

THE DAILY HERALD.

CHARLES H. LOGAN, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
FREDERICTON, N. B., APRIL 28, 1882.

THE DAILY HERALD.

We are glad to be able to say that the sales of THE DAILY HERALD show a steady increase, although they have not yet reached anything like what they should be. However, the progress is in the right direction and as the merchants show a disposition to come forward freely with their advertising, we expect to make THE HERALD one of the institutions of the city. Fredericton ought to maintain a morning paper and it can do so if the people will take hold of it in the right spirit. It is an enterprise which is of advantage to the city in many ways. It is surely worth something to have the news of the world as early in the day as people have it in other cities, and we hope in a day or two to be able to give despatches up to the hour of going to press, that is 6 a. m. It is an additional advantage to the city to have the benefit of night telegraphing. It is of further advantage to have the persons employed in the city which are necessary to get out a daily paper. It sounds well on the street in the morning to hear the call of the morning papers. No other people in the world would be content to wait until noon for their news. What we want is that two hundred of our citizens, in addition to those who already do so, shall become weekly subscribers to the DAILY HERALD. The paper will be delivered at any place designated in the city or St. Mary's at any hour after 6 a. m. every day, Sunday excepted for ten cents a week. We ask the citizens to give this matter a helping hand. Many towns of less population in Ontario and the United States support two dailies. Moncton now supports one and is shortly to have another. Surely Fredericton can maintain one. We think it can and feel very much encouraged; but ask that any one who can will give their assistance in making the matter a success.

FREE BRIDGE.

A bridge is to be built across the South West Miramichi at Nelson. Its estimated cost is $20,000. The Government is going to build it out of the great road grant and the people of the parishes immediately benefited will not be asked to contribute anything. York County is the only place in the Province which has the distinguished honor of being allowed to choose between the toll bridge and taxation to build a free bridge. Of course Nelson has a right to its free bridge, and Victoria to its two free bridges, and Carleton to two, and St. John to one. It is all right that $100,000 should be spent in securing a bridge to the people of Moncton, and that every other large settlement in the country should be accommodated with free bridges. Toll bridges are a nuisance, so much so that the people of York would rather tax themselves to pay for a free bridge than submit to the levying of tolls; but again we ask why is there a distinction made between York and all other Counties? No answer has yet been given by the Government organs, because no answer is possible but this, that York's representative in the Government, who is the Premier and the ostensible leader, has not seen fit to insist that his constituents should be placed on a level with other parts of the Province in this respect. What other localities get as of right is conceded to York as a favor, and we are told that we ought to be thankful for half of what we are entitled to. To judge by the local Government organs we should fall down and worship Mr. Hanington because he voted for the Parliament Building here, and shout hip hurrah for Mr. Fraser because he agreed that we should have aid towards a bridge.

The Capital backs down from its statement that Mr. Burpee wanted Mr. White to run the local elections on Dominion lines, and grows exultant over the fact that the Reform party are willing to support Mr. Glasier. It will be a poor triumph to the Capital's friends to have Mr. Glasier elected, even if he is a moderate Conservative.

Our contemporary also devotes a little space to Mr. Fraser. It is careful not to deny that he will be a candidate for Ottawa, and qualifies his candidature for the local with an "if." It is tremendously taken aback because we said that Mr. Fraser will only offer for the local for the purpose of strengthening himself for the Dominion contest, and hopes that it will never hear such a suggestion again. We don't doubt it in the least. The truth on this subject is no doubt very unpalatable. It is not the HERALD, however, but Mr. Fraser who is mixing up Dominion with local politics, in taking this course.

THE "REPORTER" ON LOCAL POLITICS.

Our up-town contemporary used to affect an attitude of independent criticism towards the local Government, but has lately gone over, hook and line, to the support of that body. The curious among the good folks of the city look, with the anticipation of not a little amusement, to the quandary which our contemporary will find himself in when Mr. Fraser offers for Ottawa; and just now its political lucubrations form the comic side of the "inexpressible conflict." On Wednesday night it entered with great zest into a discussion of the importance of having men of ability in the Legislature, and called over the roll of a lot of people, both dead and living, and one could almost hear the sigh which the editor heaved as he sadly thought that the only successors of these men were to be found in the second flight of the brick building on the corner of York and Queen streets and a hard-hearted constituency refused to recognize them. Well, these things have always been, and will always be. Great lights will sometimes shine in forgotten corners, and nations refuse to recognize their services until it is too late. Yet the country has the satisfaction of knowing that in the days when these knights and judges and governors, of whom our friend speaks, were entering public life, there were wise men who shook their heads and said, "It will never do. These young fellows can never take the place of their predecessors."

Our contemporary's fancy was so aroused over the contemplation of the possible disasters which might come, not from the lack of great men, but from the unwillingness of the public to appreciate their greatness, that when it tried to get down to facts it relapsed into fiction, and informed its readers that Dr. Vail and Mr. Killam had gone over to the Government. Probably both of these gentlemen know what they have done as well as the Reporter does, and they say that they have done nothing of the kind. In King's neither Dr. Vail nor Mr. Crawford felt like forming a ticket, the former because he is not inclined to take upon himself responsibilities of that kind, the latter probably because he wished to follow the example of his colleagues in the Executive and try simply to save his own bacon. As for Mr. Killam, the Capital, we think it was, said that he and Mr. Black would be two of an Opposition ticket of four in Westmorland. This is a great deal nearer the truth than the Reporter was, although nothing has yet been decided upon in "the noble County." Mr. Killam is, however, staunch in opposition.

Our contemporary also accounts for Mr. White's gymnastics, on the absurd explanation that Mr. Burpee wanted him to run the local election on Dominion lines. This is another freak of the Reporter's imagination.

AGRICULTURE AND THE TARIFF.

Our Ottawa despatch gives an outline of Mr. Burpee's evidence before the Committee on the effects of the tariff upon agriculture. We are confident he has presented a case which will be assented to by the people of New Brunswick. There are some very broad statesman-like creatures who will say that his views are sectional; that it is necessary to take a more comprehensive view of things; and we will be treated to some generalities to the effect that, although this is all true as respects New Brunswick agriculture, still on the whole—and there will follow some observations of the most indefinite character imaginable. The great recommendation of the N. P. is the vagueness of the objects which it is going to bring about. No man has ever yet sat down and with paper and pencil figured out its benefits! Our great statesmen (?) do not descend to such things as the actualities of the present. They prefer to soar away into the realms of the imaginative and picture what the future has in store. The people of New Brunswick have been fed on this sort of political gruel for fifteen years, and have grown very thin on the unsatisfactory diet. Mr. Burpee has presented the effects of the tariff upon the agriculture of New Brunswick, and in so doing has made out a case which the upholders of the taxation policy must answer, if they hope to secure a verdict in their favor from the people. Seeing that the forty odd thousand farmers in New Brunswick are confined on every hand by this tariff, they can hardly be expected to vote in favor of the men who have placed it upon them, and by their extravagance rendered its reduction almost impossible. It is no comfort to a New Brunswick farmer to be told that somebody else is making money out of the tariff. "The greatest good to the greatest number" is a sound political principle, and the greatest number is

No. 1, in this sense, that unless each locality stands up for its own interests, no one else will. Mr. Burpee has spoken out in the best interests of the farmers of New Brunswick, and in so doing has discharged his duty as a representative.
