! his weary feet were at rest, and never more would his gentle knock be heard at the doors of those who, like myself, forgot the necessity and stern want that often sent about these wanderers from house to house, and their employment might be far more unseemly to them than annoying to us.

TO HOUSEKEEPERS ! - Copland's Bug and Moth Exterminator ! !- This article has been thoroughly tested by upwards of One Hundred Thousand families, and is now offered with entire confidence as to its success as a total exterminator of those most loathsome pests, Bed Bugs and Moths.

It is not necessary for it to touch to kill, like other articles, for the Bugs and Moths leave the bedstead and room where it is used. It is perfectly clean, and will not injure the finest fabric, and can be used with impunity upon Beds, Bedsteads, Paper, Carpets, Wool-lens, &c. For Moths this is a sure preventative, driving them from articles where they have made their haunts, and keeping them at a safe distance from articles on which it is used. Sold by THOMAS REED. June 27. Head of North Wharf.

WONDERFUL CURES by the Cramp and VV Pain Killer.-De . Henry Hunt was cured of NEURALGIA or SCIATIC RHEUMATISM after having been under the care of a physician six months. The Cramp and Pain Killer was the first thing that aforded him any permanent relief. David Barker was cured of a Rheumatic Pain in the Knee, after three or four days and nights of intense suffering, by one bottle of the Cramp and Pain Killer. T. H. Carmon-suffering from Cramp in the Limbs, the cords of his legs knotting up in large bunches, was cured by the Cramp and Pain Killer. At another time a few applications entirely cured him of an exceedingly bad RHEUMA-TIC AFFECTION IN THE BACK.

A young lady, fifteen years of age, daughter of John W. Sherwood, was long affected with SPINAL COM-PLAINT, after being reduced to the verge of the grave, was cired by the Cramp and Pain Killler. JOHN BUCKMAN, after having suffered every-thing butdeath from RHEUMATISM which seemed to per inde almost every part of his body was cured by the Crampand Pain Killer.

Mrs. D vis was cured by it, of Billious Cholic. A man in Portland was also cured by it, of Billious Cholic, when his life was well nigh despaired e <sup>1</sup> Hundreds have been relieved by it of cootn sche
