

SUCCESS.

At the foot of the Hill of Endeavor,
O, Young One, look upward and see
The shine of the prize
That dazzles your eyes
With the gleam of the glory to be.

Arise up in the clouds like a beacon,
Its lustre illumines the world,
And you start on your way
At the dawn of the day
With the flag of your purpose unfurled.

Youth, Hope and Ambition attend you
And the line of your march is betwixt
With the roses that bring
You the fragrance of Spring,
While the fulness of earth seems your own.

Up the steps of the Hill of Endeavor
You battle and toil and keep on
For the gift of the prize
That dazzles your eyes
At eve as it did at the dawn.

Its brilliance is always before you
To lighten the arduous way
That leads to success,
Through struggle and stress,
And crown you with laurel and bay.

At the top of the Hill of Endeavor,
Oh, Old One, look downward and call
To the brave and the true
Who are following you,
God-speed and good cheer to them all.
—Madge Merton.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

The Price of Canadian Chickens on the English Market, by Dr. Boulton, of the Canadian Produce Co.

Much has been reported and written on this subject, much of it contradictory, most of it misleading. As manager of the Canadian Produce Co., I visited England in the heart of the frozen poultry season this spring, and as I sold a large quantity of frozen chickens which I took over from Canada, I am in a position to give definite information on the subject of this article.

The prices reported as paid in England are mostly fairly tales. This fallacy as to price and size of birds desired is due to two mistaken ideas that are easily fallen into, namely, taking the English raised, fresh-killed bird as a standard and guide for imported frozen birds, the other of judging the wholesale price of any considerable quantity to be the same as that for a few dozen sold retail. Among fresh killed English birds there is a certain limited demand for large fatted birds, at retail these bring 16 to 18 cents per pound, but this demand is very limited and is fully supplied and can only be supplied by fresh killed English birds. These weigh from four pounds upward and are bought by the wealthiest class only, to whom money is no object and who will pay any price asked for what they want but will not buy anything else at any price, and in England as here, this class is a very small proportion, and they are easily supplied.

There is, however, an enormous number of the well-to-do class who, with the hotels and restaurants, want a medium sized bird, one that will make, we will say, a meal for from two to five people, that is a bird in good condition weighing from 2½ to 4 pounds, and for this class of birds there is an unlimited demand. It stands to reason that the majority of people cannot, or do not care to, spend $1.50 to $2 on one chicken for a meal, but they like chicken, and if in reach of their purses say from 45c to 75c each, they will live on them. At these prices chicken also competes with other meats.

Now the price procured at wholesale in London is about 14c per pound or a little more for first-class chicken in good condition up to four pounds in weight. The price in Manchester or Liverpool is from one to two cents per pound less. You may send a four to eight pound chicken to England, but it will sell very slowly; if you send a few only they may bring as much per pound as the smaller weights, if you send any quantity they will not. Now these prices are only for a short season, January to May, with March the best month and January and May uncertain, as they run the English poultry season close and may be poor months. Don't under any circumstances ever be induced to ship for Christmas trade, as that is the worst season in the year for anything but turkeys.

ARCHIBALD FORBES.

Last Will and Testament of the Father of War Correspondents—Beautiful
Tribute to Devoted Wife.

Archibald Forbes, the father of war correspondents, who died in London on the 29th of March, a year ago, left 140 shares of stock in the Manitoba and Northwest Loan Company, worth $1,820, and the deceased's will has been sent to Toronto to be resealed, having been probated in England. The deceased's estate was worth $55,000, and consisted also of property in New Zealand, and England. The full text of his will is: I appoint my wife, Mrs. Louisa Meigs Forbes, of the above address, and my constant friend, James Robertson, Esquire, manager of the National Bank of Scotland, Limited, London office, to be my executors, and direct that all my just debts and funeral and testamentary expenses shall be paid as soon as conveniently may be after my decease.

I give and bequeath unto my devoted and beloved wife the said Mrs. Louisa Meigs Forbes, all the property and effects whatsoever real and personal, of which I am now possessed, or of which I may be possessed at the time of my death to be at her sole and absolute disposal, in the full belief that I am acting most wisely in the interests of my dear daughters, Florence and Alice Forbes, desiring my said wife generally to retain the existing investments, except in so far as advised to the contrary by the above named James Robertson, by whose wise and shrewd counsel in financial matters I desire that she will be guided.

As regards domestic and family arrangements, I desire that my said wife and daughters shall give effect to the separate paper of memoranda, accompanying this formal will, and my final ardent hope and desires are that my said daughters shall yield constant love and implicit devotion and obedience to my said wife as they regard my memory. And I command that my funeral be quiet, unostentatious, and inexpensive, and that my body be interred in such spot as my wife shall select, in the full hope that she direct herself to be laid beside me when her time to quit this world, she has made so happy for me, shall come.

The will is witnessed by George Turner, park keeper, and Mary Gerard, domestic in deceased's family.

Archibald Forbes was born in Forayshire, Scotland, in 1838, and was educated at Aberdeen University. After an adventurous career as a private in the Royal Dragoons, he entered journalistic life in London. During the Franco-German war, as correspondent, first for the Morning Advertiser, and then for the Daily News, he accomplished some marvelous feats in the way of transmission of news. He was in the Spanish Carlist war, and in 1875 he accompanied the Prince of Wales through India. His letters to the Daily News during the Russo-Turkish war, where he witnessed the crossing of the Danube and the fall of Plevna, gained him world-wide fame. During the Zulu war, by his famous ride of 110 miles in fifteen hours, he sent the earliest account of the bloody battle of Ulundi to England. He has written a number of works on famous soldiers and soldier life. Besides owning property in Canada, Mr. Forbes visited this country several times and was well known here as a lecturer.
