

EMPEROR AND CIRCUS RIDER.—The Empress of Austria deputed a relative of hers now in Paris to lay a floral crown on Emilie Loisset's coffin and to console with her family. On the 8th inst. says the London News, the obsequies of the unfortunate circus rider were celebrated in the Church of Saint Elizabeth. The number of wreaths and bouquets around the coffin was prodigious. Mlle. Loisset had made the circus fashionable, and when the Empress of Austria was at Paris she used to meet frequently the ill-fated cycleur in the Bois and ride with her. Her Majesty lectured her about the nagging way that she had of reigning in her horse, which was nervous and hard-mouthed. She recommended her to go to some wide open plain, provoke the horse to run away with her, and then, instead of holding him in, give him plenty of rein and let him until he gave in from sheer fatigue. In this way the steel would have become perfectly docile. The invitations to the funeral were issued in the name of the Prince and Princess de Reuss, the Count and Countess de Rossi and their children, and the Roux and Fromont families. All the circus company to which Emilie Loisset belonged were at the funeral mass, and the managers, actors and actresses of various theatres. Celebrated singers were engaged. At the close of the ceremony the body was taken to the St. Lazare terminus, to be conveyed to Maison Lafitte, where three generations of circus riders of the family are buried.

How pleasant it is to gaze on the innocent amusement of happy childhood! There is little Johnny playing besides the newly-painted fence. He draws his little dainty finger over the moist surface, making beautiful arabesques and decipherable hieroglyphics that would set an antiquary into hysterics of joy. Johnny's new suit is made picturesque by its borrowings from the fence, and his face and hands are effectually disguised in the pigment. Happy, careless, innocent childhood! And here comes Johnny's mother. How eagerly she seizes her darling! How closely she hugs him in her fond embrace! Now she has disappeared with her darling within doors. What are those sounds which issue thence? It is Johnny's voice. Is he laughing merrily over the remembrance of his recent sport? Possibly; but it does not sound like laughter. Again we say happy, happy childhood!

MINT COINAGE.—The coinage executed at the U. S. Mint, Philadelphia, during the month of April, aggregated 4,481,000 pieces, valued at $6,037,300. This amount is made up of 315,000 eagles, 422,000 half eagles, 750,000 silver dollars, 434,000 five cent pieces and 2,560,000 cents.

Allspice.
Bedsteads with looking-glasses overhead are things of the past. If a man cannot tell when he wakes up without looking in a glass to be sure of it, he is in a condition that cannot be helped by furniture.

When a lightning rod agent mysteriously disappears in Michigan the matter is never investigated. People are glad to have him gone, and nobody dares to hunt for him for fear they'll find him and be bull-dozed into buying a rod.

"Are girls worth anything?" is a recent high class conundrum. That depends. Some girls are worth $250,000 in their own right, and some girls aren't worth a cent of money, and yet their value cannot be estimated.

"Don't go to bed with cold feet," is the advice of a hygienic authority. How's a fellow to help it. Not one wife in forty knows enough to warm her feet before getting into bed.

Nine American colleges have adopted the Oxford cap. This is well. Heretofore about the only thing that distinguished a college student from other people had been the ball spelling in his letters home asking for money to "buy books."

A Connecticut doctor knows of thirty-one cases where young ladies have crooked their legs all out of shape by wearing high-heeled shoes.—Derail Free Press. Always go away from a house to earn the news. There are not thirty-two young ladies with crooked legs begging pardon, our attention is called and we'll finish this paragraph at another time.

Before returning to his sagacious home o' Capra, Garibaldi visited Montreal, where the entire population thronged the streets to greet him, with bare heads and in silence. They filled his carriage with flowers, and the president of the university made a brief address, saying that the heroism and suffering of Garibaldi had made Italy; to which the venerable patriot responded: "Nay, Italy was made by Italians, and when our gentle nation beyond the Alps say they made it, they lie."
