(From the American "Agriculturist.") WORK IN THE KITCHEN GARDEN.

As we write by the open window the air feels spring-like, and everything betokens an early season. When the ground can be worked, the is better than a spade for preparing soil. This preparatory operation of clearing up, plowing, and and a bayonet-hoe are indispensable. If the garspading may be pushed. A good gardener, den is of considerable extent it will pay to get a whether he works on the large or small scale, has his plans all laid beforehand, and has made up his mind what to plant and where to put it. faction. Asparagus.-Remove the coarser portion of the manure, and fork in the rest.

longer any danger of frost, the early sorts may flavor, and is prized by Germans. It is excellent be planted. Start Limas on pieces of sods in hot to put into soups. beds. Secure a stock of poles for running kinds.

BEETS .- Sow Early Turnip or Bassano, in drills, 12 or 15 inches apart. Soak the seed in warm water for 24 hours, pour off the water, and keep covered in a warm place until the sprouts just show themselves; roll the seed in plaster and sow.

BROCOLI.—This is grown by those who think they cannot raise canliflower. Treat like cabbage. BRUSSELS SPROUTS .- A variety of the cabbage with small heads on the stalks, and grown like CABBAGES.—The plants started in hot-beds will need an occasional sifting of ashes to keep off insects. Thin them, and set the surplus plants in a cold frame. Plant out where the season will admit. Sow seed in open ground. If we could have but one cabbage, for early and late, it would be Winingstadt.

CARROT.—Early Horn is the best early. Soak the seeds as directed for beets, and sow in 15 inch drills, in a mellow, deep, well-worked soil.

CAULIFLOWER.—Attend to plants in hot-bed as directed for cabbage. Sow Early Paris in open ground. Early Erfurt is said to be very early. CELERY .- Plants in the hot bed are often injured by the sun. Shade the glass during the heat of the day, and air. It may still be sown in a mild hot-bed or cold frame. Do not sow in open ground until it is well warmed. Early White Solid is best. Celeriac, or Turnip-rooted Celery, is sown in the same way. COLD FRAMES.—In many places at the North these will still be found useful. They are very convenient as places in which to set plants from the hot-beds to gradually harden them off. Most plants are benefitted by this second transplanting. A frame which can be covered with boards at night is better than nothing. Give the plants free air during the day whenever the weather will allow.

Cress or Peppergrass. Sow early and cover

Cucumbers.—Start seeds on pieces of sods, or in small pots. Early Russian is earliest; White Spined, largest and best.

Egg Plants.—These are provokingly slow in their early growth, and need a good deal of eoaxing. When large enough to handle, put them in small pots, or transplant to a gentle hot-bed. Sow seed in hot-bed, if not already done.

GARLIC. -Break up the bulb, and plant the sets six inches apart, in rows a foot apart.

·Hor Beds .- In the colder parts of the country, the present month is quite early enough to start the hot-bed. Those already in operation need care. Air should be admitted during the day, whenever the outside temperature will admit, by opening the sash a few inches, or removing it altogether, according to the activity of the heating and treated afterward precisely like cabbage.

LEEKS.—Sow in light, rich soil, in drills 15

Manure and Compost.—It is presumed that the needs of the garden have been anticipated, and valuable for the garden. Night soil should have was utterly ignorant also of common thingsbeen prepared before. Even now, it will pay to every deposit of fertilizing material should be nsed.

LETTUCE.—Transplant from hot-bed, and sow seed in open ground. MUSTARD.—Sow early for salad or greens.

Melons .- A few for early may be sown on sods, or in pots, as directed for cucumbers.

apart. Onions from seed do not usually do well much south of the latitude of New-York city. Parsley.—The seed is some weeks in germinating. Soaking for 12 hours will help it along. Parsnips.—Sow last year's seed as early as may be, in deep, rich soil.

Peas.—Sow every two weeks for a succession, first soaking the seed in tepid water. Daniel O' Rourke is one of the standard early sorts, and several new ones have appeared this year, with great claims. The Dwarfs are handy. Provide brush in readiness for the tal! growing sorts.

PEPPERS.—Sow in hot bed or cold frame. POTATOES .- The early sorts should be put in the ground as soon as the frost is well out of it. POTTING AND PRICKING OUT.—It is a good practice to transplant tematoes, egg plants, cauli-flowers, etc., from the hot-bed to small pots. These are set in a gentle hot-bed, and when their roots fill the earth, shift them to larger-sized pots, and set in a cold frame. By the time they can be put out with safety, they will be stocky plants, and ready to turn out without disturbing their roots. Similar advantages may be obtained by preparing a cold frame over a rich spot, and setting, or "pricking out" the plants into it, at 4 inches apart. Both these methods give better results than transferring plants directly from the hot-bed to the open ground.

RADISHES .- Sow in any spare places in the hot beds, and in light quick soil in the open ground. A sandy soil, if rich, is best. Sow at intervals of a week or ten days for succession.

Salsify .- Sow in the same manner as parsnips.

SWEET POTATOES .- When small quantities are grown, it will be cheaper to buy the sets of those who raise them for sale. The plants are started this month in hot-beds. Cut the potatoes through lengthwise, and lay them, cut side down, on the BRENTON H. EATON, bed, and cover them with rich soil to the depth of two inches, when the shoots have pushed above this another inches in the shoots have pushed above this another inches.

BRENTON H. EATON,
BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY AT LAW, have the usual treatment of those in hot-beds,

Tomatozs.—Pot or prick out the plants when they have made three rough leaves. Sow seed ander glass, or in pots or boxes in a sunny window in the house. Give the young plants plenty of light and air.

Tools .-- Much of the comfort of working in the garden depends upon good tools. A spading-fork seed-drill of some kind. We have found the Wethersfield seedsower to give complete satis-

TURNIPS .- Sow the Dutch or some early sorts as soon as the frost is out, in foot-drills. The Beans.—In those localities where there is no Teltow is a very small early sort with a high FLOWER GARDEN AND LAWN.

Have the preparatory work done up as soon as possibls. Fork over and manure the borders as soon as the ground will do to work.

Annuals .- Do not sow the seed of tender sorts in the open border until the soil is warm. Start seed in hot-bed, cold frame or green-house. The hardier kinds, such as Gilias, Whitlavic, and the California annuals generally, may be sown

Bulbs.—Uncover those which were protected by manure. Stake the tall-growing Hyacinth and Crown Imperials if needed to prevent falling

CLIMBERS.—A free introduction of these adds much to the beauty of a place, and they can frequently be made useful in shutting out undesira-

EDGINGS .- Old Box edging needs to be taken ap and reset every few years. This will not endure very severe winters, and then grass, Dwarf

Flag, or some other substitute must be used. Frames and Pits.—The plants in these must be gradually prepared for removal to the borders by removing the sashes and giving air every GRAVEL BEDS .- Make new and repair old ones. Coal ashes are excellent upon gravel, that will not pack, and where gravel cannot be had, coal ashes make a good walk by themselves. Lawns.-Root out all large weeds, and give a top dressing of compost, bone dust, or ashes. Trim all the margins along paths or beds neatly. If there are any depressions or unsightly elevations, pare off the turf and fill it in or remove earth, as the case may be, and replace the sod. Sprinkle seed on thin places, and to make smooth work, roll thoroughly. Perennials and Biennials.—Sow seeds in an out of sight bed for a stock for next year. Take up old roots and divide; transplant last year's Roses.—Prune the strong branches of perpetuals to three or four buds. Thin out the weaker branches. Cut old superfluous wood from climb Trees.—Plant deciduous sorts upon the lawn and along the roadside, exercising the same care in setting as is indicated elsewhere for fruit trees.

INTERESTING TO PHYSIOLOGISTS.

In a letter to the London Globe. Dr. Kidd mentions the following instance of the restoration of sight in a young woman born blind. He says:
