troyed Brethaps Tannery, containing 144 vats and $10,000 worth of bark. A large number of men were thrown out of employment. Partly insured. The Paris correspondent of the New-York Daily

Times writing of American contributions to the Exposition, says : -

" Messrs. Mason & Hamlin, of New-York, have sent a beautiful collection of cabinet organs. The workmanship of the cases compares favorably with the best specimens of the kind in the French department, and the designs are light, rich and elegant. It is only of late years that the cabinet organ has taken a legitimate place in the ever-extending family of musical instruments. In its old form, it was a coarse provocation to psalm-singing; a loud inducement to equality of its scale sufficed to cover up every defect the nose, which is yet prevalent in certain pious and occidental districts. Messrs. Mason & Hamlin were among the first to seriously consider the possibility of changing a toy into an instrument of music. Under their bands, the various registers have been equalized, and the whole character of the instrument is thereby rendered homogeneous. The quality of the tone is clear and vocal, and the contrivances for blending it in many forms are ingenious without being complicated. In Europe they still adhere to the rough, loud tone, which with us has been totally superseded. Messrs, Mason & Hamlin have, therefore, to struggle against a prejudice, or rather a predilection. Some of the most eminent organists in Paris have already declared in their favour, and I hope that the jury may do the same. They are alone in the honor of fighting the rest of the world, and it would be pleasant to record that victory had perched upon their banners." and rate are areas and

ENGLISH AND FOREIGN.

Peter Baine, in a recent letter to the Watchman and Reflector, furnishes a love romance of exquisitinterest. The story reads thus:-

Some years ago, Mr. Chaplin, a millionaire, was engaged to Lady Florence Paget, daughter of the Earl of Anglesea. The Family being poor when tried by the standard of the English peerage, the marriage was heartily approved by her family, and a "gentle pressure," if not positive constraint, was put upon her by her relations in order to induce her to accept the suit of the wealthy commoner. His rival was the Marquis of Hastings, who was a much poorer man than Mr. Chaplin. The lady, whose exquisite beauty had made her one of the stars of a London season, J. Gunter, gave her heart to the man of title, but, avoiding a breach with her family, estensibly accepted Chaplin and permitted all the preliminaries to the marriage to be arranged. When the hour of the nuptials was at hand, shedrove out to make one or two final purchases, and ordered the driver to stop at one of our great drapery establishments, which opened by two different doors upon two different streets. The lady passed in at one door and out at the other. There a carriage was drawn up in which sat the sister of the Marquis of Hastings. Lady Florence Paget entered; it drove off; and before the groom, astonished at the time devoted by his mistress to shopping, inquired for her in the shop, and discovering that she had gone, turned his horses' heads homewards, she was the wife of the Marquis of Hastings.

They were accompanied by the Sultan of Turkey and suite in six splendid carriages, each drawn by six horses splendidly caparisoned. When the initiatory ceremonies were concluded the Emperor rose from the Throne and said:—"Peoples and Kings have come here to crown the idea of peace and conciliation. France is proud to be great, prosperous and free, yet she is not unnerved by her material joys. The thoughtful can see the national fibres vibrate for the thoughtful can see the national fibres vibrate for the honor of France, but this noble susceptibility should not create fears for the world's repose as we here prove our anxiety for peace." The Emperor closed his speech by saying:—"This Exposition marks an era of harmony and progress, and the triumph of great moral principles which with justice can alone establish thrones and ennoble humanity."

PURGATIVE PILLS have become a settled necessity with the American people. Indeed, carthartics always have been and always must be used, in some form, by all mankind. In this country, the pilular form of administration has been growing in favor since pills were first made of Aloes and Rhubarb, rolled in a ball. Their high position in the public confidence has finally been secured and fastened into premanency, by Aver's Cathartic Pills, the most skilful combination of medicine for the diseases they are intendded to cure, that science can devise or art produce. Those who need pills, no longer hesitate what pills to take if they can get AYER'S PILLS .- Wheeling (Va.)

THE MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.—The perfection to which they have been brought is proved by their rapid sale throughout this country and among foreign nations. They are everywhere recognized as equal to the piano-forte, and in some respects are preferable to it, even as a parlor instrument. By the Cabinet Organ all monotony of tone is avoided, while a sustained tone is procured. By the Orhowl in short or long metre. The grossness and in- gan, also, diminuendos and crescendos can be procured-an achievement impossible with the piano. of the performer, even the custom of singing through Other advantages are possessed by the Organ, from the almost inestimable improvements made in it by the enterprise and skill of this firm, whose manufactured articles are known only to be admired. - Boston

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

For Rickets, Weakness of the Joints and Muscles, Loss of Appetite, Lowness of Spirits, Impurity of the Blood.

The effects produced are return of appetite, improved digestion, increase of flesh, good spirits, rosy cheeks and red lips, returning strength to the nervous and muscular system, and gradually all the functions of the body are restored to regularity, health and vigor. Its actions on the secretions of the respiratory organs are manifest in a very short time, the mucous and merbid matters are easily voided: it assists expectoration without depressing the page. ed; it assists expectoration without depressing the pa-tient, (this alone is a very valuable discovery, as we have not in the history of medicine an expectorant which is not also a depressaut,) hence the patient is relieved from those racking paroxysms of cough without being subjected to debilitating influences.
