instanting a

I thought as I glided past him, that I heard him matter to himself the word "coquette." And my heart felt sore within me; for I knew that I did not deserve so cruel a mispomer; and he was one of the last persons by whom I should have wished to be unfairly judged. Tom helped me to potted grouse with an air of devotion that spoke as plainly as an air could speak, and I feltas if I were watching the weaving of a skilful web in which I was to be involved, and from which I saw not how I could escape.

"We were talking about the sea-side." said Tom, in a low voice, as if he were uttering some of those tender nothings in which lovers delight. "We think we had better go at once before it is too late."

" Is it not too late already ?" I asked aloud, in a tone that all around might hear.

"Oh, no !" was Tom's half-whispered rejoinder-and he looked as if he were making all kinds of gentle protestations. "It is just the time of all others. Besides, the small-pox has broken out at the bottom of the town, and manima is afraid for you and Sibyl, to say nothing of the children. We were just settling to go uext week; and what place can be better than Cleevesuper-Mare ?"

"I would rather go to St. Eldred's," I said, discontentedly.

"Then you shall go." And, raising his voice to regular conversation pitch, he addressed Mrs. Crefton, "Mother, Margaret prefers to go to St. Eldred's ; so it is there we must go. Why should she go to Cleeve if she would rather be elsewhere ?"

I felt frightened at this and acions speech ; for I had not yet grown accustomed to my new position as a creature privileged to have likes and dislikes, and freely to express them as a daughter of the house. I had been a poor fettered dependent so long, that I quite failed as yet to appreciate in all its length and breadth the full liberty of the British subject. Prior to that eventful day of Gilbert's advent among us, any preference of mine would have been ignored, frowned down, as impudent, presumptuous, or treated with contempt.

Even now I fancied a flush of veration passed over Mrs. Crofton's countenance; but she only said quite blandly, "My dear boy, it is quite natural that you should desire to please Margaret, and, of course, I should be delighted to meet her wishes; but I am not sure that St. Eldred's would be quite so convenient as Cleevesuper-Mare. What do you say Sibyl ?"

" Ob, I say St. Eldred's," she answered onickly. her fair face glowing as she spoke, - surely some of the old girlish beauty had returned of late. "Think what a pleasure it would be to Margaret ! And besides, Mr. Tredgold has given me such a description of the shore, and the lovely country round North Combe, that I am wild to see it. Then, again, mamma, Cleeve is getting such a fashionable place; one might almost as well stay at Cotswoldbury if it were not for the sea; the

Exceeds in my estimation every other instrument of this general class.----Thos. Hastings. I can recommend, them with confidence. -Lowell Mason. As soon as the public become acquainted with the superior merits of your instruments, your only trouble will be to supply the demand.-Wm. B. Bradbury. I have never seen mything of the kind which interested me so much.--Geo. F. Root. Exciting much interest in as to be available for any congregation, and effective and beautiful as to meet the desires of the most refined and fastidious - N. F. Observer. The MASON & HAMLIN CABINET URGANS must not be confounded with other read instruments, from which they vary essentially, their superiority being largely deri-ved from PATENTED IMPROVEMENTS, which cannot be employed by other makers! Among them are: The AUTOMATIC BELLOWS SWELL (patented), a The AUTOMATIC BELLOWS SWELL (patented), a most important invention, and greatly the best swell ever devised; being much more effective and easily up at than any other. The variety and heanty of effect of which it is is capable, cannot be appreciated except from actual use. The many attempts to imitate or find a subst'the for this swell, prove its value. None of them, however, approach it in excellence and simplicity. IMPROVED SELF ADJUSTING VALVES (patented), secure much more perfect action, durability and freedom from liability to get out of order. WOOD'S OUTAVE COUPLET (patented), in effect nearly doubles the power of the mstrument in which it is used. NOISELESS SAFETY VALVES (patented), prevent the hissing sound often heard.

$200, $225, $250, $300, $435, $500, $550, $600, and apwards. The Mason & Hamija Cabinet Organs were introduced four years since, and are a great improvement upon the Melodeon, Harmonium, and other reed organs, greatly excelling them, especially in the excellent quality and variety of their tones; in power and quickness of action, and ca-nacity for expression. Their success has been entirely beyond precedent, and proves how greatly such an instrument was needed. Again bey excel all other instruments of this class. Fifty-five Gold or Siver Medals, or other highest Premiportant improvements effected by them, and for the superiority of their instruments to all others. Constantly exhibiting their instruments in competition with others, they have been awarded the highest premium in every instance, but three or four. 1210 For churches, sunday schools, Ac., the MASON & HAM LIN CABINET ORGANS are the instruments long wanted -of the very best quality, abundant power, not too expensive, nor hable to get out of order.

For private use, in drawing rooms, &c., they are not less desirable, and are finding a place in the musical families of the principal cities. They are adapted to a wider range of music than the Pi-ano, being better fitted for all sacred music and for much secular music, while their quickness of action is such that the most lively, rapid music can be played on them. Then their cost is greatly less, as well as their liability to get April 11. out of order.

band is better here, and nothing can equal our own Promenade. St. Eldred's for me, mamma, please, if you put it to the vote."

Mrs. Crofton was evidently nonplussed, and I hastened to say, "I beg you will not dream of deranging any plan on my account, ma'am. It was a thoughtless speech,-and I merely said I would rather go to St. Eldred's than to Cleeve; I had no idea the remark would be repeated."

"We will talk about it presently, my dear," said Mrs. Crofton good-humouredly ; " but as our good friends Mr. Saunderson and Mr. Tredgold will go with us, we must of course consult them."

"Oh, St. Eldred's let it be," said Sibyl, in a low, clear whisper, fixing her lovely blue eyes beseechingly on Gilbert's bright dark orbs, "Fancy the rambles and the scrambles on that delicious beach. And I should see the Tor, and Rhudrhoe Point; and you could show me the very spots where the Little Gipsy went down. and where the Hirondelle struck on those fatal Serrars."

"But St. Eldred's is a dall place in itself. Of course I think there is no spot on earth to compare with it; but Cleeve is far gayer, and, of course, more fashionable."

"I am sick of fashion," said Sibyl. Which statement, though I utterly disbelieved it at the time, was, I dare say, a true one, since she had spent full five years in the pursuit of frivolous pleasures, in a dreary round of fashionable gaieties, finding only as the sequence, "vanity and vexation of spirit."

Mr. Saunderson, being appealed to, declared that he would not go to St. Eldred's ; he had made up his mind for Cleeve-super-Mare, and thither would he go, let who would stay away. Of course after that there was no longer any question- about my old haunts. Gilbert said nothing, and Sibyl sweetly acquiesced, and began to anticipate a thousand delights in the nearer watering place. It was definitely settled "before we rose from table, that we should all of us migrate to the coast in the course of the ensuing week, and my nucle was to go down first to secure apartments, or, if it were possible, a whole furnished house. 1 went up once to see Mrs. North, and found her looking ill and dispirited; for the baby, who had till now been the healthiest little creature possible, began to be attacked by the sorrows of teething, and Mr. North was in London on business, and he had left home with one of those severe head-aches that always alarmed his family.

"But, however, she continued, having finished the brief recital of her auxieties, " I ought to be very thankful, for he has some prospect of regu-lar work, —work that need not, I think, take us from Ashe End, if only they will not sell up our poor little Lares and Penates. It is editorial work,-just what will suit William, if his poor head can but stand the regular application. Edi-tors, you know, can never afford to be unwell : the public expects of them perennial health and spirits, and undeviating profundity and brilliance." "Is it a weekly or a monthly affair, a maga-zine or a newspaper?" "Neither; it is a scientific journal,—something between a gazette and a magazine; it is just what William can do well, and what he will do with right good will, if only his health will be equal to the demands made upon it. But, dear me! what a laithless creature I am! I am inst as foolish as the man who moaned because his purse was empty, though he had a handsome balance at his banker's." rewold spinge with "How so !"

"Because I am forgetting that it is promised that as our day our strength shall be. I am like the faithless Israelites who wanted to gather up manna for to day and to-morrow too." " It is very nataral."

"I know that ; but the spiritual man must in uch ceses strive against the natural. Now, then, ell me about this sudden move : when do you
