A THOUGHT ON THE SEA-SHORE. Who does not love the murmuring swell Of the bounding graceful wave, As on it comes with steady flow, Now rising high, now sinking low, Now sporting in a cave! And mark the high and towering rock

Round which the billows play; Its sides are now no longer bare, Those billows seem to linger there, As they deck that rock with spray.

The Christian's love is a tidal wave. Thus does it ebb and flow; While Christ alone unchanging stands, Firm as the rock mid shifting sands, And the restless waves below,

But when the toss'd and troubled soul Is freed from care and sin. In realms of peace where God is love, 'I will only know responsive love In its tideless flow to Him.

The Rights of the Red Man in North America.

We now come to their morality. Justice liberality, and sincerity in their dealingsgood faith in their engagements-hospitality to strangers a grave and sedate deportment. and general habits of kindness and courtesy are inculcated in the education of their youth, and practiced among them in a remarkable degree. Courage, and fidelity to their nation and allies are, however, the virtues most highly prized (valued) by them.

Their mode of courtship was something like that of the days of chivalry. An indication of serious intentions on the part of a young Indian towards the maiden of his choice was his assumption of more industrious habits. He rises by day break, and with gun or bow visits the woods and prairies in search of the most rare and esteemed game. He endeavors to acquire the character of an expert and industrious hunter; and when success has crowned his efforts, never fails to send the parents of the object of his affections some of the choicest he has procured. His mother is generally the bearer, an I she is sure to tell the source whence it comes, and to dilate largely on the merits and excellencies of her son. The girl, on her part, exercises all her skill in preparing it for food; and when it is cooked, frequently sends some of the most deli :ious pieces, accompanied by other small presents to her lover. After an Indian has acquired the reputation of a warrior. expert hunter, or swift runner, he has little need of minor qualifications, Polygamy, it must be confessed, exists to some extent among the Indians; in reference to which an Indian, who had spent much of his time among white people (1770), observed, that the Indians had not only an easier way of getting a wife than the whites, but were also more certain of getting a good one. For, said he, white man court, court-may be one whole year; may be two years before he marry! Well, may be then he got very good one; may be not . may be very cross! Well now, suppose cross: scold so soon as get awake in the morning: scold all day; scold until sleep! All one, he must keep him! White man have law forbidding throwing away be he ever so cross: must keep him always! (The scores of divorces annually, in single States, tells another tale for

Well, how does Indian do? Indian, when he see industrious Squaw which he like, go to him, place his two fore-fingers close aside each other-make two look like one: look squaw in the face, see him smile-which is all one, he says yes! So he take HIM home-no danger if HE be cross! No, no! Squaw know too well what Indian do if HE cross: throw him away. and take another! Squaw love to eat meat: no husband, no meat. Squaw do everything to please husband; he do the same to please Squaw: live happy.

The Indian includes all savage beasts within the number of his enemies, not figuratively, but literally, an instance of which we give :-A Delaware hunter once shot a huge bear, and broke its backbone. The animal fell, and set up a most plaintive cry. The hunter, instead of giving him another shot, came up close to him and addressed him in these words:-"Harkye! bear, you are a coward, and no warrior, as you pretend to be. Were you a warrior, you would show it by your firmness, and not cry and whimper like an old woman. You know, bear, that our tribes are at war with each other, and that yours was the aggressor. You have found the Indians too powerful for you, and you have gone sneaking about in the woods stealing their hogs: perhaps at this time you have hog's flesh 'in two ventre. Had you conquered me I would have borne it with courage and died like a brave warrior: but you bear sit there and ery and disgrace your tribe by your cowardly conduct." The Indiau, on being asked by a white man with him, how he thought the poor animal could understand what he had said to it? "O." said he, in answer, "the bear understood me very well: did you not observe how ashamed he looked while I was upbraiding him." This instance, ludicrous as it is, developes a great deal of Indian character, for it shows exactly the sentiments which inspire the captive war-

Levity and Vanity Rebuked.

Young men frequently involve themselves in trouble by indulging in inordinate vanity, and showing little respect to age or merit. We have known, personally, several in-stances where such vanity brought extreme pointing to a light quadroon sitting next to the mortification to its possessor when exhibited in the presence of men of high intellectual and social eminence, who were unknown at the time because of their humble attire and modest demeanor. The National Magazine dealer. tells a good story of an adventure of a young preacher with Bishop Roberts, of the Methodist church, which is worth repeating In after years this extreme diffidence became a subdued modesty, not interfering with his ordinary duties, but detering him from novel or experimental plans, however hopeful, and leading often to ludicrous mistakes among those who did not know him. When stopping in his travels among strangers, he usually assumed no other pretension than those of a private Christian; and frequently it was not till the family worship declared his spirit and talents, that his ministerial character was supposed. Under such circumstances he has sometimes attended class meeting with his host, and received warm and pointed exhortations from zealous class leaders. On returning to the West, after a General Conference, he once applied at the house of a Methodist family to which he had been recommended for entertainment. He was as usual, humble in dress, and dusty and weary. The family taking him to be a rustic traveller, permitted him to put up and feed his herse, and take his seat in the sitting-room. Supper was over, and no one took the trouble to inquire if he had taken any on the way. The preacher of the circuit was stopping at the same house-he was young, frivolous, and foppish-and spent the evening in gay conversation with the daughters of the family, alluding occasionally and contemptuously to the "old man," who sat silently in the corner. The good Bishop, after sitting a long time, with no other attention than these allusions, respectfully requested to be shown to bed. The chamber was over the sittingroom, and, while upon his knees praying with paternal feeling for the faithless young preacher, he still heard the gay jest and rude laugh. The young preacher slept in the same room with the bishop. He laid down without prayer.

"Well, old man," said he, as he got into bed, " are you asleep yet?"

- "I am not, sir," replied the bishep.
- Where have you come from "From east of the mountains."

place ?" "Baltimore, sir."

"Baltimore, eh-the seat of our General tained them. Conference—did you hear anything about it? We expect Bishop Roberts to stop here on his wav home."

- "Yes, sir," replied the bishop humbly; " it ended before I left." "Did you ever see Bishop Roberts?"
- "Yes, sir, often; we left Baltimore together."
- " You left Baltimore together?" "Yes, sir,"
- "What's your name, my old friend?"
- " Roberts, sir." "Roberts! Roberts! Excuse me, sir, are
- you related to the bishop?" "They usually call me Bishop Roberts,

"Bishop Roberts! Bishop Roberts! Are

Embarrassed and confounded, he implored the good man's pardon, insisted upon calling up the family, and seemed willing to do anything to redeem himself. The bishop gave him an affectionate admonition, which he promised with tears never to forget; acknowledging, at the same time, that he had backslidden in heart, and deeply lamenting his folly and his spiritual declension. 'I'he venerable and compassionate man knew the frivolity of youth; he gave much paternal advice, and prayed with him. He would not allow the family to be called, though he had eaten nothing since breakfast. The next morning, after praying with the spirit-broken young preacher, he left before the family had risen, that he might save them a mortifying explanation.

The circumstance was a salutary lesson to the young itinerant; at the next session of the --- Conference, he called upon the bishop a renewed man; he wept again as he acknowledged his error, and has become a useful and eminent minister. Bishop Roberts often alluded to the incident, but, through a commendable kindness, would never tell the name of the young preacher.

A White Woman for Sale.

Mr. C. a dry goods merchant of Boston, was with me at the little city of M., where he went to visit a partner in trade. He had not been in a slave state before, and was bitterly opposed to emancipation. Two merchants—slaveholders had been in our company on the way to that city. Whenever slavery was talked of, Mr. C. uniformly concurred with them. The next morning after we arrived, we saw a handbil! in the bar-room, in which forty-four female slaves were advertised for sale. Stepping out into the street, we found those girls sitting on the sidewalks. At the further end of the row was a very beautiful girl, apparently perfectly white, and neatly dessed. The moment Mr. C. looked at her, he exclaimed, What do you think that white girl is sitting there with those negroes for?

'I presume she is a slave, sir,' said I.

'That can't be? replied Mr. C. 'just look at her, Why, I never saw a prettier girl in my life.'

Now, Mr. C. had heard that likely quadroons are held as slaves and soid in the market; but he had never believed that a young lady, so entirely American, so elegant in form and feature, so intellectual fin appearance, with pure blue eyes, and the perfect red and white Caucasian complexion, was in the same degraded condition as the African girl. And his fine sensibilities were greatly shocked at the idea that a white girl, so beautiful , was doomed to such disgrace. His

'Oh, no,' replied the drover; and perceiving that Mr. C. did not comprehend the superior vaue of female beauty to physical ability in a slave he added, 'But you know she is a highly-priced fancy girl.

This Company has been organized for the purpose of making Lump and Lubricating OILS from "Albertite,"*
One ton of Albertite yields by distilation and purification of the distilled product, upwards of 70 gallons purified Paraffine Oils, which are divided into two classes, namely—Lamp and Lubricating Oils, each differing from the other in appearance and character. Paraffine Lamp Oil stands unrivalled for its economy, cleanliness in use, and brilliancy of light. Nine-pence worth of this Oil will yield as much light as five shillings worth of Burning Fuid, when both are sold at the same price per gallon.

Paraffine Lubricating Oil does not thicken, gum, or become sticky, it preserves the curfaces bright and c.ean, and upon all slides and fast running machines it lasts longer and lubricates better th n any other oil now in common use.

The Company's Works are designed upon a scale sufficiently large to produce 35',000 gallons of purified Paraffine Oils per annum, at a cost not exceeding two shillings per gallon, if sold for no more than an average of three shillings and nine pence per gallon, (it is presumed they will command a much higher price,) they will show a return of £3J,000 per annum, for distributions to shareholders now in common use.

So sure as water will extinguish fire, so sure will this cure humor. I never sold a bottle of it but that sold another: after a trial it always speaks for itself. There are two things about this herb that appears to me surprising; first, that it grows in our pastures, in some places quite plentiful, and yet its value has never been known until I discovered it in 1846—second, that it should cure all kinds of humor.

In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and great popularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1853, I peddled it, and sold about six bottles per day in April, 1854, I sold over one thousand buttles per day of it.

There is a universal praise of it from all quarters.

In my own practice 1 always kept it strictly for humors—but since its introduction as a general family medicine, great and wonderful virtues have been found in it that I never suspected.

Several cases of epileptic fits—a disease which was always considered incurable, have been cured by a few bottles. O, what a mercy if it will prove effectual in all cases of that awful malady—there are but few who have seen more of it than I have.

I know of several cases of Dropsy, all of them aged people, cured by it. PAIN KILLER.

Dear Sir.—I felt it a duty I owe to the public, to make known the value of Davis' Pain Killez, and my experience in using it for some of the complaints for which it is highly recommended. In April last, on your recommendation, I purchased a one dollar bottle of you for pains with which I have long been afflicted, and made use of it on my trip down to New Orleans, with the most gratifying and beneficial effects. On my return trip to this city, the Cholera made its appearance among some of my passengers. I made On my return trip to this city, the Cholera made its appearance among some of my passengers. I made use of the Pain Killer, having no other remedy on board, and to my surprise and gratication found it gave immediate relief. On my arrival in St. Lauis, I called on you and got four large bottles, and stated to you my confidence in it as an infallible Cholera remedy, and remarking to you that I wanted no other Cholera remedy on my boat. I made use of the four bottles on my trip to New Orleans and back, for Cholera and some other complaints for which it is recommended, and met with the most astonishing success—when I ordered from you six more one dollar bottles. mended, and met with the most astonishing success—when I ordered from you six more one dollar bottles. Since then I have made two more trips to New Orleans and back, and on my previous trip up, I had more than Seventy cases of Cholera on board, when the PAIN KILLER was immediately used with the most astonishing results. In all cases where it was used in time it gave relief in a very short time; and I can with confidence say to the public, that in all of the first stages of Cholera, when taken in time, it is in my opinion an infallible remedy: and after a fair trial with it for several woeks, and for four trips to New Orleans and back, and using it for Cholera and for other complaints for which it is recommended, no New Orleans and back, and using it for choice and for other complaints for which it is recommended, no consideration whatever would induce me to leave port without a good supply—believing it to be a medicine that no officer of a boat or any family would be without a single day after using one bottle.

Perry Davis—Sir:—The benefits I have received from the use of your invaluable remedy, the Pain Killer, induces me to pen a word of praise for it. Experience has convinced me that for Headache. Indigestion, Pain in the Stomach, or any other part of the system, Severe Chills, Weakness, Common Colds, Hoarseness, CHOLERA, CHOLERA MORBUS, Diarrhea, Dysentary, Tooth Ache, &c. &c. there is nothing better than the Pain Killer. I have this hour received from a severe attack of the Sick Headache, received from a severe attack of the Sick Headache, using up two teaspoonfuls, taken at thirty minutes interval, in a wine glass full of warm water. I am confident that through the blessing of God, it saved me from the cholera during the summer of 1849 Travelling amid heat, dust, toil, change of diet and constant exposure to an infected atmosphere, my system was daily predisposed to dysentary, attacks, accompanied with pain for which the Pain Killer was a sovereign remedy: one teaspoonful curing the worst case in an hour, or at most, half a day !—My brothers in the ministry have used it with much success in various diseases. I have heard many cases the country over, of Dysentary being cured by its use. Put in the teeth, it would stop the tooth-ache.

Gratitude, and a desire for its general use, has drawn from me this unsolicited testimonial in its favor.

Dear Sir :—I am happy to be able to certify to the efficiency of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and to the truth what it is represented to accomplish.—Having a little boy suffering greatly from teething, who could not sleep and at night by his cries would not permit any of the family to do so, I purchased a bottle of the Soothing Syrup in order to test the remedy.—and when given to the child according to the directions, sit effect upon him was like magic, he soon went to sleep, and all pain and nervousness disappeared. We have had no trouble with him since; and the little fall will pass through with comfort the exeruciating process of teething, by the sole aid of Mr.: Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Every mother who regards the yealth and life of her children, should present.
