

Behold, I freely give The living water, thirsty one; Stoop down, and drink and live I came to Jesus, and I drank Of that life-giving stream ; My thirst was quenched, my soul revived. And now I live in him.

I heard the voice of Jesus sav, I am this dark worlds light : Look unto me, thy morn shall rise And all thy day be oright. I looked to Jesus and I found In him my star, my sun And in that light of life I' dwell, Till travelling days are done.

(From the New York Chronicle.) THELIGHT OF THE DWELLING. Dear me, sis, you have knocked my house down again. I just wish you would run away, and play with Towser there, girls are always in the way," said a boy of eight to his little three year old sister, who was helping him build a block house in true baby style. " Now go right away, sis. I shall not be troubled a minute longer." he added decidedly. The little one, of course, began to cry.

"Dick." said the gentle voice of sister Alice. "don't speak so unkindly to little Kitty. She thought she was helping you. Come here, darling, and see these robins. There are half a dozen hopping about on the frezen ground trying to find a crumb."

Kitty and Dick both ran to the window, and quickly forgot their troubles in watching the little birds.

"Oh, Alice, may I have a dry biscuit to feed them ?" said Dick. Permission was given, and he ran down to the kitchen, and then proceeded cautiously to scatter the crumbs about under the trees. Presently the birds returned, and the children were very happy for a long time, watching the eagerness with which they ate the breakfast given them, and then listening to their short quick songs of gratitude as they hopped about among the bare tree branches. Gentle Alice stitched away with a smile in her sweet blue eve. as she thought what a trifling effort was required to make the little people happy.

By and by the birds were gone, and Dick returned to his blocks. But now he felt ashamed of his former peevishness. Contact with the lovely leasing in nature, has ever a tendency to soften and modify the heart. So he called to little Kitty, and told her he would give her lessons in house building, if she would be very careful, at which the little one was greatly delighted, and applied herself with remarkable diligence. And thus their morning passed pleasantly away. Presently grandpa came in and began looking anxiously for his spectacles. "I never can remember where I put 'em. My memory is getting as poor as my eyes, I believe," he said almost sadly. Alicesprang up instantly 'I will find them, sir, if they are to be found. They cannot escape me, you know grandpa." And she flitted about the room like a little fairy, until she found them under a paper in the secretary. There they are, and here is the paper which has just come; I laid it aside expressly for you. as I knew you liked it best before the news had all been read out," she said laughingly as she handed him the last number of the CHRONICLE.

more because many preparations, prechains of the virtue of Saraa-trated extracts of it contain but little of the virtue of Saraa-parilla, or any thing else. During fate years the public have been misled by large bottles, prefending to give a quart of extract of Saraaparilla, for one deflar. Most of those have been frauds upon the sick, for they uot only contain little if any Sarsaparilla, but often no curative proportions whatever. Hense bitter and painfail disappointment has followed the one of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name of itself is justly deepised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we will this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to sure ply such a remedy as shal rescue the name from the load of obliquy while it rests upon it. And we think we have ground for heleving it has virtues which are irresistables by the ordidary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to the directions en the bottle.

" Thank you, dear," He said cheerily, " what should grandpa do without Alice, I wonder," and he sat down in his cozy corner to enjoy the rich and varied contents of his most highly prized newspaper.

The door opened and mother came in, with a basket full of stockings which must all be looked over and repaired, if necessary. Alice laid aside her stitching and was quickly at her mother's side.

" Now please let me do that, nother, for you look so tired. I can embroider stockings splendidly. Just try me once." and she gently took the basket from her. " Here is your rockingchair and my last magazine, which has not had its leaves cut yet. Sould you like it while you are resting ? I will get my paper knife for you. Thankfully the weary mother took the easy chair, and rested both the mind and body, while the busy little fingers neatly darned the heavy stockings, and then rolled away in a corner of the basket.

" Precious child," thought the mother, " how could Lever part with her so long to Aunt Helen. I am glad she is here now, and what is better. that she loves her humble, country home more than her sunt's city mansion. Truly, she is the light of our dwelling." And indeed she was a ray of sunshine wherever she went ; gentle and unobtrusive, but always imparting a cheerful glow to every heart within the sphere of her inluence. J. E. L.

"NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP." "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep ; If I should die before I wake,

I pray the Lord my soul to take." Who are you, man or woman, for whom this praver has not old, sweet associations ; who, hearing its words, hear not, too, the " memory bells" ringing up from the golden plains of your childhood, and, feel not the soft gales from the morning land of your life sweeping over your soul ? You may be a man now, in the pride and strength of your years ; you may have carved out for yourself an honorable name and destiny in this world-mayhap you are the owner of broad lands and proud homes, and your heart has grown hard in its batlle with the world. But stop a moment, and listen to this little verse, so simple that the mercat babe who learns to lisp the words ein comprehend them, so grand in its sublime

' Seek and ye shall find, beek me ere thy earthly treasures Thee to earth shall bind.

Ere thy heart by sin corrupted, And to earth confined. Grows too proud to be convicted. Seek and ye shal! find.

'Krock upon the gate of Heaven,' Jesus suith to thee : ' Knock upon the shining portal-Opened shallit be.'

- Ask for pardon, ask for wisdom."
- Lo ! He saith to thee : ' As thy faith is when thou prayest, Thy reward shall be.'

PARENTAL SYMPATHY.

Parents express too little sympathy for their children ; the effect of this is lamentable.

"How your children love you! I would give the world to have my children so dovoted to me !" satd a mother to one who did not regard the time given to her children as so much cap ital wasted. Parents err fatally when they grudge the time necessary for their children's amusement and instruction ; for no investment brings so sure and so rich returns. The child's love is hely ; and if the parent does net fix that love upon himself, he deserves to lose FOR it, and in after-life to bewail his poverty of heart.

The child's heart is full of love, and it must gush out toward somebody or something. If the parent is worthy of it, and possesses it, he is blest and the child is safe. When the child loves worthy persons, and receives their sympathy, he is less liable to be influenced by the undeserving; for in his soul are models of excellence, with which he compares others.

Any parent can descend from his chilling dig. nity, and freely answer the child's questions, talking familiarly and tenderly with him ; and when the little one wishes help, the parent should come out of his abstractions and cheerfully help him. Then his mind will return to his speculations elastic, and it will act with force. All parents can find a few minutes occasionally, during the day, to read little stories to the children and to illustrate the respective tendencies of good and bad feelings. They can talk to them about flowers, birds, trees, about angels, and about God.

They can show interest in their sports, determining the character of them. What is a surer way than this of binding the child togthe heart of the parent ? When you have made a friend of a child, you mdy congratulate yourself you have a friend for life .- Life Illustrated.

[From President Smith, of the Wesleyan University.] MIDDLETOWN, CONN., Feb. 25, 1859. SETH W. FOWLE & Co. — Gentiennes: 1 first made use of the "Oxygenated Bitters" some seven or eight years since. Having suffered for twenty years from a form of Dyspepsia, which was attended with a nerrous headache, on an average of not less than one day in a week, I was induced by the unpresending recommenda-tion of Dr. Green " to try one hottle, and if no benefit was received to discontinue its use." The use of one bottle warranted a further trial, to the satent of some three or four, with a careful observance of the accompanying directions. The result was an almost reasing, painful coassequences. I believe produced an entire change in the habit and upon the active energies of the of I now doom myself as exempt from D
