UNITED STATES. A battle was expected on Sunday or Monday near Williamsport, between the forces of General Meade and General Lee, but we have received no account of it here yet. Lee is said to have 50,000 men and 250 pieces of artillery; it is also reported that General Beauregard, with 40,000 fresh troops, is has tening to his assistance by forced marches; it is therefore evient that the decisive battle of the war is yet to be

The Confederates have suffered a most serious reverse in the West by the surrender of Vicksburg. Want of food and ammunition was the cause of this disaster. The following despatch, dated Vicksburg, July 5th, to the War Department at Washington, gives the details of the surrender :--

The surrender was quitely consummated yesterday forenoon, at the appointed hour of 10 o'clock. The rebel troops marched out and stacked arms in front of their works, while Gen. Pemberton appeared for a moment with his staff upon the parapet of the central fort. The occupation of the place by our forces was directed by Gen. McPherson, who had been appointed to the command here, Gen. Logan being assigned to the command of the post under him. The divisions of Gens. Logan, J. E. Smith and Heron now garrison the line of fortifications, and furnish the guards for the interior of the city. No troops remain outside Everything is quiet here. Gen. Grant entered the city at one o'clock, and was received by Gen. Pemberton with more marked impatience than at their former interview. He bore it like a philosopher, and in ton with more marked impatience than at their former interview. He bore it like a philosopher, and in reply treated Gen. Pemberton with even greater courtesy and dignity than before. Of the number of prisoners we have as yet no precise information. Major Luckett, of Pemberton's staff, reported the number unofficially at 27,000. When the rebel Brigadier brought in his requisitions for eight days' rations for each man he drew over 30,000. Gen. McPherson issued to them five rations per man—all they are to have. The paroling is being pushed with rapidity and will probably be finished day after tomorrow. Already paroled are 10 Generals with their staffs, including one Lieutenant and four Major Generals. Large numbers of the men express a warm desire to take the oath of allegiance, and it is Generals. Large numbers of the men express a warm desire to take the oath of allegiance, and it is certain their officers will find it difficult to march them to their camps. There are 5400 on the sick list, of these 2500 must be left behind. Their losses during the siege are estimated at 6000. Gen. Pemberton having compleined that thirty wagons were not enough, Gen. Grant told him to take fifty. The universal testimony of the rebel officers is that the conscripts have been worthless to them. The official return of the field artillery makes it one hundred pieces, including French, Spanish and Austrian guns. No report of cost or siege guns is made. They number from thirty to fifty. Neither do we know what quantity of ammunition the rebels left. Gen. Grant's chief engineer to-day visited the fortifications. He reports them as simple field works, but of considerable strength. With one single exception, the forts are all open at the gorge. The buildings of the towns are not so much damaged as expected. There are two locomotives and some railroad carriages here. are two locomotives and some railroad carriages here. Orders have been given to put the railroad in repair immediately, as far as the Big Black, and it will be ready for use to-morrow night.

One effect of the fall of Vicksburg will be the reinforcement of General Banks at Port Hudson. It can bardly be expected that the small garrison there can hold out much longer, and we may therefore fate as Vicksburg.

The New York Times, in speaking of the prospect

The New York Times, in speaking of the prospect of affairs, says:—

Granting that we utterly disable Gen. Lee, and that we drive the rebel arms from the Mississippi River, we must still have the work of invasion and conquest to prosecute. And this is harder than the work of expelling from our soil an invader, or capturing a stronghold to which we advance with such a line of communication as the Mississippi River opens to our army. How much harder it is to invade snecessfully than to beat back an invader, let two years' history in Virginia tell,—let us recall events from Bull Run to Chancelloraville. We have an instructive lesson, also, in the State of Tennessee. With a railroad and river behird it, our army has, for a half year, been held fast bound in sight of the hills and steeples of the City of Nashville. Gen. Rosecrans lay half year at Murfreesboro, after a great victory over the enemy. He durst not pursue; because every mile of advance, penetrating inland into the enemy's country, weakened his army, exposed him to annoyances and attacks on flank and rear, and endangered his communications with his depots of supplies at Nashville and Murfreesboro. Such dangers will always beset an invading army.

We have captured many points around the edges of the Confederacy—Norfolk, Suffolk, Roanoke Island, Newbern, (N. C.,) Port Royal, (S. C.,) San Augustine and Pensacola, Fla., Ship Island, New bern, in the State of Tennessee. Every attempt to penetrate inland from them has been have done nothing but hold those places. Every attempt to penetrate inland from them has been and stageled to the late hins, the Rev. H. Vaughan, Mr. Edward Wilson, to Miss Elevant Gon the St. John.

Augustine and Pensacola, Fla., Ship Island, New Orleans, and at one time, Galveston, Texas. But we have done nothing but hold those places. Every attempt to penetrate inland from them has been baffied. It is only when we have controlled deep navigable waters that our armies have been able to invade and hold their own in the rebel States. Armies as large as those that have hitherto made the attempt to penetrate Virginia must renew that attempt to penetrate Virginia must renew th ments, may not be able to protect the Mississippi River from the depredations of Price on the West, hold Vicksburgh and Jackson, and pursue Gen. Joe Johnston's new army to the interior of Alabama, with the hope of getting a safe fight out of him.

The following appears in the New York Herald of Saturday last, from its correspondent at Washington:

I am enabled positively to announce that the question of peace has already been considered in Cabinet circles. More than that, we are actually in the midst of a Cabinet crisis, growing out of a proposition made by Mr. Seward for the issuance of a Presidential proclamation offering an amnesty to the people of the South, withdrawing the emancipation proclamation, suspending the liabilities of the confiscation act, and offering, in short, full and free pardon and protection in their personal and property rights to the people of the South, only excepting the military and civil leaders in this great rebellion. Even these Mr. Seward suggests should be allowed their property, but not eligible to hold office under the government. This proposition has been considered in Cabinet council so far informal; but it has developed two parties.

Mr. Bates and Montgomery Blair favor it with certain modifications, while Messrs. Stanton and Chase violently oppose it. Mr. Welles is supposed also to be opposed to it. Mr. Usher, who always votes with the President, will decide whichever way that functionary does. The President has as yet expressed no opinion on this subject; but his speech at the serenade would seem to indicate that he is in favor of trying to make good his promise to free the slaves before consenting to a peace in the present emergency.

There are a number of leading republicans now in The following appears in the New York Herald of ing to make good his promise to free the slaves before consenting to a peace in the present emergency.

There are a number of leading republicans now in this city, and the matter has been brought to their notice. They have arranged a programme, which will be submitted to the President to-day or to-morrow, under which they are willing that peace should be declared and the Union restored. It embraces the following points, which it is stated, were suggested by Mr. Change in the property of th

by My Chase:—

First—Slavery shall cease in the whole United States after the year 1876, the minors at that time to remain slaves until twenty-one years of age, and slaves over forty years old to have the option of their frection or to remain with their masters. Provision is made for the loyal slave States againing compensation for their manumitted negroes, to the rebel mpensation will be allowed to the rebel

Second—A convention shall be called to revise the constitution of the United States, with a view to striking out the three-fifths provision recognising slavery as a basis of representative population, and providing for the emancipation of the slaves in accordance with the above programme.

SHELDON & CO., No. 335, Broadway, New York, HAVE JUST PUBLISHED

1. SPURGEON'S SERMONS, SEVENTH SERIES]. SERMONS BY REV. C. H. SPURGEON. Carefuliy Revised, 1 vol. 12mo. Price $1.

From the Hartford Courant: The day for sneering at Spurgeon has gone by. He has undeniable power: his imagination is most tervid, and his faculty of presenting the scenes he imagines is not supassed by Whitfield or by Elder Knapp in his best days. The searching doctrines and the unflinching application of Spurgeon have done more real good to his hearers in one hour than centuries of attendance upon the Rev. Cream Cheese or the Rev. Milkywater would be likely to do. We commend these new sermons to all who like to see the most pungent and humbling doctrines of the gospel with remorseless energy. The printed sermons of Whitfield are tame and powerless by the side of Spurgeon.

"Her first book, 'Alone,' met with a very extensive sale, passing through edition after edition, and being successfully ranslated into the French and German languages. She belongs to the new school of novelists—taking her characters from common life, from among the workers of the world, and carrying them through trials no more unheard of than those that occur in hundreds of lives every day."-
