MY OWN-FRESIDE.

Let others seek for empty joys At ball or concert, rout or play; Whilst, far from Fashion's idle noise, Her gilded domes and trappings gay, I while the wintry eve away, "Twixt book and lute the hour divide; And marvel how I e,er could stray, From thee-my owu fireside !

My own fireside ! Those simple words Can bid the sweetest dreams arise; Awaken feeling's tenderest cords, And fill with tears of joy my eyes. What is there my wild heart can prize, That doth not in my sphere abide ? The haunt of home-bred sympathies, My own-my own fireside !

A gentle form is near me now ! A small white hand is clasped in mine ! A small white hand is clasped in mine : I gaze upon her placid brow, And ask, 'What joys can equal thine ?' A babe, whose beauties half divine, In sleep his mother's eoe doth hide; Where may Love seek a fitter shrine Than thou my own fireside !

My refuge ever from the storm Of this world's passions, strife, and care ; Though thunder-clouds the skics deform, Their fury cannot reach me there, Their fury cannot reach me there, There all is cheerful, calm, and fair : Wrath, Envy, Malice, Strife, or Pride, Hath never made its hated lair By thee-my own fireside !

Shrine of my household deities ! Bright scene of home's unsullied joys ; To thee my burdened spirit flies When Fortune frowns, or Care annoys ! Thine is the bliss that never cloys, The smile whose truth has oft been tried— What, then, are this world's tinsel toys To thee-my own fireside !

Oh, may the yearnings fond and sweet, That bid my thoughts be all of thee, Thus ever guide my wandering feet To thy heart-soothing sanctuary Whate'er my future years may be, Let joy or grief my fate betide, Be still an Eden bright to me, My own-my own fireside !

The Theatre a Snare to Young Men.

"The theatre a snare to young men !" exclaims some one in surprise ; " it is an innocent amusement." It is not long since a newspaper editor informed the public that it is the "most moral of all amusements." An innocent amusement! O, I wish you had heard the deep-heaved sighs, and saw the briny tears that I have heard and seen, in consequenc of fortune squandered, character ruined, and hope blasted, from theatre going, you would not need arguments to convince you that the theatre is a dangerous place.

"The theatre was from the very first; The favourite haunt of sin, though honest men-Some very honest, wise, and worthy men-Maintained it might be turned to good account; And so perhans, it might, but never was: And so, perhaps, it might, but never was : From first to last it was an evil place.',—Pollok Not to speak of excited feelings while reason sleeps-not to speak of obscene performances and filthy language, calculated to rouse and rankle the impurest emotions of the human mind-night watching, and midnight drinking, and lewd conversation, and still lewder company, have led many a young man to ruin too dark to be described. One day, in going the usual rounds of visi-tation, with Bible in hand, speaking the words of salvation from cell to cell, I entered the cell of a young man of polite address and incelligent expression. It was evident that dissipation had sucked the bloom of youth from his cheek, and that pale and wan was the countenance that had once been flushed with health, and beaming with native intelligence. He was engaged at crank labour. The sweat sat in clammy drops upon his brow. My heart melted in sympathy over him, as he lifted his large naked hand to wipe off the perspiration that was now trickling down his faded cheeks. 1 entered into conversation with him regarding his best interests, and in the course of our conversation certain things fell from him deserving of being recorded, and at my suggestion, he gave me the following account of himself in writing, with full permission to publish it :---"I was born at or pear M----, in the parish of J____, on the 7th of March, 1835. At the age of ten years I went as an errand boy to a seedsman ; with whom I remained eleven months (having been only three years at school, and my education deficient), and afterwards was apprenticed to a printer, with whom I have been the whole of my time as a tradesman. "Having acquired in a few months a knowledge of the trade to a certain extent, I was early put to the 'case,' to arrange types for printing, and by application and industry. soon earned a good deal of money. At this stage of life, being very young (about eleven years), I was fascinated by gayeties and superfluities, such as the theatre and ballroom, the former of which I often frequent ed, and THERE was my mind first decoyed from the paths of virtue. What with the brilliancy of the lights, the lofty tone of expressions the gergeous apparal, the thrilling music, and the excited audience, together with the delicate and refined accentuation of the female performers, so excited was my immagination, that I continued for evenings to attend that place; and this I consider, was the first step towards evil communications and evil society.

The theatre is also productive of evil habits, in so far as the hours of performance are so adopted, as to interfere with those hours which should be devoted to recruiting you said you were almost frightened out of your ing the merits of the respective players in some tavern, or worse than all, in some dawn, he endeavours to sleep; but, no, the be alarmed, or frightened, or terrified. excited brain-the tainted imagination-the wearied limbs, and the stricken conscience, quite indispose him for anything of the kind; thereby contracting a habit of which he will rising, and total incapacity for the ordinary said Mrs. Mills. duties of life; ultimately causing loss of health, character, virtue, and all that is essential for our spiritual and social well-being." "Surely such are the dwellings of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God."

A Negro Sermon.

The discourse from which the annexed passage is taken, says the Christian Register, was actually preached in the town of Zanesville, Ohio, some years ago. The name of the reverend divine, who was a coloured gentleman, and we believe a sincere and the Judge Harper, to whom he refers, we remember well. The Judge was present at the delivery of the sermon, and was brought in by the preacher, by way of illustrating a position taken by him. But to the passage : "My dear frens and bredren," said the preacher, "de soul of de brack man is dear to de Lord as de soul of de white man.'

"Now, you all see Judge Harper, a sittin' man he is too -well now I'se gwine to make a little comparishment. "Yes, dear mother," replied Jane; "for I know it is wrong, and I feel ashamed and sorry for it." "Well, my dear," added her mother, " improve ! And now you may get ready to go with me to see the panorama."

The World's Benefactor.

Who, that has had opportunities of read ng, but has heard of the philanthropist Howard, the greatest part of whose life was spent in visiting the prisons of Europe, and administering relief to countless numbers of suffering inmates, and whose name will go down to remotest time, crowned with the honors which millions yet unborn will humble christian, we have forgotten; but bestow upon it? In the same category we may place the name of Miss Nightingale, the devoted, self sacrificing heroine of the Crimea. But while we give due honors to such names, we should do injustice to a noble and generous heart, were we for one moment to forget the name of HOLLOWAY. The possessor of an immense forme, which would allow him to traverse the world in search of pleasure, he chooses, instead, to devote his dah, leaning on his gold headed cane-you fellow creatures, by dispensing among them the most remarkable remedies ever yet compounded, and which he himself discovered after years of unremitting toil and research, throughout the vast cabinet of nature. To He soon finds a nice fat piece ob mutton, first incited by the onormous amount of sufand trots off wid it. Do you 'spose de Judge fering from various diseases which he everywhere saw around, and the sad inefficiency nuffin ob de kind—if de mutton was nice and the success which has met him at every step of medical art to meet ad vanquish them; and -yet no greater than he ant cip ted-has proved his well-earned reward. So great, indeed, has become the popularity of his medicines, even in the remotest corners of wedder a soul 'longs to a white man or a London outstrips the largest in the world; and their marvellous virtues have been extolled in almost every language from pole to pole. We have seen innumerable testimonials from persons who have used these remedies-stacks upon stacks-in which their wonderful powers are extolled in the highest degree. In a climate so variable as ours, the most insidious diseases are likely to take root

G. W. STONE'S Vegetable Liquid Cathartic.

THE public do not require to be told that a mild, safe, and reliable Cathartic, in a liquid form, agreeable to the taste, and one which purges without violence, is a desideratum in medicine; this fact will be admitted by all. Such a discovery has been often attempted, but without success, until the introduction of the above named remedy.

No patent medicine ever met with such ready approval by physicians as this. Many regular prac-titioners are using it daily, all of whom have spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Persons, for the want of a better, have been obliged to resort to the use of those drastic, nanseous, and oftentimes injurious purgatives, such as castor oil. salts, senna, jal lop, rhubarb, alloes, gamboge, &c., all of which cause more or less debility, and fail to accomplish the object for which they are taken ; on the contrary, they often increase the difficulty and render the patient less curable. None of these enter into the composition of this invaluable remedy. It is composed of barks, roots and seeds. the medical properties of which are exactly adapted to the cure of those complaints for which it is recommended. By a combination of those properties the public were put in possession of the most valuable preparation ever produced. This medicine is not intended simply as a Cathartic ; its value treeing the Stomach from bile, and invigorating and strengthening the whole system. It is a certain cure for the Piles, and those suffering from that complaint should give it a trial. It is also warranted to cure canker in its worst forms. For all diseases of the Bowels it cannot be recommended too highly. In Summer Complaints, such as Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, &c., it will be found invaluable. We first heard of this medicine during a visit to the New England States, and being struck with the novelty of the title, were induced to make some inquiry about it; and we were surprised to learn that it was kept con-tantly in the houses of most of the inhabitants of the cities and villages where we stopped, to boused in cases of sudden attacks of pain, burns, scolds, &c, and we heard it spoken of in terms of high commendation, both by

During the past year the demand for this great remedy has been altogether unprecedented. Scarcely a week passes by during which we do not hear of some remarkable cure having been performed, within the cir cle of our acquaintauce, by the use of Perry Davis's Pain Klier .- Prov. Gen. He found no relief until I gave him a reaspoonful of the Pain Killer, diluted with warm water; but after the expiration of a few moments, he brought it up, when I repeated the dose, which partially relieved him. I followed it with a third dose, when he fell asleep, and on waking next merning he was quite fresh. I con-sider it a most valuab emedicine to be always at hand." I romain cours, & c.

Habits of Exaggeration.

We have heard of an eminent man who said he would walk many miles to meet a person free from exaggeration in the familiar talk of social and an attentive listener in any large company will be amused, (perhaps "pained" would express the more fitting emotion,) at the incessant discharge of expletives from the groups of talkers. The Teacher's Offering has a sensible reproof of this tendency in the following anec-

A gentleman farmer-we do not mean one who puts on airs, or farms at the expense of money made in other callings, but an earnest, self-reliant, enterprising man; one who farms for profit, and wins-wrote us, last Nov., as below :--

"My carrot crop has just been harvested. l employed a practical surveyor to measure off just one half acre on the west side of the field you saw, and the carrots were all sold by the pound, and I was satisfied of the weight, and found it to be 21,250 pounds. This lot was entered for the premium, offered by our life. One can scarcely recognize a simple fact Society. They required all to be weighed, and thinking it less trouble, I sold them on the lot for one half cent per pound, and received $106,25 in cash for the half acre, besides nearly enough for tops to feed to pay the harvesting. Nothing more was done after you saw them than harvesting and loading teams on the lot. I am sorry that I did not thin one row so as to com-"O mother, I am tired to death!" said Jane pare the difference. We had visited this gentlemen a few days before. The carrots of which he speaks were exceedingly thick rowed, not more than not walk from here to school again to-day, for twelve to fourteen inches apart, and the carrots a real thicket in each row-two or three to an inch, as it appeared to us. His doctrine was, that they must be so thick in onler to shade the ground. They served, as he "But I am nearly certain you could be in-duced to go without any urging," answered her ground moist. We thought otherwise, that, they should be thinned to one in three or four inches, and we are obstinate enough tothink so still; though it must be confessed that he

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is we tranted when the above quan and a perfect cure is we tranted when the above quan tity is taken. Reader, I peddled over a thousand bottles of this in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effect of it in every ease. So sure as water will extinguish fire, so sure will this cure humor. I never sold a bottle of it but that sold another; after a trial it always speaks for itself. There are two things about this herb that ap-pears to me surprising; first, that it grows in our pas-tules, in some places quite plentiful, and yet its value has never been known until I discovered it in 1846-second, that it should cure all kinds of humor. In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and great popularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1853, I peddled it, and sold about six bottles per day in April, 1854, I sold over one thousand bot-tles per day of it.
