advance a step. They now loaded their mus. ets, and advanced upon the magazine, which fortunitely was held by a company of Her Majesty's 61st Regim nt. A party of the 57th Regiment, on duty in the magazine, threw sealing ladders and ropes over the walls to the men outside, who immediately crossed the moat and scaled the fort. About 300 of them thus gained ingress to the magazine, and, hurrahing, made for the gate which afforded access to the ordnance stores. They were met by five files of the 61st, under Colonel Redmond, who poured a vollev into their ranks, which staggered them, and upon two more companies of that corps marehing in to the rescue, the mutineers were driven out at the point of the bayonet. The company of the 57th Regiment inside the magazine was quickly disarmed, and, lest the magazines of the two native regiments. should fall into the hands of the mutincers, they were blown up by the artiflery from the fort. At night the mutineers fired the church, the Roman Catholic chapel, two hospitals, Her Majesty's 61st mess house, and a dozen bungalows, but were driven out of the station and dispersed the next day. Light Cavalry behaved in this mutiny, not a suspicion attaching to officers or men who the reperied theroughly trustworthy. But the Majesty's 61st aided by the 10th Light Cavalry, which remained staunch, inflicted severe loss upon them, and on the following day the mutineers gave in and were quietly disarmed. At Meean Meer, the camp of Labore the three native infantry regiments of the garrison, the 16th, 26th, and 49th, were disarmed on the 13th by Brigadier Corbett, with the Sist Foot and the powerful force of Artillery, horse and foot. At Peshawur, on the 22nd, three more infantry, regiments, the 24th, 27th, and 51st, and the 5th Light Cavalry were deprived of their arms. A Subahdar Major of the 51st was hanged in the presence of all the troops. At Murdan the Soth or the greater portion of spath population has responded to a manthe regiment, deserted their colours. The following is an extract of a private letter dated Lucknow, June 1:-" The 13 h 48th, and 61st Regiments of Native Intanty are said to have mutinied at nine o'cluck this morning, and the officers murdered; but this is not authenticated. God grant it is not true At all events, there are twelve regiments against us. Our rule in Oude is goneevery bungalow in cantonments, except the presidency, is burnt to the ground. The guns at Muchy Baun are firing right and left. The regiments have all revolted and escaped with their ammuniton. All Oude is under arms in the district as well as in the city, The Europeans cannot hold out three days, and a general retreat is expected. We cannot besiege Delhi before the 9th, the siegetrain being at Philore. What management! The road east and west is now completely blocked up, and there is no escape. The river is high, which is the only outlet we have. The Cawnpore Cunal is full of water, dead bodies and munitated trunks of Europeans are floating down, and no one knows where from. God bless you all, and we may escape to meet again."

The stations of Nussecrabad, near Ajmere and Nemuch, usually garrisoned at Bomkey, were at the beginning of the year drained of the infantry and guns of the army of that presidency by the pressure of the Persian war. There remained the first Bombay Light Cavalry (Lancers) cantoned at Nusscerabad, but that station recieved for infantry the 15th Bengal Native Infantry from Merrut, and the 30th from Agra; and for arof the 7th Battallion. To Neemuch there came the 72nd Native infantry and a native troop of horse artillary (4th of Isi Battallion) both from Agra; and a wing of the first (Bongal) Light Cavalry from Mhow. The Bengal troops at Nusserabad, who had long been wavering, broke out into open mutiny on the 28th of May. The Bombay Lance were weakened by detachment, and draw 250 sabres, but " faithful found among the faithless, faithful only they," they changed again and again the overwhelming numbers of the nutineers in the hope of capturing their guns. But, as may be supposed, their loyally and courage were not rewarded by success, and they were eventually forced. they were eventually force to draw off, with the loss among their officers of Captain spottiswoode and Cornet Newberry killed, and Capt. Hardy and Leiutennet Fo Lock wounded. Their Colonel, Penny, died the following night, from the effects of a fall from his horse. The regiments escorting the officers and families of the revolted regiments retired towards Ajmere; but, the mutineers moving off towards Delhi (which they did with colors flying and drums beating), and the arsenal of Ajmere being thus out of dan-ger, they joined the camp of Colonel Dixon, of the Mhair-warrah battallion at Bewar.

THE PUNJAUB. A correspondent of the "Times," writing from the Punjaub, May 28th, says :-"The news burst on India like a thunderclap that the native regiments at Meerut and Helhi had mutimed, murdered their officers, emassacred all the English inhabitants of Many of these men have since returned to Delhi, placed the King of Delhi on the throne, camp, giving up their arms, and stating their and threatened the Empire. All this happenwillingness to be shot. It is pleasing, in the jed on the 11th of May. On the 13th, it was midst of such general disaffection, to notice known by telegraph to Europeans, only known by telegraph to Europeans only the loyalty with which the 10th Regiment of throughout India-1 say, to Europeans only for immediately the post was stopped, and an embargo placed on all native correspondence. It is not too much to say that the telegraph saved India. Whether or not the report is true, that on the 15th of May was the date act either by land or by water, as occasion fixed for a general rising of the sepoy regi Bengal Presidency, cannot be known yetperhaps never will be known. If true and certainly the rumour appeared with strange coincidence at places far apart, the 3rd Cavalry spoilt all by beginning on the 11th at Delhi. In a moment the news was flashed to Lahore and Peshawur, to Allahabad and Caleurta, to Bomb y and Madras; and all British India was on the alervi The civil authorities in the Pur jaub cal-

The common people in the roads are careful to evince towards Europeans a demeanour more respectful than their ordinary respect. In the important cities of Jullundher and Hoshiarpur the district officer was received by the people with enthusiasm; ers. 150 in number, were to be tried as soon the nucks of the irregular army are thrown as they were brought into the station. At open, and recruits flock in crowds to be the latest dates the whole of the runjino was sworn in. Before the native troops had heard of the massacre at Delhi, they were summoned to their several parade grounds at Labore The rising at Lucknow took place on Sun- and Peshawur, and in the presence of the day, the 31s of May, when proportions of English avuillery disarmed. Native chiefs four Native Bengal Regiments the 71st, who have been well treated in the day of 84th, and 13th Foot, and 7th Cavalry—broke friumph, have been called upon to aid us in out into a riot, and set fire to several bungar the day of trial. Not one has flinched. A moveable column of Europeans and Punjuab irregulars was ordered to assemble at Jhelumn to pounce at once on any spot where sedition. showed itself. Such were the energetic efforts made in three days the 16th, 17th, nd 18th days which will not soon be forotten by Englishmen in the Punjauh. On ho 19th it began to be apparent that the crisis, s regarded these provinces was past. We vere leady; the people were with us to a man:

and the minneers were cowed. When once it was clear that the Panjaub was not a source of danger, it became equaly clear that it was a mine of strength. The Thelum column, composed of Europeans and Punjaubis, is advancing to join the force which, under General Anson, is even now on the way to Delhi. I believe that there, as elsewhere, the crisis is over, and that it remains only to exact a fearful renibution, and then to set our house in order. If we are ever caught sleeping again we deserve the fate which now we have, just escaped." " In Oude, again, 5000 European soldiers'

power has appeared in the new Chief Commissioner, Sir Henry Lawrence With that wonderful gift of governing natives indeed, of governing men, which Sir Henry possesses he has reduced that province intimately connected as it is with the native regular army, full as it is of all the elem nts of rebellion; he has reduced it to loyalty by precautions, by firmness, by a speech, and some presents. The 7th Oude Infantry was mutinous: Sir Henry distanded them. Previous to the discovery of this mutiny the soldiers of the 7th proposed flagrant acts to the 48th Native Infantry, quartered at Lucknow. A native officer of the 48th had the intriguers arrested and delivered up to justice. I have told you how Sir Henry dwelt with the mutineers, whose mutiny consisted rather in grumbling than any overt act. But he did not forget the other side of justice. He held an open durbar; he denounced in soldierly language the foul deeds of the miscreants at Delhi, whose iniquities had just been heard of He pointed out as a contrast to the traitorous mutineers those prave soldiers who had at once met suggestors. On these offi-cers and soldiers he conferred presents in the cers and soldiers he conferred presents in the sight of all men; your readers can scarcely tell how such presents and such words so bestowed steal the hearts of Asiatics. The province of Oude is newly conquered, it is denuded of English soldiers; but the province of Oude is safe, for the 48th Native Inlantry will hold it against all comers so long as Sir Heart Lawrence is to the fore.

The danger of the crisis in the north-west ern provinces of India seem at length to be ppreciated by the Queen's Government. It has been resolved to act with vigour, and the intelligence which for some time to come we shall receive by each successive mail. We would communicate in a few words the general nature of the precautions already taken. A steam squadron is to be sent to India. As the exigencies of the service have already absorbed the number of seamen actually voted, it is intended to apply to Par liament for an additional vote of 2000 seamen, an application which will, no doubt, at once receive the sanction of the Legislature, We should gladly hear that his squadran, or Extract from a Letter written by a Distinguished Lawyer in Maine, in favor of Jonas Whitcomb's Remedy for Asthma.

Augusta, July 20, 1865.

My Drak Sir,—I have purposely delayed writing to you until I had thoroughly tested the medicine, (Whitcome's Ramady so the Astina) at different seasons of the year, for I had often obtained relief, for a ghort fline, from various kinds of medicine, leaving no permanent good effects. Thus have I tried more than thirty different specifice for the Asthmauntil I had become worn down by disease, and almost discouraged. When I commenced taking your medicine, I had been afflicted with the disease about twenty years. It is of the spasmodic kind; and in a bad attack I have frequently set up sixteen nights in succession. Soon after taking your medicine I found an unaccustomed relief. My health and strength began to improve. I have gained about twenty pounds in weight, and have comparatively no asthma. When I feel the symptoms returning a few teaspoonfuls of the medicine is sufficient to remove it.

It seems to me that the very foundation of my disease has been broken up, and that if will soon entirely leave me. At any rate, no one that has suffered what I have, heretofore, and enjoyed the health that I have enjoyed since last fall, con hesitate to believe that there is a wonderful power in Jonas Whitcomb's Remedy for the Asthma.

Permit me to add, in conclusion, my gratified to yourself for furnishing me with (in my opinion) a genuine specific for an afflictive disease.

Respectfully yours.

OBITUARY.

Died at Pellott River, Jane, wife of Mr. James

Banister, in the fortieth year of her age. Mrs. B. was the daughter of Mr. Christopher Horseman, of Salisbury. In early life she sat under the faithful ministry of our esteemed Father Crandall, when his labours were abundantly blessed to the salvation of souls, yet she gave no evidence of an interest in the salvation of God. When she was about thirty years of age, Elder James Bleakney visited the place where she resided, and preached Christ and him crucied in his usual pathetic manner; where by the power of Divine grace she was brought to give up all for Christ, and take a decided stand in his cause. She was baptized by Brother Bleakney, accompanied by her father and husband, and united to the First Baptist Church of Salisbury, in the fellowship of which she lived until the Third Baptist Church of Salisbury was organized when she removed her membership to that Church in the neighbourhood in which she resided. Here she continued a faithful and much esteemed member until she was removed by death to the Church triumphant. It was during her last illness that I became ersonally acquainted with her. It was truly elightful to witness her serenity of mind amid excrutiating pains. For many weeks her holy ace and joy seemed almost uninterrupted. Her countenance beamed with hope, and her heart expanded with gratitude to God, at the prospect of a blessed immortality brightning before her. On the 2nd day of July she sweetly fell asleep in Jesus—"Blessed are the dead that die in the

MR. CHARLES MILLER departed this life at his own residence, Newcastle, Sunbury, on the emigrated to this country in 1830, soon after which he became a resident of Newcastle, where he remained until removed by death.

For the last year and a half of his life he was the subject of a stubborn disease which terminated in death, during which time he also became the subject of divine grace.

He was frequently visited by Elder T. Wa lace, the writer, and many christian friends, who directed his mind to Christ for salvation. During the last few months his sufferings became intense, but he bore them with christian fortitude and patience, and would often say they were light compared with what Christ had suffered for us. A few weeks before his his death his confidence in God became so strong that not a doubt of his acceptance in Christ was known to cross his mind. On one occasion when asked by the writer how he felt, he exclaimed-" Oh! I feel happy! I feel happy! I am not afraid to die! shall soon be better off.

This unshaken confidence he retained until-"Bright angels from glory came, To bear his ransomed spirit home."

The funeral took place on Monday, the 20th The occasion was improved by Elder W. S. Howe, from Psalms 89. 48., the sermon was ap propriate, solemn, and impressive, and the congregation large and attentive.

Mr. Miller leaves a brother and sister, and wife and seven children, together with other friends and relations to mourn their loss.
