they are in a fair way to meet the expenditure. The of her strength what she refused in the early days of her discouragement? Would she create an inde-pendent Poland at the mere request of a Congress ? But if she would not, the prospect becomes one of humiliation for Europe, or of war against Russia, and those Powers who are not ready to incur the cost and hazard of war may well desire to avoid the other alternative. It may be truly said, moreover, that the present period is one of transition. If the insorrection shall be subdued, it will then be seen whether the promises of the Emperor of Russia are to be fulfilled. If the insurrection shall not be subdued, or if, in order to subdue it, the Polish population is treated with fresh-and, if that be possible-with aggravated rigour, other questions will arise which may require further consideration, but which would hardly receive a solution from a large assembly of representatives of all the Powers of Europe, Iudeed, it is to be apprehended that questions, arising from day to day, colored by the varying events of the hour, would give occasion rather for uscless debate than for practical and useful deliveration in a Congress of 20 or 30 representatives, not acknowledging any supreme authority, and not guided by any fixed rules of proceeding. Passing to the question of Italy, fresh difficulties occur. In the first place, is it intended to sanction by a new treaty the present state of possession in Italy? The Pope and the Sovereigns related to the dispossessed Princes might, on the one side, object to give a title they have hitherto refused to the King of Italy; and the King of Italy, on the other, would probably of ject to a settlement which would appear to exclude hun, by inference at least, from the acquisition of Rome and Venetia. But is it intended to ask Austria in Congress to renounce the possession of Venetia? Her Majesty's Government have good grounds to believe that no Austrian representative would attend a Congress where such a proposition was to be discussed. They are informed that if such an intention were announced beforehand, Austria would decline to attend the Congress ; and that if the questions were introduced without notice, the Austrian Minister would quit the Assembly. Here again, therefore, the delibrations of the Congress would soon be brought in sight of the alternative of nullity or war But is it possible to assemble a Congress and to summon an Italian representative to sit in it without discussing the State of Venitia? The Emperor of the French would be the first person to feel and to admit that such a course would not be possible.

With regard to Germany and Denmark, it is true that several of the Powers of Europe have interested themselves in that question, but the addition of Spain and Portugal, Italy, and Turkey to the deli beration would scarcely improve the prospect of a satisfactory solution. And if, with regard to Poland and Italy, no beneficial result is likely to be attained, is it expedient to call together a General Congress of all the States of Europe to find a remedy for the anarchy of Moldo Wallachia? Were all these questions-those of Poland, Italy, Denmark, and the Danubian Provinces to be decided by the mere utter-ance of opinions, the views of Her Majesty's Government upon most of them might, pernaps, be found not materially to differ from those of the Emperor of the French. But if the mere expression of opinion and wishes would accomplish no positive results, in appears certain that the delibrations of a Congress ould consist of demands and pretensions put forward by some and resisted by others; and, there being no supreme authority in such an assembly to enforce the decisions of the majo-rity, the Congress would probably seperate, leav-Rebellion; having reference to slaves, so long and so far as not modified or declared void by decision of the ing many of its members on worse terms with cach other than they had been when they met. But if this would be the probable result, it follows that no decrease of armaments is likely to be effected by the proposed Congress. M. Droayn de Lhuys refers to a proposal made by Lord Clarendon in one of the last sittings of the Gongress of Paris. But Her Confederate Government ; all who have left judicial stations under the United States to aid the recellion ; Majesty's Government understand that proposal to all who are or shall have been military or naval offi have reference to a dispute between two Powers to be cer of said so-called Confederate Government above referred to the good offices of a friendly Power, but in no way to the assembling of a General Congress. In avy; all who left seats in the United State Congress Not being able, therefore, to discern the likelihood of those beneficial consequences which the Emperor of All the resigned commissions in the army or navy

the French promised the French promised maself when proposing a Con-gress, Her Majesty's Government, following their own strong convictions, after mature deliberation, feel themselves unable to accept His Imperial Majesty's invitatio ...

I am, &c. Russell. . 805 31 N. 34. UNITED STATES. THE SEAT OF WAR. THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

In the absence of all war news of special or startling interest, we are happy to occupy the space generally devoted to war intelligence with a very brief review of the President's recent message to Congress. His first acknowledgment is to the giver of all good for a bounteous harvest, and for improvement in the affairs of the nation. The message then says. "We remain at peace with foreign powers." "Her Britanie Majestie's Government as was justly expected have exercised their authority to prevent the departure of new hostile expeditions from British ports." The recent treaty between the United States and Great Britain for the suppression of the slave trade, made on the 17th of February last, has been duly executed. "In common with other Western Powers, serious jeopardy." The message expresses the hope that these difficulties will soon be overcome. It recommends the favourable consideration of the subject of an International Telegraph across the Atlantic Ocean, and also, telegraphic communication between the capital and the national forts along the sea-board and the Gulf of Mexico. The message calls for an improved system for the encouragement of emigration. It says :- " KOOKAR ALTON "

There is still a great deficiency in every field of in dustry, especially in agriculture and in our mines, as well of iron as the precious metals. While the demand for labor is thus increased here, tens of thousands of persons destitute of remunerative occupation are thronging our foreign consulates and offering to emigrate to the United States, if essential but very heap assistance can be afforded them.

The operations of the Treasury during the last year have been successfully conducted, and all demands upon it promptly met. The receipts during the year from all sources, in-cluding loans and the balance in the Treasury at its commencement, were $901 125.674 86, and the aggregate disbursements $595,796,630 65, leaving a balance on the 1st of July, 1868, of $5,829,044 21. balance on the 1st of Jaly, 1868, of $5,829,044 21. Of the receipts, there were received from customs $69,050,642 40; from internal revenue, $37,649,787 50; from direct tax $1,485,103 61; from lands, $167,617 17; from miscellaneous sources, $3,046,615 35, and from loans, $77,0,082,361,57, making the ag-gregate $901,125,674 86 Of the disbursements, there were for the civil service, $23,253,922 08; for pensitors, and Indians, $4,216,526 59; for interest on public debt, $24,729,840 51; for the War Depart-ment, $599,295,000 85; for the Navy Department, $599,295,090 85; for the Navy Department, $63,211,105 27; for payment of funded and tem-porary debt, $151,056,035 07, making the aggregate $805,796,630 05, and teaving the balance of $6,829,-

The obvious design of this proclamation is to present a sort of invitation to the disloyal States to retorn to their alligiance, and at the same time to suggest a mode by which they may with safety accept.

All the States restored under the Proclamation will have a republican form of Government, and the full protection of the national power,

We regret that the press of matter on hand will not allow us to give more copious extracts from this most important state paper. This message of Presi dent Lincoln will be read with profound interest by all the Courts of Europe. There is no flourish o trumpets, no verbosity, no ambiguity : but all is a lucid as the light of day. Honesty of purpose i prominent in every paragraph, and sterling commosense imbues the whole. The reconstructive pla suggested will tell with amazing power. The Ameri can press speaks of it from opposing stand-points some lauding it to the skies, and others condemnin our relations with Japan have been brought into it to the lowest regions; but, if we mistake not, i will stand the test of the severest criticism, and will accomplish thoroughly its mission.
