The Samily and the Sarm.

Boil it Down.

Somebody makes the following excellent sugges tions to newspaper correspondents and other writers : Whatever you have to say, my friend, Whether witty, or grave, or gay, Concense as much as ever you can, And say it in the readiest way. And whether von write of rural affairs, Or particular things in town, Just take a word of friendly advice-Boil it down.

For if you go spluttering over a page When a couple of lines would do. Your butter is spread so much, you see, That the bread looks plainly through. So when you have a story to tell, And you would like a little renown, To make quite sure of your wish, my friend Boil it down.

When writing an article for the press, Whether prose or verse, just try To utter your thoughts in the fewest words, And let them be crisp and dry. And when it is finished, as you suppose It is done exactly brown. Just look it over again, and then

For editors do not like to print An article lazily long, And the general reader does not care For a couple of yards of song. So gather your wits in the smallest space, If you'd win the author's crown, And every time you write, my friend, Boil it down.

> From the American Messenger Luck.

Boil it down.

Dick stood looking in the window of a giftstore. He ought to have been in his place at the office a half an hour before, but he stayed over night with Phil Barney, and over-slept himself.

"I might as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb," thought he; "I'm late anyhow, and I'll take a peep in here and finish my cigar. If I should buy any of these gift things, I shouldn't get a decent prize. I never had any luck in my life. Some folks are always in luck. There's Tom Porter. He has not been on the street any longer than I have, and his salary is raised, and he has one hundred dollars in the savings' bank. It's too bad. I've a good mind to go out West, where wages are better and board cheap."

Just then, to use Dick's language, "as bad luck would have it," his Uncle Richard, for whom he was named, and whose good-will he particularly valued, drove up in a carriage, to call on an architect whose office was over the gift store.

"What are you doing here, Dick, at half after nine in the morning? Throw away that cigar; get in my carriage, and I'll take you to the office. I want to talk with you."

The architect was out, and Uncle Richard's feet, that had been in active use sixty two years, carried him up and down the stairs and back to his seat about as soon as his eighteen year old nephew could walk from the window to the car-

"What does the savage old fellow want of Uncle Richard got in, and repeated his question, "Why are you not at your office? At your age I began my work at six o'clock by filling lamps and sweeping the store. You have one of the best places in town, and I'm afraid you'll lose it if you hang around mornings in this style. Dick, if you were not my only sister's orphan son, I'd wipe my hands of you."

"It would be just my luck, uncle, if you did." "Nonsense! Dick, don't use that word to me. It is a word of the devil's coining. There is no such thing as luck."

"You call me a lucky man, do you?" said Uncle Richard.

Dick nodded his head.

"Well, I never smoked a cigar til! I could pay for it. I didn't sleep nights with idle fellows like Phil Barney. I worked hard to learn the business, and made myself necessary to my employers. so that they would have to take me into partnership when I became a man-not with my eve on the clock and hand on my cap ready to rush for home. I wore pants a little too short for me. and coat sleeves that would not cover my wrists, and coarse boots, til! I could honestly pay for better ones. I walked when I wanted to ride, worked when I wanted to play, fasted when I wanted to eat, held my tongue when I wanted to make pert replies, got up when I wanted to lie abed, and went to bed when I wanted to sit up; and to crown all, I never felt too old to obey my mother's wishes. The devil soon got tired hanging around me, whispering about good luck. laughed in his face, and now have the reward of a life of honest, active labor, through God's bles-

"Dick, what are you going to do?" "Uncle, sometimes I think I'll go to Chicago or California, where so many young men make fortunes."

"You'll make a beggar or a thief if you do. The West is overrun now with silly fellows that are in search of luck. The men who succeed out there work just as I have done. Your luck lies in your feet and hands and head. Listen to me, Dick. Don't run after luck. It is a device of the devil to lead young men into fatal pitfalls, gambling-dens and jails."

Just then the carriage stopped. Tom Porter hurried by on his way to the bank, too busy to see Dick or any one. "Look at Tom Porter, Dick. Instead of hanging around a gift-store window in the middle of the morning, sponging cigars, and dreaming about good luck, he is hard at work learning business, and gaining the esteem of his employ

"Never say luck to me again, Dick, as long as you live."

Genius in Housekeeping. We do not know whether Thomas K. Beecher is counted among the supporters of the Women's Rights movement or not. That he is both appreciative and sympathetic over the hard work and taxed capacity of women who are truly successful as housekeepers, is clearly shown by the vivid picture and the strong words copied below. We can assure him that he will be promptly voted a very sensible and deserving man by more than balf the domestic women of the country; and they who do not care for the ballot will say "Aye," and clap their hands and wave their handkerchiefs as onthusiastically as their strongerminded sisters. Thus does he express his convictions in the true Beecher style :

I declare that the woman who is able to systematize and carry on smoothly the work of an ordinary family, illustrates higher sagacity than is called for by seven-eighths of the tasks done by Men take one trade and work at it; nother's and housekeeper's work requires a touch rom all trades. A man has his work hours, and his definite tasks; a woman has work at all hours, and incessant confusion of tasks.

Let any man do a woman's work for a Let any man do a woman's work for a single day,—wash and dress the children, having provided their clothes the night before; see that breakfast is under way to suit a fault-finding husband; the washboiler on with water for the wash, and the clothes assorted ready for washing; the dish-water heating, and a luncheon thought out for the school-goers; a nice dinner in the good

WANTED TO CHARTER.—One vessel, 200 to 500 to 500

man's dinner pail; the beds made, after proper airing; the tather's convenience exactly hit for family prayers; the systematic sweeping of the house at least once a week, and of hving-rooms once to three times a day, according to the number of men to bring in the mud; the actual washing and outhanging of the clothes; drying, sprinkling, and folding, and to-morrow the ironing of the same; the sorting and mending of them and provision of new ere the old wear out; the making of bread three times a week, with cakes and pies intercalated judiciously; pickles, preserves, and cellar stores to be laid in, and not forgotten in their season; children's manners attended to: company to be entertained; her own person to be tidied up to please his eye; the tired him to be welcomed and waited on by the no less tired her, and the home made cheerful; his trousers to be patched after he goes to bed, "so he can put them on in the morning:" the children to be helped about their studies, and reminded not to forget their Sunday school lesson; the shopping and marketing to be done for the household; repairs attended to, and matters in general kept straight around home. Meanwhile, "Papa must not be troubled or hindered about his work," because his work brings in the money; yes, man's work brings in the money, but man's work does not so tax the head and heart as woman's work

Besides all this, man is helped by many strong relishes and incentives in his labor. He is out in the world among folks. He comes and goes, and 1s refreshed in spirit; but woman works alone, and almost unknown. To please her husband and her God is possibly her only motive; and alas how many wives there be who sob in secret before their God, because they fail to win one smile or word of praise from their husbands. It is stupid and brutal for any ordinary man to be finding fault with women.

THE first class and favorite Steamship "ACADIA," LEES, Commander, and "CALEDONIA," FERRIER, me? This is just a piece of my bad luck," thought Commander, or other first-class steamships of the Line, are intended to be despatched as follows:— "CALEDONIA," from Glasgow, 4th September, for this port, calling at Halifax.

'ACADIA," from Liverpool, 8th September, for this port direct. As the proprietors of this Line have kept their steamers regularly in our trade, although at times not without loss to themselves, we feel that they are entitled to a very large share of public patronage, and we trust that our merchants will not fail to direct their shipments to come by the Anchor Line, the cargoes by these steamers being always landed

The opportunity afforded for the carrying of passengers is excellent, as we can book them at through rates from any port in England, Scotkand, or Ireland, to our city, via Glasgow and Liverpool, and the certificates issued by us are good for twelve months. CAUTION! CAUTION!

THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.

It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Solt, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspnopful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. CAUTION! CAUTION! CAUTION!

Ayer's Cathartic Pills. For all the purposes of a Laxative tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always — that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cares are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity. They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscers to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action — remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following commalants, which these ments as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Billows Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickmess, Billows Colic and Billows Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrheea, but one mild action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhoea, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rhenmatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.
