TESTIMONIALS:

From Luther Whitman, Esq., proprietor of Winthrop Agricultural Works. Catarrhal, Cough, WINTHROP, ME., Feb. 13, 1872. FRANK W. KINSMAN-Dear Mr. Frank W. Kinsman—Dear Sir: I have been very much afflicted with Asthma for 7 years; the most of this time it has been very difficult for me to walk up one flight of stairs, or lie down with any degree of comfort; have tried every remedy I could hear of without much. I have been troubled with a very bad cough for forty years, and after trying almost every medicine in the market, at last despaired of ever getting rid of my cough, which at times was very severe, especially after catching a slight cold, and I could find no relief until, upon the advice of a friend, I purchased one bottle of "Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam," which, to my surprise, afforded me instant relief, and now I would not part with this medicine upon any terms and I am very happy to and this testimony to the many hundreds you have received, as I consider it a most valuable remedy. The Two Currents.

The Bosphorus is said to have two current. an upper and an under. The upper current flows from the Black Sea to the Sea of Marmora, and on into the Mediterranean, while the under current flows in the opposite direction, from the Sea of Marmora into the Black Sea, and probably through an underground channel into the Caspian. The under-current is so strong, that if a large bucket be suspended by a long rope from a boat, into the water, it will at once begin to draw the boat up stream. So that while the Bosphorus gives the appearance of moving in one direction, it is really sending a great volum of water in the opposite course. This is a most wonderful, natural phenomenon, and many theories have been advanced to explain it. But similar phenomena are occurring to the world of human society every day. Nothing seems more common in our day than for a semi-daily service between St. John P. O. Printed notices containing further information as man to have two currents in his life-an upper and an under-one manifested to the world by which the world judges him; the other hidden from the world, by it which influences his life, andby which God judges him. One of these currents gives the appearance of a smooth, placid, symmetical life, moving in the direction of honor and virtue: while the great under current of his life is really drawing him into a whirlpool of dishonesty and ruin.

The young man leaves home full of bright hopes for the future, bearing with him the consdictions and paryers of parents, the warm sympathy and love of friends. His career promises to be a fruitful one. But he takes his first dram, and starts the backward stream of his life, which will increase until it excludes every vice, ending in blighted hopes, a wrecked life and a lost soul. How often it is that merchants, doctors, farmers and even, sometimes, ministers, feed this downward stream of life by taking the viper—strong drink -into their bosom and cherishing it! They may go on smoothly confidently, for a while; but they are really going backward, further and further from God; and presently they will find themselves engulfed in ruin. This dark, adverse under-current of men's lives is explained by the fact that their lives are built upon a wrong foundation.

Water seeks its level, and the course of a stream depends upon the course of its bed's inclination. So, a man's life founded upon anything less than faith in the righteousness of the Son of God, must be a failure. The tree must be made good before it can produce good fruit, God's love must be the beacon-light to direct us through life's storms. We must first seek the kingdom of God, and then he will see that we come safely through the apposing tide.
