MY BOY.

Laughing, dancing, prattling, singing, Tones of joy forever ringing-Like the trill of little thrushes Chirping in the summer bushes ; Parlor, nursery and hall Echoing to his merry call ; Like some tiny little fairy, Flitting round us, never weary----Hath the world a thing of joy Like to thee, my darling boy?

Cheek the hue of summer roses When the opening bud uncloses : Hair like golden sunbeams shining Through the mist of day's declining ; And that little mouth of his is Meant for nothing else but kisses ; While his eyes, I think, were even Stolen from the blue of heaven; Yet so winsome and so loving That no shadow of reproving Ever flecks his path of joy-God's best gift, my blessed boy

When at night my little blossom, With his head upon my bosom, Tells his childish joys and fears With the wit of riper years, And, 'mid kissing and caressing, Craves his usual good-night blessing, Then I thank the God above me That I have a child to love me-Precious, pure, without alloy, Is thy love, my blue-eyed boy.

PARENTAL ADVICE.

A venerable looking man was sitting, eagerly conversing with his daughter-a beautiful young lady of about twenty-one years of age. With deep anxiety, and an imploring look the father said, "My dear Jane, this is too much for your mother. She has devolved it on me. 1 do hope you will think better on this matter." ### FOOD FOR FOWLS.

Fowls are, of all birds, the most easy to feed. Every alimentary substance agrees with them, them; they are seen the whole day long incessantly busied in scratching, picking up a living. In well-fed fowls the difference will be seen.

not only in the size and flesh of the fowls, but in the weight and goodness of the eggs; two of which go farther in domestic uses than three from hens poorly fed or half starved.

It is customary to throw to the fowls in a poultry-yard once or twice a day, a quantity of flicted with sores, Humors, etc. These breakings grain, generally corn, and somewhat less than out (thus early) are evidences of, disease transmitthat which they would consume, if they had an ted from the parent stock. ### NEVER FORGOTTEN.

A rich landlord of England once cruelly oppressed a poor widow. Her son, a little boy of eight years, saw it. He afterwards became a painter and painted a life-likeness of the scene. Years afterwards he placed it where the man saw it. He turned pale, trembled in every joint, and offered any sum to purchase it, that he might put it out of sight. Thus there is an invisible painter drawing on the canvas of the soul a life or sale of Oil and Lamps addressed to him, at this "How long he will love you, my dear Jane, likeness reflecting correctly all the passions and Depot, will receive prompt attention. should be made public. Even those which do pos sess some virtue are held at such exorbitant prices. that they do not come within the reach of the poor while they, above all, are the most liable to suffer from the consequence of neglect and exposure.

Do not the poor suffer daily ? It is true they do for the want of a medicine which they are unable to purchase. The proprietor of the Vegetable Cough Candy has obviated this difficulty by inventing a Medicine compounded of twenty-nine different in gredients, extracted from the Vegetable Kingdom, and sold at a price which will place it within the reach of all. It is well known that many ingredients when used singly are inefficacious, but when combined with others are highly salutary.
