use of this common language, our country is bound together by a common sympathy; and by the same means—unity of language—we are allied to the most powerful nations of the earth.

The English language is rapidly spreading into all lands, and will, according to present indications,

soon become the language of commerce in all nations. The English and Americans are in the East Indies, in Australia, at the Cape of Good Hope, or on the Coast of China; in Asia, Africa, Europe and America; on all continents, seas and islands; along all lines of travel, where they find or leave some who speak the language. The English language has a veritable power of expression, such as, perhaps, never stood at the command of any other language of men. Its development and condition, have been the result proportion, the material groundwork; the latter,

the spiritual conceptions. In truth, the English

HUMAN SYSTEM.

THIS is an age of inquiry. People want to know the why and wherefore of all statements submitted to them as facts, and as far as this language, which by no mere accident has produced and upborne the greatest and most predomi-GREAT PROTECTIVE AND INVIGORANT nant poet of modern times, as distinguished from concerned, it is proposed to gratify them.

All the physicians admit that the greatest difficulty they the ancient classical poetry, (I can, of course, encounter in their practice is in conveying to the seat of the disease the medicament that will counteract and neutralize it. Electricity has been tried for this purpose, but it is now generally admitted that the electric fluid is too only mean Shakespeare,) may, with all right, be called a world language, and, like the English people, appears destined hereafter to prevail with subtle an agent to be made the vehicle of medication. It a sway more extensive even than its present, over shocks the nerves, but canuot distribute through the sys tem anything except itself. Medicated electricity is, in short, an exploded humbug. But a liquid stimulant, as everybody knows, can be charged with the essential proall the portions of the globe. For in wealth, good sense, and closeness of structure, no other of the languages at this day spoken deserves to perties of any and every substance in the Materia Medica, and there is to herbial extract which it will not hold in sobe compared with it, not even our German, which lution, with all its preventive and curative virtues unimis torn, even as we are torn, and must first rid it-

Now the pure liquid stimulant of which Hostetter's Bitters are in part composed, is charged with invaluable vegetable remedies; and these, by reason of its powerful diffusive principle, it conveys to every organ and introduces into the circulation. To use a common expression, it goes to the spot, taking with it just what is wanted there. The Essence of Rye would undoubtedly diffuse itself through the organization as swittly if administered pure and simple, as if mixed with the juices of tonic and alterative roots, barks and herbs. But of what use would it be withkill twenty such men as you are, in the most perfect health, to be compelled to breathe and re-breathe that noisome, filthy, gas-laden air that hangs like a pall around the bed of a sick man out their healing, strengthening, life sustaining balm? It would merely excite. It could neither protect nor cure.

And herein lies the essential difference between the effect of the purest stimulant when given alone, and the same stimulant when administered in the medicinal form of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Good monongabela spirit is doubtless the mildest and most innocuous of all the varieties of liquor, but it only becomes a healthful medicine when im regulated with the vegetable elements employed in the preparation of the Bitters.

TO DESPEPTIC SUFFERERS. Under the general head of Dyspepsia may be classed all the varieties of Indigestion. Its symptoms are so various, and differ so much in different individuals, that it is aimost impossible to classify them. In fact, some of them are indescribable. It may be safely asserted, however, that half of the diseases of mankind spring from a disordered state of the stomach; and that the other half, whatever their origin, react upon that sensitive and important organ. Among the ordinary indications of Dyspepsia are flatulence, a bloated and full feeling about the stomach and abdomen immediately after eating, a gnawing sensation, or a sense of hollowness at the pit of the stomach between meals, a dull heavy feeling in the head, feeble or unsteady appetite, dull heavy feeling in the head, feelie or unsteady appetite, occa ional nausca, restlessness during the night, and a weary, unrefreshed feeling on rising in the morning, palpitation of the heart, depression of mind, sometimes amounting to monomania, loss of memory, confusion of thought, sour stomach, with raising of food, and a choking sensation in the throwt, dimness of the eye, pain in the diaphor, gm, feebleess and disinchination for exertion, and sometimes emaciation and a corpse-like pallor. These are a few of the direct signs of Dyspepsia, but as it is generally complicated with specific affections of the bowels, the liver and the nerves, its victims have many additional torments, which are technically attributed to other causes.

The best advice that can be given to any one who has the slightest predisposition to Dyspepsia, is to fortify his orher digestive organs by the daily use of com of a sick person, and especially from sleeping in such a room. I have no doubt many a stient has suffered a lingering sickness, and died for the want of good outside air. And many shildren have perished from being allowed to re-HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

The disease proceeds from a lack of vigor in the stomach, and this vitalizing preparation will tone and renovate that organ. If the gastric apparatus is in good working order, and can perfectly dissolve and thoroughly assimilate the food submitted to its operation, there will be no dyspepsia. If it cannot do this, it requires reinforcement, and the best of all reinforcing agents should be forthwith resorted to. The stomach is the commissary of the system. It supplies the elements of life to the whole body. In it is prepared the material of blood, muscle, bone and fibre, and if it fails to purvey that material in sufficient quantity and of a proper kind, the whole body suffers, and with it the mental faculties. Therefore protect the "Commissary Department." Don't let the enemy obtain possession of it. It is easier to prevent disease from getting into an organ, than to expel it after it becomes a circome facture. Consider the first judication of uneasiness in the stomach as a sign that dyspepsia is preparing to attack, and baffle it at once with this great repellant.

But if it is too late to prevent, remember that it is not HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. ain constantly in the infected room.

Italiana Literary Weekly. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

This belief is grounded on twelve years' experience of the efficacy of the preparation. The first instance of its failure to give relief is yet unchronicled. If it ever had failed, the voluminous correspondence addressed to the proprietors from all parts of the United States and South America, would at least include one letter expressing dissatisfaction. But no, there is not one! The testimony, extending over a period of more than a dizen years, is all of the same approving tenor. Certainty this is a sufficient warrant for claiming that the BITTERS are a SPECIFIC FOR INDICISTION, IN ALL ITS VACIATIES.

We have put up and sold this article for over thirty years, and can say, in confidence and truth of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED, IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter '6 what we do know,'2 after thirty years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfilment of what we here declare. In exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.
