LINES

Suggested on the death of Elizabeth L. Jewett, Who died June 17th, 1868, aged 14 years and 11 months.

BY MARY E ALLEN,

Sleep! sleep in silence daughter, and take thy peaceful rest,
Safe in the arms of Jesus thou art forever blessed,
You've bid farewell to all around—inviting all to come—
To dwell above in heaven, and rest with Christ at home.

I'm going home to die no more were the last words she said,
And with a smiling countenance her happy spirit fled;
She is not dead but sleepeth, hear what the Saviour saith,
All they who sleep in Jesus will Christ bring from the grave.

Methinks I hear her speaking, dear brothers won't you come,
Cut off your sins by righteous acts and dwell with Christ at home;
To all the youth on Keswick Ridge her demise seems to say,
Prepare to meet your God, my friends, for he may come to day.

Where is my brother, Edward, among you he don't stand,
I miss'd him on my dying bed, would I could clasp his hand;
So take to him my last farewell, for with my dying breath,
I pray that he may find the Lord as he stands by my grave.

Weep not for me, dear sisters, look up beyond the cloud,
And do not think that Lizzie is all wrap't in the shroud;
No! Lizzie lives in heaven; look yonder see her stand—
"A crown upon her forehead, a harp within her hand."

Weep not for me, dear father, but kiss affliction's rod,
Remember, 'tis your Father, that's touched this tender chord;
Chastising you in kindness, in love to bring you home,—
Then, cease your weeping, father, for shortly you will come.

I never thought, dear mother, that heaven was so sweet,
I and the blood-washed millions sit close at Jesus' feet;
He's looking down upon me with such a look of love,
From where I'm sitting, mother, I never wish to move.

Then cease your weeping, mother, but don't forget to pray,
That God will in great mercy keep leading you this way;
That in this heavenly mansion, so glorious and so bright,
We'll strike the heavenly anthem, and praise him day and night!

I'll cease my weeping, darling, I know that it is wrong,
Thou art but gone before me, I'll follow thee e'er long;
I'll look beyond this darken'd cloud and gaze upon the sun,
And meekly say, my Father, on earth thy will be done.

Sleep on in silence, daughter, we've laid you down to rest,
All that speak of your features say surely thou art blest;
Thy features speak so plainly, like a seraph on the wing,
O, grave where is thy victory? O, death where is thy sting?

A Bad Fire.

"Jones, have you heard of the fire that burned up the man's house and lot?"

"No, Smith, where was it?"

"Here in the city."

"What a misfortune to him! Was it a good house?"

"Yes, a nice house and lot—a good home for any family."

"What a pity! How did the fire take?"

"The man played with fire, and thoughtlessly set it himself."

"How silly! Did you say the lot was burned too?"

"Yes, lot and all; all gone, slick and clean."

"That is singular It must have been a terribly hot fire—and then I don't well see how it could burn the lot."

"No, it was not a large fire, nor a very hot fire. Indeed, it was so small that it attracted but little attention, and did not alarm any body. The man for whom it did so much mischief saw it all the while, and thought it a little matter. A few drops of water would have put it out at any time. In fact, it often went out of itself, and the man lighted it again."

"What for, I should like to know?"

"Oh! he didn't seem to think what harm it was doing. He liked the smell of the fire and amused himself with the pretty smoke."

"But how could such a little fire burn up a house and lot? You haven't told me."

"It burned a long time—more than twenty years. And, though it seemed to consume very slowly, yet it wore away about one hundred and fifty dollars worth every year, till it was all gone."

"I cant' quite understand you yet. Tell me where the fire was kindled, and all about it."

"Well, then, it was kindled in the end of a cigar. The cigars cost him, he himself told me, twelve and a half dollars a month, or one hundred and fifty dollars a year, and that, in twenty-one years would amount to $3,150, besides all the interest. Now the money was worth at least ten per cent., and at that rate, it doubles about once in seven years. So that the whole sum would be more than ten thousand dollars. That would buy a fine house and lot even in Chicago. It would pay for a large farm in the country. Don't you pity the family of the foolish man who has slowly burned up their home?"

"Wheugh! I guess now you mean me, for I have smoked more than twenty years. But I didn't know it cost me so much as that. And I havn't any house of my own. Have always rented—thought I was too poor to own a house. And all because I have been burning it up! What a fool I have been!"

"There is still another idea."

"What is that?"

"You may live twenty years longer, and burn up another home."

"I see. I ought to leave off smoking."

"Yes, many smokers feel that they ought to leave off."

"But I mean to give up my cigars, and quit."

"Yes, I have known many to quit—the same man at least half a dozen times."

"Friend Smith, I tell you I am determined to quit once and for ever, and break myself of the bad habit. I am resolved to put out this fire, never to light it again. I won't burn up another home that my family so much need, and that I shall need in my old age, and my children after I am dead and gone."

"Well said, Jones! now I trust you will. If you are fully resolved you can, though I promise you a severe struggle. If you are not fully set in your purpose, the old habit will be too strong for you, and your second house and lot also will vanish in smoke."

The boys had better never set a fire which costs so much, and which, though it might be so easily put out, is yet so likely, if once kindled, to keep burning all the rest of their lives.—S. S. Scholar.

Prayer Answered.

During a revival in a town in central New York, two brethren of the church, on their way home from an evening meeting, were speaking of the desirableness of the conversion of another brother's wife. Before they separated they agreed to spend that night in prayer for that person. Though it was winter and the weather cold, one of these men went to his barn, and spent an hour in such intense agony of prayer, that his under clothes were wet with perspiration. Then he went into the house, and continued pleading for her conversion till 2 o'clock in the morning, when his agony for her ceased. The other brother went home and to his closet and wrestled in prayer till 2 o'clock, A.M., when his wrestling ceased. As the morning approached, each of these men determined to visit the family where the subject of their prayers resided. They arrived just at daydawn, and found the man and wife up, and the house warm. They asked how it happened, and were informed that about 10 o'clock the evening before, after the husband had retired for the night, the wife became awfully alarmed in view of her condition as a sinner against God, and called up her husband to pray for her. They continued to pray for mercy on her soul till about 2 o'clock that morning, when she suddenly became calm, and informed her husband that Jesus was precious to her soul. These christians were led by the Spirit to think of that woman, and to agree to pray for her. They were led to believe that she was one that was given to Christ, and consequently was convertable. The Spirit helped them to wrestle and conquer in prayer.—Christian Secretary.

The Righteousness of Christ.

"I am fully persuaded that one great reason why the Gospel has so little success in our day, is, because our discourses generally are so little calculated for pulling down our own and exalting the righteousness of Christ, as the alone foundation which God hath laid in Zion. Our sermons lose their savour and efficacy for salvation, if this be wanting; and I humbly think the great Apostle Paul was of this mind: Rom. vii: 16, 17. 'I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth.' And if any ask, whence comes the gospel to have such power to salvation? he immediately answers, 'For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith.'" EBENEZER ERSKINE.

THE Proprietor of PICKSTONE'S WASHING AND CLEANSING CRYSTAL, deems it his duty to caution the public against spurious imitations of his highly celebrated Washing Crystal, which is the most harmless compound extant. It is free from Lime, Vitriol, and all other deadly mixtures so common to be found amongst washing compounds. Try Pickstone's Washing Crystal, if you want ease, comfort, and economy in washing, which washes every thing, and has rapid sale.
It will be found invaluable for the following domestic purposes, viz.:—It washes all fine things, such as Muslin Lace, Crotchet Work, Baby Linen, &c.; cleaning Sponges, Combs, and Brushes; removing stains from the hands, and grease from Carpets, Cloth, Flannel, &c. It makes Hard Water Soft, and may be used with good effect in Baths, as it immediately removes all condensed perspiration from the skin. A small quantity should also be used in the foot pan. It forms a cooling and cleansing wash for the head, by dissolving a teaspoonful of the Crystal in a quarter of a pint of water; and for cleansing the Mouth, Teeth, and Gums, it is quite a luxury, by adding a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water. It renders linen beautifully white, and unlike other preparations, at the same time preserves the fabric. It contains nothing injurious to life. A child eating it by mistake, will not be injured.
If you have not used this Cleansing Crystal, lose no time in obtaining it. Nothing has ever been introduced into this country which has effected such a wonderful change upon Washing Days. It saves your time—saves your clothes—saves your money; and it does not injure the most delicate hands. Pickstone's Cleansing Crystal makes washing a pleasure, reduces the cost of fuel, the wear and tear of labor, and improves every article washed. For Linens, and heavy washes, it cannot be surpassed; for Laces, and fine fabrics, it is unequalled. It does not injure the color of Prints, but strengthens and improve them—by its use they retain their original brilliancy. Flannels become white and soft like new. White things are much improved, and keep their color, even if put by for months. Thousands of Families made happy! No misery on a Washing Day, with PICKSTONE'S Cleansing Crystal.
Sold by most respectable Grocers and Chemists, in Packets THREE CENTS EACH, sufficient for 20 Gallons of water, or Twelve for Thirty Cents, also in Boxes containing 144 Packets, price Three Dollars each. ☞ Be sure to ask for PICKSTONE'S Washing Crystal, as there are spurious imitations. Do not condemn it untried. Make one trial! PROTECTED BY ACT OF PARLIAMENT.
