a loss of 20,000 upon the Federals, with a loss to his own force of 5,000 killed and wounded. This is denied by the Federals, but they do not boast of a victory. On the other hand it is clear that Bragg has retreated from Kentucky without accomplishing all that was intended by his invasion. McClellan's army on the Potomac has been idle for a month, losing the finest season of the year for marching into Virginia, and cannot now go for want of winter clothing ! The ragged, shoeless Confederates are awaiting the Federals on the other side of the Potomac, having had all that time to strengthen their position, and secure the crops of Western Virginia which, it will be remembered were, in the early part of the season, stated to be of immense importance to them. On the whole, we cannot see the least evidence of any military gain to the Federal cause during the ago. summer campaign, and if it is true as stated, that the Confederates have now an army in the field of 650,000 men, well supplied with arms, ammunition, and provisions, they are superior to the North, and better prepared to invade the North than the Federals are the South. Confining themselves to a defensive policy, the Confederate States are invulnerable.

Taking this view of the case, we are at no loss to account for the President's Emancipation proclamation. It was an act or desperation. All other means being exhausted, it only remained to cajole the Slave states back to the Union by promise not only of pardon, but absolute forgetfulness that they ever had been in rebellion, and the permanent security of their pecu-liar institution, under a threat of servile insurrection if they remain contumacious after the 1st day of January next. So far this proclamation has entirely failed of its expected results. The vote of several large States has condemned it at the North; the triends of liberty in Europe have not a word to say in its favor, and the indications are clearly that it will be the cause of European intervention to counteract its inhuman tendencies before the day fixed for its threatened enforcement.

As well by sea as by land the Confederates are beginning to show their power. They will soon have a considerable Navy afloat, and it one vesser, the Alabama, is capable of so much power as to alarm the whole Union, and cause the government to offer half a million for her capture, what consternation will eight or ten such vessels cause? The American navy that was to destroy the navies of France and England at one fell swoop, and defy all the rest of the world, it turns out is not sufficient for the destruction of this lone Southern priva teer, and private enterprise has to be call-

Government must have gold. The ple of England were wise, for once, in listening to the warnings of the press. If the Times had never done a praiseworthy act before, it would deserve the everlasting gratitude of English capitalists for its and all kinds of out-door work about farms. strenuous warnings which prevailed upon them not to lend their money to the Federal government. England suffers enough by the war without having to pay for it; and now that the gold has to come out of the pockets, and the bread out of the mouths of the American people themselves; to keep up the strife, they begin to feel the folly of not having taken the advise of General Scott, tendered to the President on the eve of his inauguration, to say to the seceding States, "Wayward sisters depart in peace".

TROUBLES ON THE ST. ANDREWS RAIL-BOAD.-Rumors were prevalent in the City on Saturday of rioting at Woodstock the St. Andrews Raitroad, arrising no by the contractors. We learned however, that the difficulty had been adjusted.

THE REVIEW OF THE VOLUNTEERS .-The Review of the city and Portland Companies of Volunteers came of on Friday with much solat. We are informed by competent Military authority, that it would do no discredit to Woolwich Common, England. The day was fine, the body of spectators, including the elite of the city, very large and the evolutions of the Vo-lunteers spirited and admiably executed.

Mr Edward Allison, Jr., who was dangerously wounded by a shot from a revolver which he was handling on Thursday evening last, is, we were glad to learn, last night, improving and likely to recover.

FIRE .- A fire broke out in a small barn in Richmond Street, on Sunday morning, about 3 o'clock, occupied by Mr. McCready, but was extinguished before much damage was done. It was supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

The Battery in this garrison, command-The Battery in this garrison, commanded by Captain Emyth, are under orders to proceed by the European and North American Railway on (Tuesday,) to Shediac, where they are to embark on H. M. S. Ariadne, bound to Montreal. We understand that Capt. Morris' battery is to relieve Capt. Smyth here, and that an additional number of horses are expected.

We also understand that the Military Stores at present here are greater than ever before in St. John.—New Bruns.

FROST .- The weather has become decidedly cool requiring great coats in the mornings, and fire in workshops and houses.—On Monday afternoon the cold was felt so keenly as to indicate a heavy frost during the night; all ten-der plants and vines are withered—ice formed a quarter of an inch in thickness. The weather up to the present week has been unusually fine.—St. Andrew's Standard.

A meeting was held at Halifax on Monday evening for the purpose of raising funds to assist the distressed operatives in the ma-nufacturing districts in England. The Mayor stated that he has received that day from an anonymous contributor the sum of £62 10s.

We regret to have it to state, that on Friday night, Mr. Stephen Peabody's barn and its contents were entirely consumed by fire. The loss is a heavy one, as nearly the whole crop just garnered of a large and well-cultivated farm, was laid in it at the time of the accident. Among the rest, we understand that about sixty tons of hay were burned.

The fire is thought to have originated by the corelessness or maliciousness of a strange Indian, whose can and bundle were found among the ruins. The Indian has been arrested, and was examined before Justice Beddell to-day (Saturday) but we have not heard that anything criminal was elucidated.

Mr. Peabody's loss will, we are sorry to hear, not be much less than eight hundred dollars, totally uninsured .- Woodstock Journal.

THE COMING ELECTION.—The Sheriff of the County has obtained the Writ for the Election of a Member to represent this County, which of a Member to represent this County, which has become necessary according to the terms of our Constitution. Mr. Johnson having accepted a salaried office in the Government, has to appear before his constituents, to ascertain if they approve of his conduct in so doing. Tuesday, the 28th inst., is appointed as the Nomination day; Monday, the 3rd November, as the Polling day; and Thursday, 6th November, as the Declaration day. This is sharp work. The freeholders in the remote districts, will scarce have time to know that an Election is to take place before it will be over. We presume the Sheriff could not allow a longer period, to comply with the time specified for the Writ to be returned. We hear of no opposition; the freeholders appear quite passive; and judging from appearances, quite passive; and judging from appearances, and the little interest they have taken in similar matters during the two last General Elections, it would seem they place but little value on their elective privileges. We imagine Mr. J. will be returned by a show of hands.—
Miramichi Gleaner.

THE SEASON .- While the Quebec Papers are narrating that the weather in that region Last, but not the least, and added to these difficulties of the Federal government, comes the inevitable money crisis—gold is going up, up, up; treasury notes are coming down, down, down; and the Government must have gold. A False Medical System in Ruins.—Not a Reform, but a Revolution!—Sir Walter Raleigh, referring in his "History of the World" to the character of Alexander the Great, says, "such spirits have been stirred up in sundry ages, to erect and cast down, to establish and destroy, and to bring all persons and states to the same ends." How admirably does this description apply to the labors of the great medical luminary of our times—the phylosopher, physician and philanthropist, Professor Hollowar. His spirit was "stirred up" when comparatively a young man, by observing the utter impotency of most of the medicines and methods employed by the licensed "professien" for the relief of the sick, and he resolved, in his large and liberal heart, to devote himself body and soul to the discovery of those materials for the general cure of disease, which he religiously believed God had placed somewhere in the arcana of Nature. What was the result? He succeeded! He unravelled the great Hygeian mystery. He found, analyzed, combined, and tested by experiment, the vegetable ingredients in which were comprehended all the most powerful healing agencies of the Botanic Kingdom. In a word, he ushered before the world two medicines, with the fame of which it is now ringing from its centre to its circumference—Holloway's Ointment and Holloway's Pills. He has erected a new medical system, which is everywhere casting down the chance begotten theories and empirical practices system, which is everywhere casting down the chance begotten theories and empirical practices of former days, and in the words of Raleigh, he has "trought all persons and States" within the pale of its cruative influence. Every year, every day, every hour, his great internal and external remedias become way for the particular translated in the continuous contin dies become more firmly entrenched in the conti-dence of the public, and neither the brutem fulmen of the faculty, nor the sneers of skepticism, can diminish the lustre of their inventor's fame.—Gal-veston (Texas) News.
