Only a year-no voice, no smile, No glance of eye, No clustering curls of golden hair, Fair but to die!

Ore year ago-what loves, what schemes, Far into life! What joyous hopes, what high resolves, What generous strife!

The silent picture on the wall, The burial stone,-Of all that beauty, life, and joy, Remain alone!

One year-one year-one little year, And so much gone And yet the even flow of life Moves camly on.

The grave grows green the flowers bloom fair, Above that head: No sorrowing tint of leaf or spray, Says he is dead.

No pause or hush of merry birds That sing above, Tels us how coldly sleep below The form we love.

Where hast thou been this year beloved? What hast thou seen? What visions fair, what glorious life, Where thou hast been?

The vail! the vail! so thin, so strong! 'Twixt us and thee; The me stic vail! when shall it fall That we may see!

Not dead, not sleeping, not even gone : But present still, And waiting for the coming hour Of God's sweet will.

Lord of the living and the dead, Our Saviour dear; We lay in silence at Thy feet This sad, sad year.

Cirle.

From Moore's Rural New Yorker. HOME SUNSHINE.

Make home cheerful. Don't let its sunshine be darkened by an impatient, fretful, or repining spirit. Perhaps you are not well and a trifle may serve, to discompose and irritate your nerves, but is that any reason why you should revenge your annoyance on the first unoffending member of the family circle who comes in your way? Or, admitting the cause of the disturbance to be serious, occasioned perhaps by the the gross carelessness or wilfulness of another, is it not one of preciate your skill, and commend your medicine to he "daily crosses' you are called upon to bear, and should it not be met in a gentle, patient your life, every seperate influence which you exert upon those around. Will a brother or sister be made more loving or more careful if every unintentional trespass, nay, if every positive fault be met by unkind looks or ungenile words? Will your influence over a domestic, your power to win her to an affectionate feelings for yourself, to a faithful performance of duty. an interest in higher and holier subjects, be strengthened by a harsh or angry rebuke? Think, ere you render you grieve and dishoncur the Master who has the lungs for the last forty years. set you in the circle of home duties and home affections, and who will one day require a strict account at your hands.

But to make home happy, more is required than the mere suppression of the angry word, the unkind feeling. Indifference to that which concerns others is a fruitful source of domestic unhappiness. You must interest yourself in all that interests those with whom you are so absorbed in your own plans, your own enjoyments, your own feelings, as to have no sympathy for this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to Messrs B. O. & G. C. Wilson. those of others; if you have no time to,, rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep them that weep" in the family circle, you are destroying much of the happiness of home, and casting a shadow where sunshine ought to be. It is of no avail that you walk through life wrapt in dreams of that great good that you will do for the many some day in the far off future; that you are planning or executing work that shall accomplish nearest you. You can lighten your mother's labors-you can take a kindly, heart warm, inteligent intest in all that concern your father, and brothers' or sisters-you can be teacher, guide, helper, to the little ones -you can fulfill cheerfully and pleasently, the daily routine of household duties even though they be wearisome and distasteful---and all this you must do if you would render home happy-most obviously your first duty, your precious privilege.

And here let me whisper don,t think anything too small to minister to the comfort of home. A carelessly arranged dinner table, a disorderly pare with this new invention for chasing out the room, will detract from. With intelligence, affection, and good temper, neatness is still indispensable. And where a love for the beautiful is shown in all the arrngements and adornings of your home, inexpressive though they may be much will be done, almost unconsciously to themselves in attaching the members of your little circle close to their own fireside.

Try it, my dear sisters, and ere we part let me add a word that cannot be out of place in any portion of a professedly Christian land. You will not find it easy always to carry out these good resolutions. Days there are of languor, and listlessness and, weariness, when it is very difficult to wear a smiling brow, to perform faithfully the task we do not like, to deny ourselves for the sake of others. Let us remember then the earthly life of One "who pleased not himself," and ask Him for strength to fulfill aright the duties which He he has given us. The brightest sunshine that ever irradiates an earthly home is that reflected from the courts of Heaven. EVELYN. Philadelphia, Penn., 1858.

DYSENTERY.

I have resorted to B. O. & G. C. Wilson's Dys entery Syrup, in all kinds of bowel complaints, and it is always sure. One dose is generally a perfect antidote. For Dysentery, one to three may be necessary. In very severe cases, I generally add fifteen to thirty Neuropathic Drops to each dose, which never fails, and my experience is, like that of hundreds of individuals who come to this city on business, and have visited the store of B. O. & G. C. Wilson, under circumstances which rendered a trial of the Syrup necessary, who have been perfectly astonished at the result, and the shortness of the time in which it effected a cure. The medicine can't be beat. DANIEL GUNN. Printer, 41 Congress St. July, 1857. THE NEUROPATHIC DROPS WILL CURE CORNS AND CHILBAINS.

CHELSEA, June 26th, 1857. Gentlemen: For eight or nine years I have been troubled with a corn of the worst kind; I had it cut out as often as once in from 4 to 10 weeks, and still continued very lame. February 9th. 1857, I noticed that your Neuropathic Drops were used for corns. I applied the Drops, night and morning, rubbing them on with my fingers for 10 or 15 minutes each time, for each time, for two weeks, which so effectually cured it that it has given me no trouble since.

It is particularly recommended to the attention of Puchic speakers, singers and all persons who use the voice freely. Its efficacy for Charming the Voice is truely astonishing!

There has been practiced under the pretence of turnishing the public with supperior medicines that the inventer of a GENERE ARTICLE only begs that each one would try for himself, for society demands

GOOD MEDICINES. should be made public. Even those which do rossess some virtue are held at such exorbitant prices, that they do not come within the reach of the poor in while they, above all, are the most liable to suffer from the consequence of neglect and exposure.

Bo not the poor suffer daily? It is true they do for the want of a medicine which they are unable to purchase. The proprietor of the Vegetable Couga Candy has obviated this difficulty by inventing a Medicine compounded of twenty-nine different ingredients, extracted from the Vegetable Kingdom, and sold at a price which will place it within the reach of all. It is well known that many ingredients ents when used singly are inefficacious, but when combined with others are highly salutary.

MACER'S VEGETABLE COUGH CANDY contains the most essential ingredients of which other Cough Candies are composed, with several additional kind, the combined power of which is sufficient to heal, in part, every malady to which the human system is liable (which does not require the aid of a surgeon), if attended to in season.

The numerous ingredients composing this Condy have been recommended by many physicians of minutes. nence, some of whom are among the most celeurat-ed in the United States. The pleasantness of this is unnecessary to use any persuasion to induce ch dren to use it.
