

COPPER DISCOVERIES.—Copper in great quantities has been discovered near Sherbrook, in the Eastern Townships of Canada East. One party, who is fortunate enough to own a few acres in which valuable amounts of copper are to be found, has been engaged in a serious contest with a powerful enemy, who has refused to sell the land for less than $100,000.

A single meal at one of the Richmond restaurants—a beef steak, one dozen oysters, and coffee, costs $5. A partridge, $1.25. The hotels charge from $5 to $7 per day. Apples 25 cents each. On the 25th ult., fish sold for a dollar a pound in Chattanooga. A pair of boots at Tulahoma brought $75.

The correspondent of the Times, who accompanied Stoneman's expedition, says—"The negroes joined the column in hordes, and begged to be taken away. Some of these poor people were so overjoyed that they went into hysterics; others knelt in the street and prayed, thanking Jesus for sending the Yankees. These people all tell the same story. Their masters had told them that if the Yankees came there, they would be sent to Cuba, branded, and many of them would be murdered in cold blood. They did not believe it, however. The negroes everywhere gave us valuable information, and acted as guides. Hearing of our approach at several points, they set up all night and baked batches of bread, which they passed out to the soldiers, with water, and whatever else they had, with unstinted hand."

AN AMERICAN SUBSTITUTE FOR TEA.—An excellent substitute for tea grows in large quantities in Tioga county, Penn. It is said to resemble Chinese tea so much that merchants buy it to mix with the genuine. In Clinton county, Penn., the genuine article is claimed to grow in abundance, and the citizens there are jubilant at the prospect of becoming independent of the "pigtail."

A poor boy, died on the 22d ult., worth $1,350,000. Having consulted with Gov. Buckingham, he had prepared all the preliminaries for making a donation of $50,000 to the Connecticut soldiers, but was too weak to sign the papers. His heirs intend however to allow his wish to be carried out.

Thus far in our army it is stated that forty-four have died of disease to nine of wounds—nearly five to one. The miserable surgeons provided for our soldiers are more fatal than rebel bullets.

The Toledo Blade of Saturday says: "Sixty tons of catfish were taken from the lines in the river near this city yesterday. The catch of Thursday and Friday amounted to over one hundred tons."

Hay brings the enormous price of $440 per ton in Virginia. This was the price fixed for a lot of 73 bales by two appraisers appointed by the rebel government, and the fact is certified by a letter from the government agent, published in the Richmond papers.

THE SEAT OF WAR.

We have no startling intelligence to report this week from the bread fields of gory strife. The Northern press acknowledges no defeat at Fredericksburg, but simply a retreat. Some of the papers put the loss sustained by the Federals as high as 17,000 and by the Confederates 25,000. The probability is that at least 40,000 brave men fell in that terrible conflict to rise not until the heavens shall be no more. But this fearful slaughter only serves to berate the combatants with redoubled energy to prosecute the war upon a scale of enlarged magnitude.

The death of Stonewall Jackson has occasioned bitter lamentation throughout the South. All the Northern papers speak of the departed hero in terms of profound respect.

General Banks is pushing on his victories in the State of Louisiana. Report says, he has issued very stringent orders and is making preparations for a drive in the State under the Conscription Act. One of his decrees requires that all registered enemies of the Government leave the department by the 15th of May;—another declares death as the penalty of furnishing supplies to the enemy;—another fines W. G. Betherlin fifteen thousand dollars for the benefit of the city of New Orleans and one year's hard labour in Fort Pickens for the benefit of the United States, for concealing contraband articles with intention of sending them to the rebels;—and another forbids sheriffs executing an enrollment of the negroes ordered by the rebel government, and calls upon all negroes, bond or free, who desire to escape rebel conscription, to follow the flag of the Government now and forever.

Extensive and destructive raids are reported on the part of Federal officers in Virginia, Mississippi and Arkansas, passing over vast regions of country and destroying immense stores of property.

From the Church Witness of Wednesday.

A very great feeling of dissatisfaction is exhibited all through the Northern States at the arrest of Mr. C. L. Vallandigham, a distinguished politician and democrat in the State of Ohio, for simply expressing, in a public speech to the citizens of his native place, his views on the present situation of affairs.

The Governor of New York has published a letter characterizing the arrest as an act which has brought dishonor upon the country, which is full of danger to our persons and our houses, and which bears upon its front conscious violation of law and justice."

The New York Times says:—"The return of the two years' and nine months men during the next few weeks will reduce our army of the Potomac by a good many thousands; battles, marches and disease will reduce it by a good many more. And yet not a single man has been raised by the Government to fill up the vacancies that it is not impossible that we shall find ourselves this Summer with the army in the condition of a skeleton."

A Charleston correspondent of the Columbus (Ga.) Times says that "an inspection of Fort Sumter shows that while one ball went through the embrasures and struck the opposite side of the fort, that the shot only penetrated one or two feet, and that no injury is done. Gen. G. W. Smith expressed the opinion to-day, after a thorough examination of the walls, that the iron-clad navy could not reduce the fort. His opinion is now known."

to have occurred. It was bad enough to have entered upon war on a gigantic scale, without a single brigade of reserve—a spectacle which has, we believe, never been witnessed within this century in any country engaged in a serious contest with a powerful enemy. But it is still worse to find ourselves persisting in the same error after two years of frequently disastrous war."

The loss of the Federal army in the recent campaign on the Rappahannock has been greatly understated. It was first set down at ten thousand, but it was most likely twice that number at least. A correspondent of the New York Times, writing from the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac on the 8th inst., says:—"The total loss of our army in the series of engagements which it has encountered during the last ten days is estimated by competent judges at about 17,000. Dr. Letterman, Medical Director of the Army, estimates the total number of wounded at 10,000. Add to this prisoners and wounded in rebel hands, some 7,000 more."

The loss of the Confederate army is not yet known with any certainty. A Federal authority states it to have been 25,000, which is no doubt a gross exaggeration. The severest loss it has sustained, is the loss of General Stonewall Jackson. We were in hopes that this report was untrue, but unhappily it is confirmed by the following order of Gen. Lee:—"Headquarters, Northern Virginia, May 11, 1863."

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 61.—With deep grief the Commanding General announces to the army the death of Lieut. Gen. T. J. Jackson, who expired on the 10th inst., at 8.15 P. M. The daring skill and energy of this great and good soldier, by the decree of an all-wise Providence, are now lost to us; but while we mourn his death, we feel that his spirit still lives, and will inspire the whole army with his indomitable courage and unshaken confidence in God as our hope and strength. Let his name be a watchword for his corps, who have followed him to victory on so many fields. Let the officers and soldiers imitate his invincible determination to do everything in defence of our beloved country.

(Signed) R. E. LEE, General.

He has fallen in a noble cause, and his name will be for ever embalmed in the memory of his sorrowing countrymen.

General Lee has also issued the following general order respecting the recent engagements:—"Headquarters Army Northern Virginia, May 7, 1863."

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 59.—With heartfelt gratification the General commends to the army his sense of the heroic conduct displayed by the officers and men, during the arduous operations in which they have just been engaged.

Under trying vicissitudes of heat and storm, you attacked the enemy, strongly entrenched in the depths of a tangled wilderness, and again on the hills of Fredericksburg, fifteen miles distant, and by the valor that has triumphed on so many fields, forced him once more to seek safety beyond the Rappahannock. While this glorious victory entitles you to the praise and gratitude of the nation, we are especially called upon to return our grateful thanks to the only Giver of victory, for the signal deliverance which He has wrought.

It is, therefore, earnestly recommended that the troops unite on Sunday next in ascribing to the Lord of Hosts the glory due His name.

Let us not forget in our rejoicing the brave soldiers who have fallen in defence of their country; and while we mourn their loss, let us resolve to emulate their noble example.

The army and the country alike lament the absence for a time of one to whose bravery, energy and skill they are so much indebted for success.

The following letter from the President of the Confederate States is communicated to the army as an expression of his appreciation of its success:—"I have received your despatch, and reverently unite with you in giving praise to God for the success with which he has crowned our arms."

"In the name of the people I offer my cordial thanks to yourself and the troops under your command for this addition to the unprecedented series of great victories which your army has achieved."

"The universal rejoicing produced by this happy result will be mingled with a general regret for the good and the brave who are numbered among the killed and wounded."

R. E. LEE, General.

The Richmond Whig of the 12th, in referring to Jackson's death, says:—"Since the death of Washington, no similar event has so profoundly and sorrowfully impressed the people of Virginia as the death of Jackson. For all this love of him living, and all this grief for his death, there was reason enough. For in the great struggle which now engages all hearts and hands, he was himself a power equal to many regiments of armed men. He had thrown into it the energies of a mighty spirit, the resources of a great intellect. What others did or attempted from impulses of ambition, patriotism or sense of duty, he did from compulsion of conscience, and a reverential conviction of obligation to his Maker. He did it with all the strength of mind, soul, and body. So actuated, he thought not of consequences to himself, of danger to be encountered or glory to be won; and so acting, he left nothing undone that was possible of accomplishment."

The Richmond Enquirer of the 13th instant, publishes the following account of the circumstances under which Stonewall Jackson was wounded:—"General Jackson having gone some distance in front of the line of skirmishers on Saturday evening, was returning about 8 o'clock, attended by his staff and part of his couriers. The cavalcade was in the darkness of the night mistaken for a body of the enemy's cavalry, and fired upon by a regiment of his own corps. He was struck by three balls, one through the left arm, two inches below the shoulder joint, shattering the bone and severing the chief artery; another ball passed through the same arm between the elbow and wrist, making its exit through the palm of the hand; a third ball entered the palm of the right hand about its middle, passing through and broke two bones. He was wounded on the plank road, about fifty yards in advance of the enemy. He fell from his horse, and was caught by Captain Wormley, to whom he remarked, 'All my wounds are by my own men.' He had given orders to fire at anything coming up the road, before he left the line. The enemy's skirmishes appeared ahead of him, and he turned to ride back. Just then someone cried out, 'cavalry charge!' and immediately the regiment fired."

An Act has passed the Confederate Congress, establishing that the flag of the Confederate States shall be as follows: The field to be white; the length double the width, with the Union (now used as the battle flag) to be a square, of two-thirds the width of the flag, leaving the ground (red) thereon, a broad rattle of blue bordered white, and emblazoned with mullets or five pointed stars, corresponding to the number of Confederate States. Approved May 1, 1863.

A Charleston correspondent of the Columbus (Ga.) Times says that "an inspection of Fort Sumter shows that while one ball went through the embrasures and struck the opposite side of the fort, that the shot only penetrated one or two feet, and that no injury is done. Gen. G. W. Smith expressed the opinion to-day, after a thorough examination of the walls, that the iron-clad navy could not reduce the fort. His opinion is now known."

(Wednesday's Despatch.)

BANGOR, MAY 20. Grant telegraphs from Raymond, 14th, that MePherson took this place on the 13th, after two hours fight. Federal loss 51 killed, and 180 wounded. Confederate loss much larger.

Gen. Hulbert telegraphs the capture of Jackson. Says from five to ten thousand mounted men are concentrated near Oklahoma, ready to advance in direction of Memphis railroad.

A citizen reports that the Confederates abandoned Vicksburg on Sunday, marching on Ridge Northeast to Lexington, twenty miles Northwest of Jackson. Situation of matters at Murfreesboro unchanged.

Extension of Confederate rail to Williamsport not weakened by heavy infantry force in front of Louisville. Despatch says, with exception of eleven small regiments, Morgan is on South side Cumberland river. Union men think contrary. Despatch's design is to prevent Federal reinforcing Rosecrans.

DR. A. B. SPINNEY, ELECTROPATHIC PHYSICIAN, WOULD most respectfully announce to his patrons, that he has removed to his new and commodious premises, and the earliest solicitation of friends and patrons have induced him to remain in town another year, during which time he will be pleased to wait upon all who may desire his services. In family and domestic cases, his past experience gives him confidence to say that he believes his method of treatment far superior to any other for old Chronic Diseases. Dr. S. would therefore invite all who are suffering with any of the above named ailments, to give him a trial. He has devoted a large share of his time to the study and treatment of Female Complaints, and now feels competent to treat them in their most malignant form. For irregularities, occasioned by cold or other causes, there is no agent so efficient in curing as Electricity; he will therefore guarantee a perfect cure in every case. Dr. S. writes all who may be suffering from Stranguria in all its various forms, Gleet, Gonorrhoea, White Stranguria, &c. Also, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Tetter Rash, and every humor, of whatever kind or character. Likewise, Spinal Disease, Rheumatism, Contractions of the Neck, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, General Debility, Habitual Constipation, &c. &c. to give him a call. Office, opposite Town Clock, Germain Street. Office hours from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock, on consultation free. N. B.—We have room and for one Testimonial, which will be changed for others from time to time. Others can be seen by calling at the Doctor's office.

DR. A. B. SPINNEY, would express my gratitude to you for the wonderful cure you have made. My feet and leg, which had lost a large share of the flesh, from the effects of Erysipelas, properly treated at first by your medicine, is now quite well, and the bones and muscles, one plan to be seen, are now covered over nicely with flesh, in a healthy condition. Though for a long time I lay helpless, and unable to give you any return, but by the use of your medicine, I have, by your kind attention for two weeks, been saved, and I feel that you have been an instrumental agent in my recovery. With feelings of the deepest gratitude, I remain your humble servant, MRS. C. HAWKINS, St. John, May 4th, 1863. Princess-street.
