(From the Christian World.) MARGARET TORRINGTON: OR, THE VOYAGE OF LIFE. Author of "Violet Vaughan," "Sir Julian Wife," "St. Beetha's," &c. "So He bringeth them unto their desired haven."-PSALM cvii. 80, (Continued.)

But I did not fear for myself. Mr. Scott wa an excellent music-master, but he was timid, an "Safe and sure" was his policy, rather than "Nothing venture, nothing win!" This was th reason, doubtless, why, with his rare genins anblameless character, he was still only a provincial music-master. He had told me what I wished to know, and I was content. As for the "othe things" at which he hinted, I did not concern myself about them; I could work now for my lodging, board, and raiment, and work I would without much more delay. I spoke French tole rably, and I could read Italian better than my cousins. My Latin I had not forgotten, oe could soon rub it up again. Thanks to carly teach ing and to Holly's sound tuition, I had been grounded in what are called "the branches of solid English education." I could appreciate the best literature; and I fancied, though I neve thought much about it, that prose composition was not my weakest point. Then, for a girl, my botany was something special; even Mr. Northadmitted it. And from him I had gleaned some geological facts, and I had dabbled just a little in mistry and entomology. Also, last, but no least, I was a clever needlewoman, and I could make a dress, and decently contrive a bonnet to look prettily, to say nothing of the mysteries of cutting out, darning, and embroidering generally And in no vain-glorious spirit I counted up these qualifications: I simply counted them as so much material out of which were to be spun and woven the web of my own fortunes. They were to make the sails which were to float me joyously across the main. They would be at once the awelling canvas, the streaming pennons, the trim rigging, and the ballast of the ship, wherein I, Margaret Torrington, should sail away triumphantly to fame, and pleasure, and to happiness, yet undefined, but perfect and soul-satisfying! Ah, yes! the land locked bay, the dreary lake left behind, I should make the voyage of life in earnest !

So I resolved that I would wait till my eighteenth birthday should have passed, and then I would speak out, and tell my uncle plainly that I had resolved upon a change. I would thank him for all the benefits I had received from him, and at the same time declare my intentions. which were grounded on the basis of independence. Above all things, I never asked God to guide me in the paths I was about to tread; I did not commit my way to Him; I never sought His blessing or implored His presence. Selfconfident, wilful, ignorant of the world, ambitious, and of a passionate, epthusiastic nature, I was about to launch out into the wide and trosbled ocean with no pilot at the helm, no chart to point the way.

That summer no one went up to town, and the London house was let or lent for the season, Mrs. Crofton did not wish to go on her own account, and Sibyl cared pot to provoke remark by exhibiting her faded charms on the arena of her former triumphs, or to be congratulated on the marriage of her younger sisters. There was a talk of going to the seaside in September; but I felt sure I was not to be included in the party.

I came down at last, for it was time to give Gussie her music lesson; then came the school-room dinner, and, while we were still intent upon our lamb and late peas, Sibyl came in, as she sometimes did, to take her luncheon at our table. " Margaret," she said presently, when she had belped herself to the nicest slices the joint afforded and grumbled that all the best was gove, "you must go to Upping's this afternoon. I want that checked muslin matched, and mamma says you are to order some de-laines to be sent up to choose from. We shall be wanting light autumn dress for next month. Also, you must go to the library and ask why they have not sent the third volume of the last new novel. You had better go as soon as you have finished your dinner." It was scorchingly hot, and I should have pre-ferred waiting another hour or two; but I knew it would be in vain to urge my inconvenience on Sibyl; and till the time for action arrived I did not care to provoke her to any excess of hostility. I simply replied that I would do as she desired.

And pray go steadily down the Promenade,
Margaret. I must tell you that you have been remarked once or twice." "In what way?"
"In a way not very flattering to yourself,—in way that might compromise us. You have been ollowed more than once !"

"I could not help that,—foolish young men always will run after girls when they see them it is very unpleasant; and really the young men of Cotswoldbury seem to have nothing to do but to stroll about the gardens, or up and down the Promenade, or about the pump-rooms, staring at SDST RINGWORMS, girls and women, and quizzing those they call the frights, and insulting by their notice these they consider pretty."

If you do not seek to attract this objectionable notice, you will not be annoyed." That is not true, Sibyl. The empty-headed creatures on the Promenade are utter regardless of decent ceremony: they only think of amusing themselves; and a little difficulty in their way is only an exciting stimulus. But pray be easy on my account; no one, save those whom I have met in this house, ever presumes to speak to me or to lotter by my side; and as I dislike the Promenade from two to five, unless I am properly accompanied, I shall go round by Park road and the Chesnut Avenue, and so avoid the thronged resort. It will be hotter, but preferable on many

"You will take the children with you?"

"I shall take Gussie certainly,—she is generally my companion; but I must decline the charge of Rosa; she gets tired so easily, and I do not choose to carry her as if I were a nursemaid; besides, she is troublesome in a shop."

Sibyl said a few sharp words about my insolence and independent spirit; but she did not press the matter, for which I was truly thankful, since I was resolved not to be troubled with the child, whose proper attendant was nurse or Rebeces, and I meant even to refuse to go out shopping at all if she were thrust upon me; but I was glad to be spared a contest in which it would cost so much to prevail. About three o'clock Gussie and I put on our bonnets, and set off for Upping's in the High-street.

Now, "Upping and Son" were drapers, and n the High-street.

Now, "Upping and Son" were drapers, and for some reason or other, my uncle issisted upon all the energy of his house being given to them; and he even declared he would not pay bills sent a by "Careudish & Co," who kept all the Paris modes, and all the novelties of the London cason. This was very annoying to my aunt and her daughters, for Upping's trade, though emisently respectable, was quiet, and not particularly respectable, was quiet, and not particularly respectable.

PHOTOGRAPHIC GUM REGIALINE, FOR MOUNTING PRINTS.

Patented February. 1867.

ONE OF THE BEST PHOTOGRAPHIC IMPROVE.

MENTS OF THE DAY.—Since the discovery of Photographic paper printing, it has always been a great desideratum to obtain an adhesive harmless substance as a medium for mounting Prints. Gum-Arabic, Dextrine and other Gums have each had their day and have been rejected for various reasons.

After great labour and expense we have succeeded in inventing and perfecting a purely Vegetable. Gum of most extraordinary adhesive properties, containing no deleterious ingredients whatever. It is in every respect superior to Gum-Arabic for mounting prints. We beg to state it has the following advantages over every other Gum now in use in Photography:

1st. It does not Sour, Mould, Ferment or Decay by Age.
2d. It dries very quickly and thoroughly. 3rd. Its light color, perfectly white when applied to paper. 4th. It will not injure the most delicate picture or color. 5th. It being sold in a liquid form saves all the trouble of hoiling. 6th. Being very limby applied, makes a saving of fifty per cent. 7th. The mounted print is much more brilliant than with any other Gum.

Many other qualities makes it the ne plus ultra of aithesive Photographic Gums. One trials will convince all of the extraordinary properties of this Gum.

Adapted to Secular and Sacred Music; for Drawing Rooms, Churches, Sunday and Day-Schools,

Uniting to a considerable extent the capacity of the Piano-Forte with that of the Pipe Organ, and costing much less They occupy little space; are elegant as furniture; not liable to get out of order, and are securely boxed, so that they can be sent anywhere by ordinary freight routes, all ready for use.

Forty Styles, plain or elegant cases; one to twelve stops; Prices, $75, $90, $110, $125, $130, $140, $150, $160, $170, $200, $225, $250, $300, $425, $500, $556, $600, and upwards.

The Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs were introduced for the control of the case of the four years since, and are a great improvement upon the Mclodeon, Harmonium, and other reed organs, greatly excelling them, especially in the excellent quality and variety of their tones; in power and quickness of action, and capacity for expression.

Their success has been entirely beyond precedent, and Their success has been entirely beyond precedent, and proves how greatly such an instrument was needed. Again and again the manufacturers have been compelled to donible their manufacturing facilities, until they have increased six-fold. From the most eminent of the musical profession, the most distinguished pianists, organists, composers and musical directors, the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs have received an amount and degree of commendation never before hestowed upon any similar musical instrument. More than two hundred and fifty of the most eminent musicians in the country have given written testimonials to the value of the improvements contained in them, and that sicians in the country have given written testimonials to the value of the improvements contained in them, and that they excel all other instruments of this class.

Fifty-five Gold or Siver Medals, or other highest Premiums, have been awarded to Mason & Hamlin for the important improvements effected by them, and for the supelierity of their instruments to all others.

Constantly exhibiting their instruments in competition with others.

Constantly exhibiting their instruments in competition with others, they have been awarded the highest premium in every instance, but three or four.

For churches, sunday schools, &c., the MASON & HAM-LIN CABINET ORGANS are the instruments long wanted, —of the very best quality, abundant power, not too expensive, nor hable to get out of order.

For private use, in drawing rooms, &c., they are not less desirable, and are finding a place in the musical families of the principal cities.

desirable, and are inding a place in the musical families of the principal cities.

They are adapted to a wider range of music than the Pi-ano, being better fitted for all sacred music and for much secular music, welle their quickness of action is such that the most lively, rapid music can be played on them. Then their cost is greatly less, as well as their liability to get out of order.

BRIEF EXTRACTS FROM OPINIONS OF DISTINGUISHED MUSICIANS:

I should think they would become very much sought after as parlor instruments as well as for public performance.—Sigismond Thalberg, the world-renowned Pianist. Sure to find its way into every household of taste and refinement which can possibly afford its moderate expense.

* * Far superior to everything of its class I have seen.—L. M. Gottschalk, the eminent Pianist. Such pure musical tones, promptness and smoothness of action and fine variety of effect. I have not found in any other instruments of the class.—S. B. Mills, the eminent Pianist. Really so excellent that there can hardly be much difference of opinion respecting them.—William Mason, the eminent Pianist. The best instrument of its class with which I am acquainted, and worthy a place in every drawing-room.—Harry Sanderson, the eminent Pianist. In every respect far superior to everything I have ever seen of the kind, whether in Europe or America.—George Washbourne Morgan, the eminent Organist, N. Y. I can only reiterate what so many in the musical profession have said, that for equality, promptness and exquisite tone, they are unequaling. John H. Wilcox, the eminent Organist, Boston. Surpasses everything in this line I have ever seen, whether French or Americas.—John Zundel, the emment Organist, N. Y. The best reed instruments in the world are made in the United States, and your Cabinet Organist are greatly superior, and by far the best made here.—Max Maretzek, Musical Conductor, N. Y. Far surpasses all other similar instruments which have come under my observation.—Carl Zerrahn, Musical Conductor, Boston. Exceeds in my estimation every other instrument of this general class.—I lowell Mason. As soon as the public become acquainted with the superior merits of your instruments, your only trouble will be to supply the demand.—Win. B. Bradbury. I have never seen as EPITHELIOMA, OR CANCER OF THE LIP Cured by Rogers & Co.'s Medicines! Read what Dr. Read says:— Windson, April 16, 1866.

Gents. :- In reference to the case of Epithelioma of the Lip, in which I used your Ointment, I beg to say that the patient entirely recovered, and has continued well ever since. I have also used the Medicine in some cases of obstinate Skin Diseases, with much benefit. I believe it to be a valuable remedy in many otherwise intractable cases.

TAKE great pleasure in recommending to my friends in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick the Boys Boarding School of Mr. Cherbuhez. I know him as a highly cultivated gentleman and an accomplished and skilful teacher.—He is a Swiss Protestant, but long resident in this country, and for 17 years he has been connected with Pelham Priory, which is no small recommendation. His school offers superior advantages for acquiring a skilful knowledge of the French language.
