copy from a Boston paper :--- In the fight on Wednesday between the 6th corps and the enemy at Coal Harbor, the gallantry of our men was the theme of praise by all. Ricketts' division charged up to the breastworks of the enemy, sustaining a loss of over 500, but inflicting heavy punishment on the foe, and talking about 600 prisoners. Gen. Upton's brigade of Russell's division was on the left of Ricketts', and also charged a line at the same time. The 2d Connecticut heavy artillery, getting within a few yards of the entrenchments were received by such a terrible fire as to cause them session of a portion of the line, which they held all night until relieved. Their loss was very heavy, being about 385 in killed, wounded and missing. General Smith's command took an active part on the right of the 6th corps, driving back the enemy with considerable loss. The command lost about 1400 in killed and wounded. The fight between the 5th corps and the enemy on the same day was much severer than was first reported. Gen. Ayres' division got so far in advance that it was flanked by a heavy force of reliefs and making a lost of the first of the first of the fight between the 5th corps and the enemy on the same day was much severer than was first reported. Gen. Ayres' division got so far in advance that it was flanked by a heavy force of reliefs and making and gained possible. Dear Wife—I will try and write a few lines to you as I he here on my back, suffering all I can endure. It is hard work to write so that you can read it; but I thought you would rather see my own hand writing on the paper than any other. They all say I am getting along well. I have lost both my legs just above the knees, and am very weak; but by the blessing of God I hope to live through it. Pray for me, dear wife. Many kisses to the children, and much love to all. From your suffering husband, force of rebels and was forced to fight its way back three quarters of a mile through thick woods, rejoining the corps with considerable loss. Here they took position and repulsed an attack which was made on the position. The enemy dosing at least 3000 in killed and wounded, being nearly twice as large as ours. Barlow's division of Hancock's corps charged a line of breastworks early in the morning, capturing 250 prisoners, with colors, arms, &c., and, it is rereported. 2 guns. Gen. Smith's command also took a line of works this morning, but was forced to fall back afterwards."

As I cannot see you all before the day of Election, I avail myself of the Press, to give you my opinion of the Government, and claims to your support, as I think no Candidate is entitled to your votes, who does not openly declare to which of the two parties he belongs; for independent candidates when returned, invariably choose that side which is the strongest, as they can best serve their own end, thereby regardless of the interests of those to whom they owe their election. nemination.

No friend of Constitutional Government, and no advocate for Retrenchment, can defend the Government, in The Increase of the Salaries of the Lieut. Governor, Private Secretary and Solicitor General, at the command of the Colonial Secretary, and without the sanction of the Legislature. This actalone should overthrow the Administration, as it has no precedent in the Political History of the Province. Far better that the money should be laid ort on the Bye Roads and Schools, than in the increase of salaries already ample, if not too large, for the duties performed, and the means of the people.

I am sure the Electors of Queen's will not ask their Representatives to sustain an Administration whose Attorney-General (Johnston), in addition to the salary of $2,400 with fees, members pay, &c., took $200 for attendance at the vocate for RETRENCHMENT, can defend the Government,

General (Johnston), in addition to the salary of $2.400 with fees, members pay, &c., took $200 for attendance at the late Railway trials, and who, with the other members of the Government, opposed the grant of $400 recommended by a Committee of the House, to the poor widow whose little boy was killed at Rothsay, through the carelessness of the Railway Officials, as proved by the verdict of the jury, the charge of the Judge, and the award of the Government to others who were injured on the occasion.

When a Government is composed of men who have no

When a Government is composed of men who have no fixed principles or defined policy, and who have little or no confidence in each other, and whose only bond of union is the $2,400 a year, it has outlived its usefulness and been in power too long.

The press and the people are calling aloud for a change, may Queen's have the honor of striking the first blow.

Should you return me at the coming election, I shall seek nothing beyond your welfare and prosperity, for I shall regard your approval of my conduct, of more value than the gift of any office the Government can bestow.

I ask of you a trial, and remain,
