Now, girls, I have got news for you! The speaker was a showy girl, dressed in the height of fashion. She was just entering a room where sat several young ladies, her cousins, pursuing various household employments.

. What is it, Ada?' cried one and another. 'You'll never believe it; Lizzie Ashbrook has professed religion!' was the half serious, hat. laughing reply.

'Lizzie Ashbrook!' The girls repeated the name more or less in surprise. * Lizzie Ashbrook l' said the elder consin, Julia, seriously: why! she was forever making sport of the subject. And such a fashionable girl; why, she would hardly look at a person who was meanly dressed, remarked another.

'Her father an infidel, too; what will be say?' 'I heard that he turned her out of the house,' said Ada.

There was a long silence.

· Well'-it was abruptly spoken by the youngest of the family, "we shall see now if there is the reality in religion that Christians talk about. I don't believe there is one single person in any branch of her family who is religious. She will have unusual trials to undergo; I wouldn't be in

'Trials! pshaw! there's no such thing as persecution in these days; it would be a rare thing to see a martyr!' This was lightly spoken by Ada, who had been Lizzic's nearest friend, and who felt unusual bitterness springing up in her heart toward the young girl, who she knew could no longer enjoy ber companionship as of yore.

Martyrs are not rare even in these days! av, and martyrs to religious persecution, as we shall

The cousins made an early call on Lizzie, who received them with her accustomed grace, and a sweeter smile than usual. Yet she was pale, and though there was a purer expression on her beautiful face, yet she appeared like one wearied a little with some struggle, in which she was the sufferer. Although she did not speak directly of the new vows she had taken upon her, the new peace she had found, her visitors could see clearly and distinctly the wondrous change in dress, in manner, and even in countenance.

Lizzie was engaged in marriage to a thorough man of the world. George Philips loved his wine, his parties, the race course, the theatre, the convival free-and easy club. The Sabbath was his day of pleasure, and many a time had Lizzie graced his elegant equipage, radiant in beauty, on the holy day, as they swept along. He bore a dashing exterior, was intellectual-a wit, courted, caressed, admired everywhere.

His brow darkened as he heard the news. What! the girl of his choice, the woman he would place at the head of his brilliant household, become a canting Christiau! Nonsense, he didn't believe it; he would see for himself. He didn't furnish his parlors for prayer meetings; he wanted no long faced ministers, elders, or 'sisters' to visit his wife-not he. It was a ridiculous hoax; it must have originated in the club-room. What! the daughter of Henry Ashbrook, the freest of free thinkers? 'Ha! a capital jokea very clever joke-nothing more!'

He called upon her not long after the visit before mentioned. His cold eye scanned her from head to foot—but how sweetly! how gently sh met him. Surely the voice that was melting music before, was heavenly in its tones now. Al the winning grace was there, all the high bred ease-the merry smile dimpled her cheek-but there was a something, a subtle something that thrilled him from head to foot with apprehension, because it was unlike her usual self. What could

At length, lightly, laughingly he referred to the report he had heard. For one moment the frame trembled, the lips refused to speak-but this passed, and something like a flush crossed her beantiful face-it lighted the eyes anew, it touched the cheek with a richer crimson, as she replied-'George, please don't treat it as a jest, for truly-thank God! I have become a Christian! Oh, George!' her clasped hands were laid upon one of his, 'I have only just begun to live! If you knew-'

The proud man sprang to his feet, almost throwing her hands from him in his impatient movement; and not daring trust his voice, for an oath was uppermost, he walked swiftly back and forward for a moment. Then he came and stood before her. His forehead was purpled with the veins that passion swelled, his face white, and his voice unsteady as he exclaimed,

· Do you mean to say that you will really cast your lot among these people, that for them you will give up all-all! "I will give up all for Christ; the words were very soft and low, and not spoken without reflection.

For one moment he locked his lips together, till they looked like steel in their rigidity; then he said, in a full passionate voice-

Lizzie-Miss Ashbrook, if these are your sentiments, these your intentions, we must go different ways.' This was very cruel-it was a terrible test, for that young girl had, as it were, placed her soul in his keeping. Before a higher and purer love was born in her heart, she had made of her human love-an absolute idolatry-and the thought of losing him even now caused her cheek to grow ashen and her eyes dim. As he saw this his manner changed to entreaty.

He placed before her the position he would give her; lured her by every argument that might appeal to the womanly heart. And he knew how to win by entreaty, by the subtlest casnistry. His was a masterly eloquence. He could adapt his voice, his language, his very looks, with the most adroit cunning, to the subject and object of his discussion. More than once the gentle spirit of the young Christian felt as if she must give way-that only help direct from the fountain of life could sustain her with firmness to resist to the end of the interview.

At last it was a final, 'All this will I give you if you will fall down and worship me!" It came to this-'Christ or me!' There could be no compromise-it was 'Christ or me!' And standing there, clothed with a mantle of a new and heavenly faith, with its light shining in her heart and playing over her pale features, she said, with a firmness worthy the martyrs of old-

CHRIST! Though his soul was filled with rage, so that he could have gnashed his teeth, the slight figure standing there in its pure, white robes-the eye that cast an earnest, upward glance-the brow that seemed to have grown white with spiritlight-the attitude, so self-possessed vet so modest—so quiet yet so eloquent, filled him with a strange admiring awe. But the hostility toward religion was so strong in his heart, that it bore down all his tenderness, almost crushed his love, and he parted from her for the first time coldly.

The engagement was broken off; but who can tell the struggles it cost?

This was but the first trial; there came anne yet the blow was heavy on her

Her father had never been very loving to Her father had never been very loving formard her. He was proud of her; she was the brightest gem of his splendid home, she was intellectual, and gratified his vanity; she was intellectual, and he heard praise lavished upon her mind with a miser's greedy ear, for she was hispart of himself; she belonged to him.

He called her into his study, and required a largest 5 account of the whole matter. He had heard rumors, he said -- had seen a surprising and | CAUTION! not agreeable change in her; she had grown mopish, quiet -what was the cause? It was a great trial, with that stern, unbelieving face full of hard lines, opposite, to stand and testify for Christ. But He who has promised was with her, and she old the story calmly, resolutely, kindly.

'And do you intend to be baptized?' 'Yes, sir'-a gleam of hope entered her heart: she did not expect his approval, but she could not think he might refuse to sanction this import-

'You know your Aunt Equice has long wanted on to become an inmate of her home?

'Yes, sir,' the gentle voice faltered. Well, you can go now. Unless you can give ip this absurd idea, and trample it under your cet, I do not wish you to remain with me. Be as you were before, and you shall want for no luxury, no affection; follow this miserable notion, and henceforth I am only your father in name.' And still, though her heart was broken, she said, as she had said before -

· CHRIST. She did forsake all for him, but her stop became slow, her form wasted, her eye hollow, her cherk sunken. The struggle had been too much or a frame unable to cope with any overwhelmog sorrow. Swiftly she went down into the valley, but it was not dark to her. Too late the man who had so sorely tempted her, knelt by the side of her bed and implored her forgiveness .-Too late? No, not too late for his own salvation, for in that hour his eyes were opened to the sinfulness of his life, and by her dying pilow he promised solemnly to give his heart to Ood. Her father, too, proud infidel though he was, looked on his wasted child, triumphing over death, with wonder and with awe. Such a dying scene it is the privilege of but few to witness; she had given up all, absolutely all for Christ, and in the last hour she, like Stephen, saw heaven opened. Her face was angelic, her anguage rapture, her chamber the gate of hearen. And like one who, but the other day, nnfied the sandals of life, and moved calmly and trustingly down the one step between earth and heaven, so she said, with a smile inexpressibly

And they sang, 'Rock of Ages cleft for me!' At its close they heard one word-the last. It

COMPOUND SYRUP TO MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS,

Manufacturing Chemist, Saint John, N. B. We, the undersigned, have much pleasure in recommend ing your Compound Syrup. After a fair and protracted trial of the same, we consider your preparation a very vaheable nervous tonic, for surpassing many others of considerable repute, and well worthy the confidence of the profession generally. We beg to remain, yours, very truly,

A. H. CHANDLER, M H. A. JACOBS, M. D.

Moncton, N. B., November 9, 1867. MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS, Manufacturing Chemist.

Sip-Forseveral months past I have used your Compound rup in the treatment of Incipient Phthisis, Chronic, Bron. hitis, and other affections of the Chest, and I have no heitation in stating that it ranks foremost amongst the remedies used in those diseases. Being an excellent nervous tonic, it exerts a direct influence on the nervous system, and through it invigorates the body.

It affords me pleasure to recommend a remedy which is really good in cases for which it is intended, when so many advertised are worse than useless.

I am, Sir, yours truly, S. Z. EARLE, JR., M. D. St. John, N. B., January 1848.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS, Chemist, St. John, N. B. DEAR SIE-Having used your Compound Syrup for ome time in my practice, I have no hesitation in recomending it to my patients who are suffering from general debility, or any disease of the lung strowing that even in cases utterly hopeless it affords for I am, Sir, yours truly

St. John, N. B., January 1968.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS, St. John, N. B. Six-Having, while at your Establishment, carefully ex amined your prescription, and the method of preparing your Compound Syrup, I felt anxious to give it a fair trial in my practice. For the last twelve months I have done o, and I find that in Incipient Consumption, and other di seases of the Throat and Lungs, it has done wonders. In estoring persons suffering from the effects of Diptheria, and the cough following Typhoid Fever prevalent in this region, it is the best remedial agent I have ever used. But r persons suffering from exhaustion of the powers of the orain and nervous system, from long continued study or teaching, or in those cases of exhaustion from which so many young men suffer, I know of no better medicine for restoration to health than your Compound Syrup. If you think this letter of any service you are at liberty o use it as you see fit.

I remain, yours, &c., EDWIN CLAY. M. D. Pugwash, N. S., January 14, 1868.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Land Castalot Wash Elsey Ligan has Gleening Spengers.

purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c., cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspnonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.

If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time—saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. MUSICAL DOINGS. - Since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted all his capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodeons. He has just issued a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been awarded the First Premium at several Fairs. Many peu-ple of the present day, who are attracted, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival plane houses, pro-bably overlook a modest manufacturer like Mr. Watters; but we happen to know that his instruments earned him good reputation long before Expositions and 'honers' connected therewith were ever thought of; indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' Pianos now in our residence, where it has stood for years, of which any manufactu er in the world might well be proud. We have always been delighted with it as a sweet toned and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this, some o the best amateur players in the city, as well as several cele-brated planists, have performed on the said plano, and all proncunce it a superior and first class instrument. For all the purposes of a Laxative Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have not, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it does once it does always — that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thouand all know that it dues once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pulls rapidly cure:—

the box, for the following complaints, which Pills rapidly cure:—
For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languer and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.
For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Janualice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased ciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased ction or remove the obstructions which cause it. For Dysentery or Diarrhoea, but one mild for Dysentery of Lord of the Heart, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaint disappear.

For Bropsy and Bropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and howels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.
