that it would be an unconstitutional interference with the principle of property representation, and give un-fair advantage to electors living in Counties con-tiguous to each other.

guous to each other. A bill to amend cap. 53 revised statues, agreed to. In reply to a question by Vail, Watters said he believed the report of the proceedings of the Emigra-tion Agent, Hon. James Brown, would be laid before the House.

Smith took advantage of a lull in the business, to state his reasons for leaving the Government. Read his former printed memorandum, and repelled the charge of inconsistancy, as his delegation to England was for an entirely different scheme, the provisions of which he would still be disposed to favour.

The lumber committee reported the lumber facility bill back to the House.

February 21. Meehan presented a petition against the division of the Parish of Shippegan. Munro gave notice of motion requesting Postmaster

General to order a postage on all newspapers posted in or passing through the Province. Williston introduced a bill to amend title 20 revised statues, cap. 118. Stevens' bill to amend the Act relating to Parish schools, was under discussion, and progress reported, pending the report of the Chief Superintendent of schools. The object of the bill is to give additional powers to the Board of Education in the control over listrict schools.

Tilley brought down message comprising various Steadman introduced a bill to amend the law relating to dower.

lating to dower. Hatheway brought down his report as Chief Com-missioner of the Board of Works, and thereupon a discussion arose, which occupied the remainder of the afternoon, relating to expenditures made and proposed on various lines of roads and bridges in diferent sections of the Province.

Ryan gave notice of motion to go into consideration of papers relating to the claim of Foshay on Hamp-

Lindsay introduced a bill requiring constables, &c., to give security before entering upon duties of office. Adjourned at 4.15.

February 23.

Tilley laid before the House reports of the Auditor General, Railway Commissioners, and Correspondence on the Intercolonial Railway.

Tilley submitted financial statements, &c. Last year a loan and an imposition of additional duties had to be asked to make good deficiency of '61 and anticipated deficiency of '62. This year he asked no loan, nor did he propose any additional duties-any change in the revenue bill would be in lessening duties in some cases. The revenue of the year would be ample to meet the expenditures. A reduction in ex-penditures of various departments of $38,000 is proposed, viz > Expenses of the Legislature $10,000; Post Office Department $1,500; Public Works $5,500; Education $1,500; Penitentiary $1,000; appropriations from General Revenue $16,000; Interest on Railway and other debts and incidents $3000.

is $638,600; Next Revenue anticipates an increase in Imports and Exports of $100,000, of which $35,000 has been received during the first quarter. Estimated Expenditure is $638,895. Bank Credit and Savings Bank Debentures untouched.

In reply to a question, Tilley said it was the in-cotton at five pence per lb., the holder having the option after a certain period of exchanging his cotton for Confederate bonds at seventy, being eight per cent. interest, has been partially accepted.

At the opening of business in the House of Lords, the Prince of Wales took his seat for the first time. with formalities as usual on such occasions. Earl Dudley moved and Earl Granard seconded the addres in response to the speech from the throne. Earl Derby gave a critical speech at length, and spoke in congratulatory terms on the Prince of Wales' marriage, and said he had no objection to raise against the course the Government had adopted in regard to the American war, but he regretted the Government had not felt themselves justified in joining the attempt, however hopeless, in which they were invited by France, not to intervene for the purpese of putting an end to the war, but to obtain by their good offices if possible, such armistice cessation of hostilities as would lead the parties themselves to reflect on the miseries and hopelessness of the war in which they were engaged, before he censured the course taken by the Government. It was but fair that he should say they were in possession of much better information than he was, as to whether interference on their part would have been judicious. He differed from the opinion expressed by many of his political friends that the time had arrived for recognizing the Southern States. There were only two cases on which recognition on the part of a neutral power could be author, printer, publisher, stationer, artist, wood justified, namely, when there was no further struggle going on, or where it was desirable in the interests of Elihu Burritt, the "learned blacksmith" is now in humanity that the great Powers should interfere in order to prevent a continuance of desolating warfare, but in that case recognition was always followed by something further-it meant support by force of arms of the claims of the country whose right was recognized, such as was the case on the separation of Belgium from Holland, and of Greece from Turkey. His conviction was, that come what may, the recon struction of the States as they formerly stood was absolutely impossible, and on the whole he approved of the course which the Government had taken. He then deplored the distress which the war had brought on the Lancashire operatives, and reviewed foreign policy of Government in regard to Italy, Greece, &c., and deprecated the idea of ceding Ionian Islands to

Earl Russell in reply justified the policy of non-in-opinion that it would be impossible for the Union of Northern and Southern States to be again established.

parated from Holland and Greece from Turkey, and taking all matters into consideration he thought Government had taken the wisest course in their power to pursure. At the same time he expressed strong Gillmor presented a petition from the inhabitants of upper St. George in favor of the establishment of public Wells there. Bill to set apart new Parish in Victoria, agreed to.

Earl Malmesbury expressed regret that England had not joined France in proposed mediation. Earl Grey took a contrary view, and after a few more speeches, the address was agreed to. In the House of Commons, Mr. Calthorpe moved and Bagley seconded the address. D'Israeli reviewed the Ministerial programme in detail and took some exceptions to it. Alluding to distress in cotton districts he said that the House might on such occasions expect to learn how long this state of thing was likely to last, but for his own part he could not but regard what was passing in America as a revolution. He briefly sketched the rise of the Union, and expressed the opinion that the ultimate results of the war would be an America very different to that known to our fathers, and even this generation. There would be an America of armies, The estimated Revenue, exclusive of drawbacks, an America of diplomacy, and an America of turbu lency and wars. He believed the course originally marked out by Government was one honorable to the country and beneficial to all its interests. He was greatly surprised in the autumn when an important member of the Government, apparently with the tention of the Government to bring the subject of sanction of his colleagues, made a declaration which the Intercolonial Railway under the consideration of could only be regarded as an intention to recognize the Confederate Republic. He felt there was a great

----THE SEAT OF WAR.

It was expected when our last issue went to press that Charleston, Savannah, Vicksburg, Fort Hudson, and other important strong-holds would be assailed by the Federals before this, if not captured. But we have no report to the time we write indicative that the destruction or capture of these places has really commenced, except so far as the bombardment of Vickburg is concerned. Probably very little real progress has been made by either party for the last few days. The following, extracted from the Church Witness of yesterday, contains the substance of pro ceedings :-But we have no report to the time we write indicative ceedings :---

The attack upon Vicksburg commenced on the 18th inst. We are told that " the mortar boats were too much exposed, and changed their position, when the bombardment was renewed." We presume that they were driven back. Nothing further is yet known. The Federals have met with a repulse at Port Hudson, but the particulars are not allowed to transpire. We only know at present that an expedition which was about to leave New Orleans to attack Bayou e was suddenly stopped, and a large portion

FREDERICTON, Feb. 24, 1863.

FREDERICTON, Feb. 24, 1863. DEAR VISITOR—I hope my omitting to send you an account of the first week's sayings and doings of our Legislators, with the striking events incident to the opening of a Provincial Parliament, will not be com-plained of by your numerous readers in as much as you have gathered from other sources, everything of interest. The Speaker elect appears to bear his honours well, and evidently has the confidence of the House—though not so ready and decided in the perfor-mance of the duties of the chair as his predecessor—he is dignified, and impartial, and with longer service, may be very efficient in every way. It is supposed that the defeat of Hon. Mr. Fisher may have the effect of uniting him more closely with the Govern-ment side, and so far as the position of parties is con-verned this may offset the resignation of Mr. Smith. Several members of the Legislative Council are yet absent. Mr. Robertson is absent in England, Mr. Odell is residing in Halifax, and the President is not expected to be able to occupy hts seat again, on ac-count of his age and infirmities—the latter gentle-uman, however, continues to receive the salary ; the man, however, continues to receive the salary ; the acting President, Mr. Saunders, consenting to this arrangement. The Prerogative of appointing a President of Coun-cil, after first vacancy has been held by the Executive; but the Government probably fearing some embar-rassment in the matter, and after a correspondence with the imperial authorities, yielded to that branch the right to elect their own President, who may re-main in office during four years, or till the assembling of a new Parliament, after the termination of four

The appointment of Librarian, vacant by death of Mr. Needhani, is not yet made, the committee are probably waiting the arrival of Mr. Hazen the only member now absent. The salary of this official is $400.

The shadows of coming events are yet but dimly seen; but the unusual cordiality amongst the mem-bers, augurs well for the usefulness of this Session. There is evidently a fair prospect of a Session which will be remarkable for harmony, and the absence of personal discord

Education has cost less than was anticipated, with Education has cost less than was anticipated, with an addition of 800 scholars receiving instruction. The order limiting the minimum number of scholars in Parish Schools, has probably led to this result. The public are already informed of the deeply lamented death of John Simpsone Esq., Queen's Printer. He had been suffering for some weeks, but the news of his decease came unexpected. The say-ing "every wan has his enemies" is scarcely appli-cable to Mr. Simpson ; he was universally respected and esteemed, and as a man of correct morals, courte-ous, friendly, and of great liberality and benevolence, his loss will be a public one. Death has also removed from the Legislature, one of the oldest men, and a gentleman for whom a high respect was entertained. Mr. Jordan after having served during many years, as a representative for the County of St. John, died this morning from a disease with which he has been occasionally afflicted for some time. His sons and norming from a disease with which he has been ionally afflicted for some time. His sons and ew were present at his death. From the respect towards this Hon. Member of the Assembly, a on made by Mr. Cudlip and seconded by Mr. ner, to adjourn to 2 o'clock to-morrow, passed

Mr. Gilmor whose coming was delayed by indispo-tion, has been in his seat several days. His health quite restored.

cillation and inconsistency on the part of The Foreign Secretary said that the North was fighting for empire, and the South for independence. The President of the Board of Trade alleged that the curse of slavery was at the bottom of the war. The Chancellor of the Exchequer was warmly in favour of the South, but he was followed by the Secretary 'of War, who avowed an opinion diametrically opposed, and lastly Chief Secretary of Ireland declared that it was his conviction that the Lord of Hosts was fight-ing for the Confederates; he found fault with sundry Government proceedings in their Foreign policy, and opposed cession of Ionian Islands. Palmerston re-plied, but said nothing of moment in regard to Ametica. Address agreed to. In the House of Commons, 6th inst., Layard in response to enquiries gave some explanations of Brazilian difficulty, and believed friendly relations of Bra-zilian difficulty, and believed friendly relations would soon be restored. Mr. G. Bentick made some reinarks on American War, and said he believed if proposal to recognize South was brought forward it would be supported by Parliament. The Times, adverting to American question in Par-liament, points out that the views of the Opposition are the same as those of the Government. After re-cess of six eventful months there is not a single Statesman on either side who believes that the restoration of the Union on terms of original construction is possible; not one who believes that forcible subjugation of the South is possible alternative, al-though there is one who declares his opinion that such conquest, if practicable, would only prove the political ruin of all America. We arrive then at the political ruin of all America. We arrive then at the one conclusion that separation on peaceable terms and at earliest moment is the result which friends of America ought to desire. The Times has another disparaging article on Emancipation meetings, and those who take part in them. It says that it will maintain its solemn protest against domestic massacres in the garb of emancipation. British Menof-War in commission have been reduced by ninety vessels and nearly thirteen thousand. (13.000) men since America.

(18,000) men since August.

An important trial against the Admiralty, in which Mr. Clare sought to recover half a million sterling for infringement of his patents in iron ship-building, resulted in verdict for the Crown, Marriage contract of the Prince of Wales has been ablished. Princess is secured ten thousand sterling a year.

Professor Hughes had been exhibiting, with great success, the working of his telegraph instrument before the leading men of Liverpool and Manchester, over the wires of the United Kingdom Telegraph Company. Great satisfaction was given, and the in-struments were being brought practically into play on the wires of the above Company, who had secured exclusive right to their use in England. Newspapers were eulogistic of instruments, which as yet are novelties in England.

velties in England. Merchants in Liverpool in Brazil trade held a meet-ing and adopted resolution deprecating the summary and extreme measures taken against Brazil, and call-ing on their members of Parliament to ask the Government for information on the subject. the troops sent to reinforce those at Port Hudson.

Several ships of war were sent to recapture Galveston. The fleet entered the bay, but found it so strongly fortified that it was deemed best to withdraw for the present.

There is a report that the Federal army in Tennessee was about to advance and attack General Bragg. The attack upon Charleston has not yet commenced. The expedition against it was stopped by a difference of opinion between Generals Foster and Hunter as to who commanded it. It is not stated how the knotty question was settled.

The question of peace is becoming a prominent one in the North. The New York Journal of Commerce says, "a glance around the political horizon reveals most remarkable state of the public mind. Whereas year ago, there was but one voice from the entire id audible above the roar of cannon, and that a voice for war, there is now but one voice and that a voic for war, there is now but one voice and that a voic for peace. Every newspaper which comes to our hands, whatever its political character, is discussing the questions how to make peace when we can expect peace, what are the requirements of peace and kin-dred topics." We rejoice to hear this news. It is the most hopeful sign of returning reason in the North that we have yet seen. It is right to state however, that the Kentucky Legislature has rescinded its reso-lution inviting commissioners from other State Legis-latures to meet at Louisville, to consult about the terms of neace and that the Illinois Legislature has terms of peace, and that the Illinois Legislature has adjourned without taking any action in the direction of peace.

A new conscription law bas been enacted by Congress.
