OR, THE VOYAGE OF LIFE. By the Author of "Violet Vaughan," "Sir Julian's Wife," " St. Beetha's," &c. "So He bringeth them unto their desired haven,"-PSALM CVII. 80. TOTAL VI SEE THE WAR Bangasally a (Continued.) states of to make

" TO BE, OR NOT TO BE."

" What was said ?" " More than I can remember; but mamma said she and you, and I also, if I were particularly good, were going up to town in a fortnight about your trousseau. And she and Sibyl went into the clothes question profoundly, and mamma looked at papa and said, Of course, my dear, you give us carte blanche. And papa nodded and seemed famously pleased, and he must have been in glorious good temper, for he choked down a whole rissole at once, that he might say, 'You shall have a blank cheque, and fill it up for any sum you like; let everything be as it was for Nora and the twins.' Then they talked about the brides-maids; and I am to be one,-that is, I was to be one if you married Tom. Oh, Margaret, had you not better think again before you quite decide? After all, it must be famous fun to be married!" "The fun would soon be over, Gussie, and the consequences would remain. Did Tom say anything ?"

"Oh, yes; he said a great deal. And when Mr. Saunderson congratulated him on his prospects of becoming a ' Benedick.'-what is that Margaret ? Is it the Greek for husband, of married man ! I know it's not Latin, or French, or German,-he made quite a speech, and made believe that you had fallen in love with each other three years ago, -when first you came to Crofton Lawn, you know. And Sibyl joked him, and he joked back again, and talked slang, and at last Mr. Saunderson said in a very mocking tone,only Tom-he is stupid you know-took it all for reality,- 'I shall take the first opportunity of congratulating your beautiful fiancee, Mr. Tom. I must confess I did not give Miss Margaret credit for so much good sense, or for so much taste! That she has chosen most happily, most charmingly, is self-apparent.' And Tom bowed, and looked silly; but I really believe that Mr. Saunderson meant that you had chosen ill and miserably, and that your taste in engaging yourself to

"I have no doubt he did: I know his sarcastic tone. But he, and everybody, must be made to understand the truth. It is horrible that I should be talked about in this way. Gussie, if you have any opportunity,-that is, if anyone speaks to you about this pretended engagement, say stoutly that it is not true, - say that I have told you so, that I would sooner run away and be a beggar than be Tom's wife." "I will say it, Margaret. But do finish your breakfast. Then will you get up and come down !"

"I do not know : I cannot bear coming down after all that has been said." "But you must come down some time, and, if it is horrible, hadn't you better face it at once, and have done with it. If I knew I had to go and meet half-a-dozen dragons I would go as quickly as I could, and have the fight out before I died of apprehensions."

"You are right, Gussie. It is of no use putting off an inevitable evil. I will get up at once, a face mes dragons, before all my courage evaporates. If I wait till to-morrow it will all ooze out at my fingers' ends, like Bob Acres'; and, at that rate, I may get married to Tom in spite of Gussie went away, evidently in a brown study. Presently, I saw her pacing the garden walks, still deeply cogitating, and, finally, I saw her run out to meet Gilbert, and put her arm confidentially in his, and lead him away up the hill-road, I could see from my window. For a long time I watched bath-school ound took a sudden dip, and I wondly interested in sie would say anything about Meter on the lieuw discussed. She was very fond of Gilbert, and would have scampered off with him pretty frequently had be" permitte! it. But Sibyl was ever on the watch, and Mr. Sannderson was generally "on the prowl," as Tom phrased it, so that very rarely could Gussie secure the companionship she liked next to mine. How it happened this morning I could not guess; but I fancied Gilbert was pleased enough to roam away, out of sight and sound of the others, with his "little sweetheart." as he had once, to Sibyl's inexpressible disgust,

Afterwards I heard what had passed. Gussie waited till they were quite out of sight of the house and the shore, and then she proposed that they should plunge into a certain wood near at hand, where special feros were said to grow, and where they would not likely to be found out, and dragged away to go boating, or scrambling, or walking en grand tenue upon the promenade.—
And, being at last safely ensconced among the trees, she commerced, "Do you think it is all true, Gilbert, about Margaret and Tom?" " Of course I do: There is no murmur of doubt about it. I dare say you are very glad." " I should be if it were true, on some accounts. I should like to think Margarct was my sister, and really belonged to us for life; but I do not think Tom is nearly good enough for her, and so for that reason you know, and only for that, I am glad that it is not true.".

"What can you mean Gussie? You heard all that passed at breakfast-time. Besides, weeks ago your mamma told me that her dear niece was to be her daughter very speedily, and that they all approved, and that the wedding was to be fore Christmas. Tom spoke of his cousin as his own peculiar property from the very first; before I had known you all many hours, he had hinted to me something about an understanding between her and himself. You are mistaken, Gussie. I Cut in the Latest and Best Styles, and Good Fits suppose they think you are too young to be ta-ken into confidence."

"No, indeed," replied Gassie, eagerly; "I am more in Margaret's confidence than any one. She would say things to me that she would hever say to anybody else; and I tell you I am not mistaken, and poor Margaret is in dreadful trouble and, Gilbert,—Mr. Tredgold,—you are her oldest friend, and I think you ought to help her. But I forget: you do not like Margaret now; you are unkind to her for the sake of that cross patch Sibyl, who will lead you such a life, Tom says, when you are married to her. And she will too, for she has led us a life ever since I can remember; and once I was worse than Sibyl, and I should have grown up a wretch, only fit to be drowned like the cat that Sib put out of the way, if it had not been for Margaret, who is the best, and the sweetest, and the dearest girl in the world, and ten thousand times handsomer than Sib, with her llow hair and great blue eyes! Did you ever

"Yes; it seems to be one of the current stories of Cotswoldbury. But, Gussie, if I were you, I would not refer to it. It is a tale better forgotten; and I dare say Sibyl regrets it now; and it is not mee for her little sister to talk about A number of Military COATS on marry Sibyl. And now, will you explain yourself a little, and not be quite so discursive? How can I help Miss Torrington?

Why don't you call her Margaret ?"

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE Works like magic on Sores, Burns, Cuts, Wounds, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Inflammation, &c., taking out the soreness, and healing the parts in a very short time GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

AMESBURY MASS., Oct. 18th, 1863. Mr. Grace—Dear Sir:—Having been afflicted grievously for several weeks with a severe abscess upon my side, I used several remedies for its eradication without receiving any relief, until I applied your salve, which effected a speedy and permanent cure. I therefore feel happy to certify my confidence in its virtues.
Yours, with respect,

JAMES DEAN. I certify to the truthfulness of the above statement. SETH W. FOWLE & SON, Boston, Proprietors, Sold by all Druggists, at 25 cents a box.

of La Minerve, Montreal. "Having experienced the most gratifying results from the use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, I am induced to express the great confidence which I have in its efficacy. For nine most is I was most cruelly afflicted with a severe and obstinate cough, accompanied with acute pain in the side, which did not leave me, summer or winter. The symptoms increased slatmingly, and so reduced was I that I could walk but a few steps and so reduced was I that I could walk but a tew steps without resting to recover from the pain and fatigue which so slight an exertion occasioned. At this juncture I commenced taking the Balsam, from which I found immediate velief, and after having used four bottles I was completely restored to health. I have also used the Balsam in my father than the property of mily and administered it to my children with the happiest results. I am sure that such Canadians as use the Balsam can but speak in its favor. It is a preparation which has only to be tried to be acknowledged as the remedy par Sold at Wholesale, by T. B. MASON & HAMLIN, MANUFACTURERS OF CABINET ORGANS AND Adapted to Secular and Sacred Music ; for Drawing-Rooms, Churches, Sunday and Day-Schools,

Uniting to a considerable extent the capacity of the Piano-Forte with that of the Pipe Organ, and costing much less They occupy little space; are elegant as ferriture; not iable to get out of order, and are securely boxed, so that hey can be sent anywhere by ordinary freight routes, all ready for use.

Forty Styles, plain or elegant cases; one to twelve stops; Prices, $75, $90, $110, $125, $130, $140, $150, $160, $170, $200, $225, $250, $300, $435, $500, $650, $600, and upwards.
The Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs were introduced four years since, and are a great improvement upon the Melodeon, Harmonium, and other reed organs, greatly extelling them, especially in the excellent quality and variety of their tones; in power and quickness of action, and capacity for expression.

Their success has been entirely beyond precedent, and proves how greatly such an instrument was needed. Again proves how greatly such an instrument was needed. Again and again the manufacturers have been compelled to double their manufacturing facilities, until they have increased ble their manufacturing facilities, until they have increased six fold. From the most eminent of the musical profession, the most distinguished planists, organists, composers and musical directors, the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs have received an amount and degree of commendation never before bestowed upon any similar musical instrument. More than two hundred and fifty of the most eminent musical transfers to the contraction of the most eminent musical states. More than two hundred and fifty of the most eminent musicians in the country have given written testimonials to the value of the improvements contained in them, and that they excel all other instruments of this class.

Fitty-five Gold or Siver Medals, or other highest Premiums, have been awarded to Mason & Hamlin for the important improvements effected by them, and for the superiority of their instruments to all others.

Constantly exhibiting their instruments in competition with others, they have been awarded the highest premium in every instance, but three or four.

For churchespsunday schools, &c., the MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS are the instruments longwanted,—of the very best quality, abundant power, not too expensive, nor hable to get out of order.

For private use, in drawing rooms, &c., they are not less desirable, and are finding a place in the musical families of the principal cities. the principal cities.

BRIEF EXTRACTS FROM ORINIONS OF DISTINGUISHED MUSICIANS:

I should think they would become very much sought after as parlor instruments as well as for public pertermance.—Sigismond Thathers, the sworld-rhowned Planiat. Sure to find its way into a very brusshold of taste and refinement which can possibly afford its moderate expense.

 Far superior to everything of its class I have seen.—L. M. Gottschalk, the eminent Planist. Such pure musical tones, promptness and smoothness of action and fine variety of effect, I have not found in any other instrument of the class.—S. B. Mills, the eminent Planist. Really so excellent that there can hardly be much difference of opinion respecting them.—William Mason, the emment of itanist. The best instrument of its class with which I am ascquainted, and worthy a place in every drawing room.—Harry Sanderson, the enaunt Planist. In every respect far superior to everything I have ever seen of the kind whether in Europe or America.—George Washbourne Morganist, A. Y. I can only reiterate what so many in the musical profession have said, that for equality, promptness and exquisite tone, they are unequalled.—John H. Wilcx, the eminent Organist, Boston. Surpasses everything in this line I have ever seen, whether french or American.—Goha Zundel, the mannent Organist, N. Y. TAKE great pleasure in recommending to my friends in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick the Boys Boarding School of Mr. Cherbuliez. I know him as a highly cultivated gentleman and an accomplished and skilful teacher. He is a Swiss Protestant, but long resident in this country, and for 17 years he has been connected with Pelham Priory, which is no small recommendation. His school affers superior advantages for acquiring a skilful knowledge of the French language.
