By the Author of "Violet Vanghan," " Sir Julian's Wife," " St. Beetha's," de. So He bringeth them unto their desired haven?-PSALM evii. 30. A King Merest. TV. As box F. ... (Continued.)

HANGIAL THE OLD PROPLE. How welcome I was to Alice, and to her parents, I need scarcely say; and how we talked, sitting on the rocks at the Point, evening after evening, trying to convince ourselves that the wanderer would come back. And we told each other tales of strange returns, stories of men who had sailed long ago in early manhood for some far-off country, and had suddenly re-appeared at middle age, when all their friends and kinsmen thought them dead. " Engeh Arden" was not written then, or I am sure it would have been often quoted; but we had all heard of similar marvels, and Stephen Tredgold especially had really ktown several cases of the kind, and he would not yet, he said, give up his son for lost. Not till seven years were past and gone would be put on mourning for him.

Seven years! Could it be possible to bear suspense so long? Alice sadly shook her head; she could not believe in seven years involuntary exile nowadays; neither, indeed, could I. Such things might well be in the old time, when no steamships ploughed the ocean, when pirates and slavers were a real source of terror, and when there was but little intercourse between the nations .-But now, when the black flag was almost a myth. when hostile fleets no longer scourged the main, when every island, rock, and coral reef seemed mapped down by the geographer, and visited by missionaries or by the sons of commerce, it was surely next to an impossibility to play the part of Robinson Crusoe, or to endure the horrors of unjust captivity, for miserable years. But Stephen said, "It might be. Who could tell?-Some day the boy would come back again." And we tried to believe him, and even talked of the manner of his return; till, in spite of our sinking hearts, we smiled at all our fears, and promised ourselves a blissful meeting—soon; yes, very soop-before the summer days were over. But when Stephen Tredgold went away to the flagstaff, his wife, looking me straight in the face, said: "Miss Margaret, Lam not so sanguine as his father; I do not look ever to see my boy again on this side of heaven. It is very hard; but the Lord gave and the Lord taketh away.--

Blessed be the name of the Lord,"
"Do you remember that evening long ago, when Mirrie Downing and I came to tea when first you were settled at the Fort?"

" Ah! well I remember it. And Alice told me how he showed you the painted ship, straining in the storm, and the text underneath, So He bring-eth them unto their desired haven. Little I thought then what haven it would be, and that he would reach it before his mother. How fond he was of talking about life as a voyage !- a short one for him, dear fellow."

Short indeed it already the harbour were attained; but, oh! how safe! And words of his came back to my memory with a force and signi- ed rapidly through several editions, and promised ficance far deeper than they had borne when attered :- "Having the Pllot on board, and chart wrote Mrs. North, "that bank failure was good and compass of His providing, I shall get safe for us. William would never have exerted himinto port some time or other ?"

And what did it matter if early in the day the celestial towers were reflected on the waves, and the light from the golden portals mingled with the morning beams of life? It was only so many storms escaped, so many rocks and shoals avoided, so many dangers left behind; it was only so much toil remitted, and the rest begun; only the less of care and pain, and the earlier of bliss unspeakable. Did not God ofttimes call to Himself His best beloved ones before the heat and burden of the day 1 Did He not take them from "the evil to come?" Surely His way and His time were best; for He saw all the voyage from the beginning to the end; He knew what sorrows would be shunned, what joys would be attained; it was best so ! And I caught myself saying over and over again, like a child that would fain have its lesson perfectly, "Best so! Best so!" Yet all the while my anguished heart crying out against proud of him! Why, he has been elected an F. it; all the while my restless fancy painting the S. A., and an F. G. S., and something else since other side of the picture Gilbert come home again, poor it might be, worn and tempest-tossed. but stiff my own living Gilbert, with the smile I knew so well upon his countenance, and the bright light in his eyes that had shone there all through that happy hour upon the cliff at Cleeve. Then I began to terture myself with the idea that I was responsible for all this misery. Had I not so impetuously rushed away without an explanation; had I trusted to things coming right, instead of trying to make them right myself, all might have been otherwise. My sudden withdrawal had not altered Gilbert's decision-he had remained faith ful to me for all the influences brought so heavily to bear upon his mind. I had proved what Mr. Saunderson called " the strength and unselfishness of my affection of in voin. I had renonnced all thought of marriage with Gilbert that I might not blight his prospects; and now, what had become of the vaunted future for which I had sacrificed so much? Alas! sacrified not alone my-

It never occurred to me, in those moments of bitter self-reproach, to reflect that Gilbert would probably have chosen a seafaring life under any circumstances. Had I remained to brave the storm, and had I gone, as Gilbert suggested, to his parents, till he should be justified in claiming me for himself, still the same disasters might have happened; still he would probably have made this voyage, and the Ellerslie would have been this voyage, and the Ellerslie would have been missing all the same. Oh, these "its," and "might have beens!" How we torment ourselves with them! how needlessly we aggravate our sorrows, and increase our burdens, by questioning God's providence! Only in this instance I had some cause for doubt; Thad not asked for guidance when I cancluded to take Mr. Saunderson at his when I should be of age. I sent my love to Gustantial may war note the word; I had not committed my way unto the Lord, trusting also in Him that He would bring it to pass. I had acted, as I thought, for the best; but if I had first prayed earnestly for wisdom and for guidance, I should have felt none of these agonising doubts; I should have been quite cerin then that all was right, that all was " ordered and sure." Yet it was a great comfort to re-God to help me, and keep me from this evil, hen I was watching that solitary sail on the grey stern of the Bristol Channel, on that memorable ternoon on the cliffs of Cleeve. There was litof true faith, nothing of calm submission, in at prayer, wrung out, I doubt not, by the exincies of the hour; still, it was a prayer, and the God had heard it—and thus had answer-self-that would have been a small thing; but my en I remembered how the clouds had parted how the western sky grew suddenly all fair, and how on the waves lay that idea light, like a shiping torch, leading the portals of the land of rest. I re-could I afford to indulge in idleness, for Gilbert's parents and his sisters were to me a sacred charge, and the sweetest consolation I could know on earth would be in ministering to them. And I felt happier than I had felt for many a day when the dear old people accepted me as a daughter, and promised to take from me, as from their own child, whatever I might send them. And at my earnest request they dropped the long accustomed " Miss" in speaking to me, and I was only " Margaret," as I had been to those dead ones sleeping so peacefully in the quiet upland churchyard of North Combe. It was with a pang that I pre-pared to leave St. Eldred's; for now the place seemed dearer to me than ever. I could have hingered long on that quiet shore, where all was still save the thunder of the waves, and the plaintive erv of the sea-birds, whose white wings were ever flitting over the golden brown sands, or gleaming like silver against the deep blue sky or the sable passing cloud. I stood underneath the beetling cliffs, the full tide surges at my feet, and the olive fringes of long weed tossing wildly about the eddies caused by the submerged rocks; and in my thoughts the words ringing,

"Come to thy God in time!"
Thus saith the ocean chime;
Storm, billow, whirlwind past,
Come to thy God at last."

I took Bertha back with me to London, to her extreme satisfaction, and to my own great comfort; for she was growing up singularly like her brother-a very handsome, sensible, well-conducted girl. I intended to arrange for her to attend a morning school in the neighbourhood of Bloomsbury. Some of her studies she could carry on by herself, and I could give her music-lessons in the evenings. She would not allow any one to speak of Gilbert in the past tense; she was quite sure he lived, and would return some day when we least expected it and often her sanguine spirit infected mine, and I too could hope to see my friend again, and, meanwhile, be patient till the time should come.

As the autumn closed in, my pupils multiplied, and I felt justified in raising my terms; for now I had not only myself to think about, but the dear old people at St. Eldred's. And they needmany comforts and some luxuries; and surely I had a right-it was my duty, as well as my joy -to succour them; for when all was said and done, I was certainly the cause of the estrangement between Gilbert and his patron; though I very much doubted whether, under any circumstances, the bond would not have been summarily broken had no such person as Margaret Torring-ton existed. The old gentleman had had his whim out, and was evidently tiring of Gilbert! while on the other hand, Gilbert himself, harrassed and hampered in many ways, was longing to be free, and only hesitating lest his own heart should condemn him for ingratitude, and on account of the dear ones at St. Eldred's I had written to the Norths while I was at the sea-side. and explained to them the reason of my long silence, and Mrs. North bad kindly answered my letter immediately; so that once more I was in communication with these charming people and true friends, and from them I learnt how things were going on at Cotswoldbury. Mr. North had been most successful in his new calling. His editorship was highly prosperous, and he was beginning to be known as an anthor, His works were all well spoken of, and they passself as he has done had our little property remained intact. As it is, he has not only equalled but greatly exceeded our former income : and, if God grants him health and strength, I believe his prospects will improve continually. Ah, Margaret! do you remember how dark all things look ed to us two years ago? In spite of my bravery - half of it assumed, I am afraid, for William's sake-I did tremble as I looked round on busband and children, and knew that our all was gone. It was hard work to believe that the trouble would work out for our own temporal good, and yet there was the promise; and God has been as good as His Word. It roused my husband, it brought out his latent powers, it developed talent and habits of research that he scarcely knew were his "He was always loved and respected, for he is so good; but now he is widely hononred, and men speak his name with reverence. I am so you left us to go away to Cleeve super Mare ! As for Hetty, it has made a little woman of her, and now we can give her advantages she never hoped for in the old days of our settled, but most tiny income. Willy grows a great boy, and is going soon to the Cotswoldbury College. Marian of course, runs about, and is always in mischief, and chatters away as long as ever she can keep awake; and the new baby, whom we have called Maggie, after you, is the healthiest little creature. Surely the lines have fallen to us in pleasant places; -surely we have a goodly heritage. More than ever I feel the truth of that stanza-

" 'Thy God knows what for thee is best What looks the worst may work thy weal. Seek holiness—and for the rest Leave it with God Himself to deal."

Then followed much about my own matters, much tender sympathy, and many words of cheer they, too -Mrs. North, her husband, and Hettythought it was too soon yet to give Gilbert up. Finally, I was invited to spend Christmas at the Cottage of Content; but I felt too unsettled as yet to make any promises. Besides, I had Ber-tha in my care, and I could not leave her alone with Mrs. Brown, who was more than ever occupied now that Jane was married.

About the same time that I renewed my correspondence with the Norths, I wrote to my uncle, explaining to him what he knew well enough before - the cause of my abrupt withdrawal from his guardianship.

I confessed that I was not quite sure now sie, and begged that she might be allowed to write to me, and if Mr. Croften would send me a few lines himself it would give me unfeigned

I waited with some little anxiety for an answer. to my carefully-worded epistle, and by return of post I received an envelope directed by my Uncle Crofton's hand. Inside was my own letter, and a slip of paper having on it these words: "Mr. Crofton returns Miss Torrington's letter, as that young person is entirely a stranger to the family at Crofton Lawn."

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE, THE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER. This Salve is a vegetable preparation, discovered in the 17th century by Dr. WM. GRACE, Surgeon in King James' Army. Through its agency he cured thousands of the most serious wounds and sores that baffled the skill of the eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all as a public benefactor.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE. From Mr. E. Tucker, Depot master at Salisbury, Mass.

"I have been troubled for years with a bad tumor;— sometimes outwardly, and sometimes inwardly. During the past summer it manifested itself more than usual outwardly, and I used your Salve. All signs of it have since disappeared, without affecting me inwardly, indicating, I think, the eradicating nature of the Salve."

A Cure for Whooping Cough. ST. HYACINTHE, C. E., Aug. 21, 1856.

Messrs, SETH W. FOWLE & SON. mine, ten years of age, was taken with "Whooping Cough in a very aggravated form, and nothing we could do for her seemed in any way to relieve her suffering. We at length decided to try a bottle of Dr. Wistar's Baleam of Wi'd Cherry. In three hours after she had commenced using it, she was greatly relieved, and in less than three days was entirely cured, and is now well. I have since recommended entirely cured, and is now well. I have since recommended the Balsam to many of my neighbors, who have used it, and in no case have I known it fail of effecting a speedy cure. You are at liberty to make any use of the above you think proper. If it shall induce any body to use your Balsam, I shall be glad, for I have great confidence in it.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL. JOHN ARMSTRONG & CO.

ROGERS'-MEDICINES A FTER a test of Four Years before the public, are still increasing in popularity, because they con inue to make cures unparalleled in the history of Medicines, as abundantly appears by the following, among hundreds of similar testimonials, from people of the highest respectability from all parts of the Lower Provinces.

There is no longer any reason why the most hopeless cases in any disease arising from impurities of the blood may not be cured, as well as General Debility, Female Weaknesses, &c.

Our ALTERATIVE SYRUP is beyond all controversy unsurpassed as a purifier of the blood and invigorator of the system. This no man can doubt who will look over the CERTIFICATES: CANCER OF THE WOMB CUREO.

MESSES. ROGERS & Co. - Gents: I have been cured by our wonderful Medicine of one of the worst diseases, as your wonderful Medicine of one of the worst diseases, as follows, viz.:—

I had been afflicted for several years with an internal Tumor, and four years ago I was taken sick with a fever; the old complaint also revived. I had a Doctor attending me, but continued to get worse; we sent for another Doctor He pronounced it a hopeless case, and said I could not live long. He said the Tumor was then as large as a pint bowl, and was assuming a cancerous nature. I suffered more than tongue can tell. My friends expected me to die daily. They were called in to see me die, and I was reduced to a mere skeleton. I suffered in this dreadful manner for upwards of two years. I at length, as a forlorn hope, was induced to try your medicine. The first lot seemed to make me worse, and I became discouraged; but the Rev. A. W. Barss advised me to continue. I did so, and soon began to improve, and I am now well again, and a wonder to myself and neighbours. I feel as one raised from the dead. I am a young woman of 26 years of age. I state these things for the benefit of suffering humanity, and I cannot begin to describe the severity of my case—it is widely known in the County of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

Yours, with much gratitude, Lois A. Hattfield.

Yours, with much gratitude, Lois A. HATFIELD. We, the undersigned, friends of Miss Hatfield, have MAFIAH GAVILL

ULCERATED CANCER CURED! Who needs better proof than the following voluntary testimony of Mrs. Hannah Balmain, of Wickham, N. B.:

Some four years since there came a lump in my breast, and at the time I did not know what it was; but on showing it to three Doctors, they told me it was a "Cancer," and for which the knife would have to be applied: then again, I went to a female Doctor, who has been in the habit of curing Cancers by drawing them out, but she informed me that it was deep in the flesh and too long seated, and therefore could not help me. Knowing that something must be done, I concluded to try your medicine, which I s w advertised in the Visitor. Accordingly, I sent for a can of Ointment and Powders for making the Syrup, which I used without the slightest change at the time. I began to think it was a tailure, but concluded to give it another trial; consequently I procured another can of Ointment and Powders, and from its use it gathered and broke in two places, and discharged very freely for about six months, after which time it broke again in another place, and one of the old Ulcers healed up, the remaining two still estimony of Mrs. HANNAH BALMAIN, of Wickham, N. B. months, after which time it broke again in another place, and one of the old Ulcers healed up, the remaining two still remaining, one of which ran for two and a halt years, the other healing up in about two months after it broke, during which time I used your medicine regularly. I may here state, that the last Ulcer healed up about thirteen months ago, since which time I have enjoyed good health! Yes, I may say better health than I have enjoyed for years.

I remain yours, respectfully,

MRS. HANNAH BALMAIN.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER. FIVE ISLANDS, Nova Scotia, October 21, 1867. Messas. Rogers & Co.—Gents: My daughter is nicely, and you have done wonders, for I neverthought you would make a cure as you have done. Her leg appears to be quite strong, but it itches a little.

The characteristics of the control of the control

The above was a very severe case of Scrofula of four or five years standing, and after having baffled the skill of the best Physicians and almost every other Patent Medicine, and the child appeared to be on the verge of the grave, and the parents having lost confidence in every thing in the medical line, we undertook the cure for a certain sum, and if we failed were to get nothing; but we succeeded, as we do in every case of Scrofula we undertake. Nearly the whole of the bone—from the knee to the ankle—came out in picces from time to time.

Mrs. Edwin Starratt, of Port William, Nova Scotia, after having lost the use of her limbs for upwards of three years has been fully restored to her former health by the use of our medicine. Any one wishing to know the particular can correspond with Mrs. S., who will give every income
