The Honographe Attorney General, Mr. Bill, the Honographe Mr. Young, Hon. Mr. Howe Hon. Mr. Campbell, Mr. Wade, Mr. Morrison and others-although some were opposed to the measure-expressed their intention of voting for the Bill. There is seldom so strange a variety of teasons given by a body of men for doing one and the same act. Some, of course, were warm advocates of a direct Prohibitory Law; others were in favour of a Bill, but disliked this one, because the vote was to be taken at the same time as the General Election; others objected to the vote being taken by ballot; ethers again thought that by granting the Law the repetition of petitioning the Logislature would be p evented; and again others thought that by sending the question of pro-hibition to the polls, it would be effectually destroyed, and consigned to oblivion for all futore time. Mr. Henry, Mr. M. I. Wilkins, and we believe, Mr. Tobin, wholly disapproved of Prohibition generally, and this bill in particular. GREAT BRITAIN .- In the House of Commons on the 9th, the Government Bill partially abolishing Church Rates, by means of voluntary com-mutation, was debated, and finally rejected by 254 to 171.

Sundry notices of amendment to the Government Reform Bill were announced, including one by Lord John Russell, to the following effect That it is neither just nor politic to interfere in the manner proposed by the Bill, with the treehold franchise in England an! Wales, and that no adjustment of the franchise will satisfy the House or the Country, which does not provide for greater extension of the suffage in Cities and Boroughs than is provided in the Bill. Mr. Wilds said he should move an addition to this amendment, to the effect that votes be taken by ballot. Mr. D'Israeli said the Government was preparing certain modifications to its Bill. Lord Malmesbury said the Congress of Paris would probably meet the fellowing week, on the question of the Principalities. The Navy Estimates were debated, and the Indian Loan Bill passed through Committee, in the Commons.

The Neapolitan Exiles had landed at Cork. Times recommends a public subscription in their favor, and says that in the the whole history of Continental turmoil since 1815, there is not an instance to be found of men who have suffered such grevious wrongs with hands so entirely clean.

The London Times, in its City Article, again reverts to the defaulting States in the American Union, and gives a resume of their respective positions, to prevent, as it says, the public from being deluded by the constant flourishes of their Governors.

The same journal, in its City article, questions the expedience of the promised subsidy to the Galway Line, and hints that the Government desire for Irish votes may have had something to do with it. It argues that the Government is departing from the principle which requires no contracts to be made excep, those which had been invited by public tender, and that in subsidising this new line, they act unfairly to old Mr. and Mrs. Dallas were present at a dinner FRANCE.—The recent pacific articles in the Moniteur" and its effects continued to attract attention. The Paris correspondent of the Herald, in his letter of Thursday, says:—" The hopes of peace to which the resignation of the head of the War party gave rise are daily melting away under the influence of the War articles which the semi-official journals are instructed to publish; they steadily repeat that no change has taken place in the Emperor's policy; that grave difficulties still exist between France and Austria: the settlement of the Italian questin is necessary for the peace of Europe, and if it cannot be obtained by diplomacy, other means must be resorted to." The concentration of artillery allows the supposition that a veritable stege train is to be assembled at Paria, which can have no other aim than the siege of strong places in Piedmont. It is asserted that the facts contained in this article came direct from the Sardinian Government to the Tuileries.

A Vienna correspondent of Le Nord reports the success of Lord Cowley's mission. A basis of arrangement likely to be favourably received by all was decided upon.

The Frankfort Journal publishes an Austrian despatch, addressed to the Ambassador at London for communication to the British Cabinet. After expressing the desire to unite with the British Government in endeavouring to avert if possible the horrors of a general conflagration, it hopes to make its pacific intentions perfectly clear, and remarks, that if the powers could prevail on Piedmont to abandon her policy of provocation hopes for the tranquility of Italy may be entertained—liberty in Piedmont being little less than license, and productive of most serious inconvenience to the neighbouring states.

The despatch concludes as fo'lows :- "Austria does not meditate any hostile project aguinst Predmont; she will abstain not withstanding the just complaint which she could bring forward from all aggressive action to the same extent that the Government of Sardinia on its side will respect the inviolibility of the Imperial Territory and that of its alliance, and your Excellency is authorized to give this assurance to Lord Mal-

PRUSSIA.—In the Chamber of Deputies, the Minister of Finance stated the law prohibiting the exportation of horses over the Zollverin frontier had come in force. The Minister of Foreign Affairs gave a description of the present state of European affairs. The following is an abstract of the speech :-- "The Prussian Government does not for a moment doubt it will be able, in concert with England, to produce due respect to existing treaties. England and Prussia are in this favourable position, that they are to place themselves with impartiality between the antagonistic powers of Austria and France. Up to the present time there have been only moderate hopes of success, but the grounds for hope are realized during the last few days." The Chambers gave expression to approval by loud and continued applause.

SARDINIA.—The Turin correspondent of the Herald says that a note in the Moniteur has fallen like a thunderbolt on the Court and Ministry. The result of the pacific declaration of Mails between France may be to hasten the conflict with Austria, even single handed.
