

ENNA. 18.—An official account has been issued of the losses of the Austrians at the battle of Magenta. 63 officers and 1,302 soldiers killed, 218 officers, and 4,140 soldiers wounded, and 4,000 missing.

The Times correspondent says: "The number of a portion of the European troops of the company against the transfer of their services to the Crown, have been louder and longer, uttered in the nature of the arguments which they ground their complaint. At which, Allah-bad, and tivalor, a mutinous spirit, has been exhibited."

Cottons with declining tendency: breadstuffs quiet, provisions downward. Consols 92½.

NAPOLEON III. TO THE LOMBARDS.

TALIAN: The fortune of war having brought into the capital of Lombardy, I am about to you why I am here. When Austria unjustly attacked Piedmont I resolved to support my ally, King of Sardinia, the honor and the interest of France making it a duty for me to do so. I am not here to make a speech, but to express my sympathy with the Italian people, and to assure them that France will not fail to support them in their struggle for liberty. I am not here to make a speech, but to express my sympathy with the Italian people, and to assure them that France will not fail to support them in their struggle for liberty.

NAPOLEON III. TO HIS ARMY.

SOLDIERS: A month ago, confiding in efforts of diplomacy, I still hoped for the maintenance of peace, when suddenly the invasion of Piedmont by the Austrian troops called us to arms. We were not ready. Men, horses, material and supplies were wanting, and we had in order to assist our allies, to pass in small divisions beyond the Alps before an enemy formidable and prepared before hand.

The danger was great; the energy of the nation and your courage supplied all; France has again found her old virtues, and, united in one feeling and for one object, she has shown the power of her resources and the strength of her patriotism. It is now only ten days since operations commenced, and the Piedmontese territory has been already cleared of the invaders. The allied army has fought four combats and gained a decisive victory of Lombardy. You have put more than 35,000 Austrians hors de combat, taken 17 cannon, two colors, and 8,000 prisoners; in all not terminated; you will have more struggles to support and obstacles to overcome.

I rely on you. Courage, then, brave soldiers of the army of Italy! Your forefathers from above contemplate you with pride.

RUSSIAN CIRCULAR.

The Russian government has issued a circular to all its representatives at foreign courts, explaining the views of Russia respecting the political situation of Europe, more especially as regards the attitude of Germany. This circular says:—

"Our desire, like that of the majority of the Great Powers, is now to maintain the peace, because it arose out of local circumstances, and because it is the only means of accelerating the return of peace. The line followed by some States of the European Confederation tends, on the contrary, to generate the struggle by giving it a character and proportions which go beyond all human provision, and which, under any circumstance, would lead to increased devastation, and would cause torrents of blood to be shed."

"We can not the less understand this tendency, as independently of the guarantees offered to Germany by the positive declarations of the French government, accepted by the Great Powers, and the very force of circumstances, the German States thereby deviate from the fundamental basis which unites them."

"The German Confederation is a combination purely and exclusively defensive. It is on that condition that she participated in the internal law of Europe, on the basis of treaties to which Russia's signature is affixed."

"Now, no hostile act has been committed by France against the Confederation, and there does not exist any obligatory treaty for the latter to attack that power."

"Should, consequently, the Confederation take any measures towards France on conjectural grounds, measures which it has obtained more than one guarantee, it would have falsified the object of its institution, and disowned the spirit of treaties upon which its existence rests."

"We confidently entertain the hope that the wisdom of the federal governments will set aside determinations which would turn to their prejudice, and would not contribute to strengthen their own position."

"If, which God forbid, it should happen otherwise we shall at all events have fulfilled a duty of frank and sincere friendship. Whatever may be the issue of the present complications, the Emperor, our august master, perfectly free in his action, will only be inspired by the interests of his country and the dignity of his crown in the determination which his Majesty will be called upon to take."

MARRIED.

DIED.

At Maugerville, May 30th, isabella Annett, in the 20th year of her age. Her end was peace.

At Havelock, June 1st, Emily, beloved wife of Mr. Daniel Keith, in the 41st year of her age. Mrs. Keith received a small cut in the thumb, which produced extreme suffering, and resulted fatally. In the prospect of death she expressed a firm hope in her Redeemer, and an anxious desire to depart that she might dwell with Him in heaven. Com. by Elder J. H. Herriot.

At Long Creek, parish of Johnston, on the 4th, inst., of pitted sore throat, James, aged 23 years, 8 months and 23 days, second son of Capt. John and Sybil Secord. Our young brother professed religion in a recent revival at this place, was baptized by Elder Keith and united with the Baptist Church in this place. He found the religion of the cross to sustain him happily through a somewhat protracted and very painful illness, during which he gave the most unequivocal evidence of a well grounded hope beyond the grave. As a man and a Christian, he was universally esteemed and beloved, and died justly and deeply lamented. His funeral sermon was preached by the writer in the hearing of a large assembly from a text of his own selection, John 11:25, 26 and 28 verses.

Wellington A. Troop, Pastor.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.—The publishers of this widely circulated and popular illustrated weekly journal of mechanics and science, announce that it will be enlarged on the first of July and otherwise greatly improved, containing sixteen pages instead of eight, the present size, which will make it the largest and cheapest scientific journal in the world; it is the only journal of its class that has ever succeeded in this country, and maintains a character for authority in all matters of mechanics, science and the arts, which is not exceeded by any other journal published in this country or in Europe. Although the publishers will incur an increased expense of $8,000 a year by this enlargement, they have determined not to raise the price of subscription, relying upon their friends to indemnify them in this increased expenditure, by a corresponding increase of subscribers. Terms $2 a year, or 10 copies for $15. Specimen copies of the paper with a pamphlet of information to inventors, furnished gratis, by mail, on application to the publishers.
